FREE PUBLIC LECTURE,
THIS (WEDNESDAY) EVENING, OCTOBER 7, at 8 p.m.,
A TESTIMONY
to the present Word of God to prepare all Christian People for the Coming and Kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.
By an Evangelist serving under
THE LORD'S APOSTLES.

THIS IS A COMMERCIAL AGE.

ESSENTIALLY!
ABSOLUTELY!!
PRACTICALLY!!!

Sentiment isn't in it, philosophy is out of it. Stern rigid commerciality is the feature of the day. Whether it's a boy swopping marbles or Jay Gould making a corner in railway shares, the spirit's the same. No one cares a straw for any one else, everyone wants to get before his neighbour, and if there is anything about showing value in the way of emolument or money reward, there are a hundred people after what will hardly satisfy one. This sort of feeling has been going on for ages; the pages of history are covered with it, the records of every nation upon the earth tell the same tale, and the private life of every soul that has lived and is living, from Adam down to the babies born while this paper is being got ready for the world, shows that it is so ingrained in human nature that it's no use trying to rub it out.

BRING IT BEFORE PARLIAMENT

and ask the Government to introduce a measure for the better regulation of humanity and to bind us all in the folds of brotherly love. No, you can't do it that way; you can't legislate to hurry up the Millenium any more than you can make the lion lie down with the lamb by Act of Parliament. They (you know who we mean) may give the paupers and lunatics a vote and endow all the interesting people who inhabit her Majesty's gaols with the franchise with the view of making them good men and true, and after all the trouble these gentlemen won't be prolific of thanks—they'll go for themselves, they'll fight for their own hand, and all the former will care about will be to agitate for more 'baccy and less skilly, while the others will vote only for the benevolent creatures who don't believe in prisons, and who would let them out of durance vile.

DON'T BOTHER ABOUT IT!
as Mrs. Maclarty said,
DINNA FASH YER'SEL!!
KEEP ON MOVING!!!
MAKE GOOD LAWS!
WORK AND DON'T WORRY!!
And above all,
BUY EVERYTHING YOU WANT

WOODBARROW FARM
WOODBARROW FARM
WOODBARROW FARM,
received nightly by large and enthusiastic audiences, and pronounced by PRESS and PUBLIC to be the most delightful Comedy-Drama ever Seen in Sydney.
The reasons for its success are because "The power and originality of the author are unquestionable."
Because
"The Play is as pleasant and as symmetrical as a clean-clipped hedge in an English lane."
Because
"The Characters are natural and a romantic plot has not been able to lure the Dramatist from the field of reasonableness."
Because
"The Plot throughout abounds in humour."

Musical Instruments.

PIANOS. PIANOS. PIANOS.
Where there is such keen competition in the musical-instrument business as in Sydney, it is difficult to make up one's mind where to go for the best piano. When, however, the importer is himself a musician, that fact alone should be sufficient to decide one. A poor piano would find no use in Charles Huenerbein's Warehouse, 318 George-street. It is, therefore, certain that by purchasing here no mistake could be made. Charles Huenerbein has just opened a special class of pianos, with all the latest improvements by Lipp, Steinway, Vogel, Rubenstein, Hoff, Schmidt, Neumeyer, Leidel, Carl Hess, and Rosner. The celebrated Brinsmead pianos, for which Charles Huenerbein is sole agent, are offered for sale at English cost. The tuning and repairing of pianos is attended to under A. Huenerbein's supervision.

BUNGALOW,
ROOTY HILL.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, at 11.30 a.m.

This Property occupies a splendid position, with easterly aspect, and large road frontage, within 10 minutes of Rooty Hill Railway Station. The large Residence is beautifully situated in the centre of a splendid elevated Block of 120 acres, commanding pleasing and extensive views in all directions. This Estate in one line would make a grand country seat. The house is large and roomy, the dining-room being 30 x 20, drawing-room 35 x 16, and 9 large bedrooms, wide verandah all round, bath, water laid on, servants' room, 2 kitchens, with stove, scullery, storeroom, iron and cemented tanks for supplying water to scullery, laundry, and bath. The main tank is built of brick, cemented, and covered with iron roof, and will hold a 3 years' supply, and is connected with powerful windmill. The out-houses, coach-house, are all that can be desired. The grounds are nicely laid out with flower and fruit gardens, bush, and cleared lands. The Estate has been subdivided into 8 blocks, each containing improvements, and buyers of house will have option of taking 1 or more lots, as the property is for positive Sale.

W. A. BRODIE and CO. have been favoured with instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, George-street, Parramatta, on Wednesday, October 14, at 11.30 a.m.,
The above described property.

Plans from
BRODIE and WATKIN,

TITLE, FREEHOLD.

THOMSON BROS. have been instructed to sell the above by public auction, at their Rooms, 3 Moore-street, on THURSDAY, the 15th October, at 11.30.

NOTE.—The above property commands extensive and beautiful views of the ocean and surrounding country, and holds a premier position in the principal street of this favourite suburb. Being ABSOLUTELY FOR SALE, an opportunity is offered for obtaining a cheap property.

DELIGHTFUL MANLY.

Estate of the late T. A. STRICKLAND.

By Order of the Executrix.

"DUN AROS," FAIRLIGHT CRESCENT, a first-class residence, substantially built of stone, well finished and in sound repair. The accommodation consists of 12 rooms and outoffices as follows:—
ON GROUND FLOOR—Wide hall, 4 large and lofty reception rooms and kitchen with bedroom over, 2 pantries, extra wide verandah, 9ft., glassed in at ends
ON FIRST FLOOR—Hall, 4 large bedrooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 2 bathrooms, &c., extra wide balcony, 9ft., glassed in at one end. Detached from the house is a neat and substantial stone building of 3 rooms, laundry, man's room and cellar.
The fittings throughout are first-class, the mantels being marble.
THE GROUNDS, in area over ½ acre, are laid out in lawns, flower garden, carriage drives, &c., and have the large frontage of 267 FEET to FAIRLIGHT CRESCENT, by varying depths.
The Sydney steamers' wharf is within 5 minutes of the property.

This property undoubtedly occupies one of the choicest among the many beautiful positions in this favourite locality. From the handsome verandah and balcony as well as from nearly all the windows of the house, and also from the grounds most charming views are obtained of both ocean and harbour, Port Jackson Heads standing out prominently.

The surrounding properties comprise the handsome residences of Messrs. Murray, Dean, Sutherland, Lawrence, and others, thus ensuring a permanently select character to the neighbourhood.

THOMSON BROS. have received instructions to sell by public auction at their Rooms, 3 Moore-street, on THURSDAY, the 15th October, at 11.30 o'clock,
The above first-class residence.

Plan on view at the Rooms.

Messrs. LAURENCE, M'LAUGHLIN, and WILLIAMS are Solicitors for the Estate.

TORRENS TITLE.

PHOTOGRAPH AT ROOMS.

JOHN M'NICOL has received instructions from E. W. HANMER, Esq., to sell the Freehold of the

TE AROHA ESTATE,

situate near the
Hot Mineral Water Springs, Te Aroha, Auckland Province, New Zealand, by public auction, at MANAWARU, TE AROHA,
on the 19th day of NOVEMBER, 1891, which is being sold

TO CLOSE AN ACCOUNT.

The property consists of
An improved farm of 1186a. 3r. 28p., which has been subdivided into convenient sized paddocks, and includes a native bush, of 63a., containing useful timber for fencing and other purposes.
There is a nine-roomed house, which is delightfully situated on a rising bank overlooking the River Waihou or Thames, with a garden, lawn, and and trees surrounding it, and a beautifully-situated kitchen-garden close to the river, with an orchard adjoining.
The stabling provides accommodation for 11 horses, with harness-room attached, and there is a large barn, with rat-proof granary, implement-shed, cowshed, stock-yard, sheep-yards, &c., &c. The paddocks are well fenced with posts and wire, and laid down in English grasses.
Ornamental trees have been planted in several blocks over the property, and affords shelter and cover for stock and game, the latter comprising pheasants, hares, quail, pigeons, &c. Good duck-shooting may be had up the river.
The hot mineral water springs at Te Aroha, which have become famous on account of their curative powers for rheumatism, dyspepsia, gout, &c., &c., are distant from the property only six miles, with access by good roads.
A portion of the estate was sold and settled upon a few years ago by gentlemen of means, who have made excellent homes for themselves.
The climate is proverbially bracing, and the scenery is grand, the hills, which are distant about 2½ miles, being covered with thick native bush.
There is daily communication by rail with Auckland for letters, telegrams, and newspapers.
The property has a frontage to the fresh water river, the Waihou or Thames, of over two miles, the banks of which are studded with willows, ferns, and other growth, making it especially attractive.

A block of 2987a. 0r. 5p., partially subdivided by large drains and fences, and partially laid down in English grasses.
The unimproved portion is good alluvial swampy land, which is easily drained and brought under cultivation, and in its present condition is capable of carrying a fair number of stock.
The greater portion may be brought in by burning off and surface-sowing; and as the main drains have been made and deepened, the work of arterial drainage is comparatively light.
The improvements already effected will clearly show to purchasers the ready response this land will give when taken in hand.
Sheep and cattle have been running on the improved portion, and their condition has always shown that it is undoubtedly very healthy country for both.

A block, containing 3153a. 2r. 3p., with five miles of frontage to the river Waihou or Thames.

It is partially fenced, and is similar country to the land described above, but with the exception of several miles of fencing nothing has been done to it.

As the whole of the above properties must be sold, very easy terms of payment will be made, and no reasonable offer will be refused for the whole or any portion of them.

A CLEARING SALE
will be held,
at the same time and place,
when everything belong to the estate will be sold,
comprising
3000 to 4000 longwoolled sheep, 1000 head of cattle } if not disposed of otherwise
Horses
Implements
Household furniture,
&c., &c.

Intending purchasers will be conveyed from the township of Te Aroha on the morning of the sale, and will return in the evening.

THE TITLE TO THE PROPERTY IS UNDER THE LAND TRANSFER ACT.

LUNCHEON WILL BE PROVIDED.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE. TORRENS TITLE.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, Limited, will sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 16th October, at 11 o'clock
The above elevated land, Forest-road. (2115)

To BRICKMAKERS, SPECULATORS, INVESTORS, and Others.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.
Positive Sale, by order of the Mortgagees.

THE RED CROSS BRICK COMPANY'S WORKS, situated at MARRICKVILLE, on the tramline, close to the Park, comprising that extensive Block of Land, in area about 8 acres, having frontages
177ft. to SMITH-STREET
427ft. to VICTORIA-ROAD
770ft. to CHAPPEL-STREET
303ft. to FITZROY-STREET.
This large block of freehold land has for a considerable time been worked as a Brickyard, and is known as the property of the RED CROSS BRICK COMPANY.
On it are all the necessary buildings, plant of steam machinery, drying sheds, and kilns sufficient for carrying on this large industry on an extensive scale; and, although portions of the land have been worked for a long period, there is still sufficient clay for the manufacture of bricks for a number of years to come, at the rate of about four millions per annum.
That portion of the land fronting Smith-street, Victoria-road, and Chappel-street, having in all about 1475ft. frontage, with depths ranging from 80 to 125 ft., is available for building purposes, and should meet with ready sale if subdivided.

Plan on view at the Rooms.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, Limited, have received instructions to sell by auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 16th OCTOBER, at 11 o'clock,
The above. Terms at sale.

FUGITIVE NOTES.

Once more the apotheosis of labour has come and gone in its annual round, and every true friend of humanity must rejoice in seeing the labouring classes triumphing in their victory over the tyranny of grinding toil. But the odd thing about it is to see this celebration accompanied by an effervescent homage to the "dignity of labour." It is not merely on Eight-Hours Day that we notice this phenomenon, nor is it among the labouring classes only that we hear men speak of the dignity of labour. But among the established shams of society we are familiar most of all with the universal cant about labour being "honourable." Is labour honourable? Certainly not. Labour is a disgrace, a curse, a thing to be shunned if one could. It was a penalty imposed by the Ruler of the world on man because of a wanton defiance of the law of obedience; and do we what we may, embellish it as we please, labour is, and always has been, and ever will be, a curse. "In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread," was the humiliating doom pronounced on the cowering creature as he reluctantly wended his way from the gates of Paradise: and though man has ever since tried to make the best of it, bad is its best. Labour makes a man's face rough and his hands hard; it soils his clothes, and makes him generally unpicturesque; and though in election times men may try to flatter the workman by telling him they honour the "horny-handed" son of toil, both they and he know full well that it is all humbug, and that the honest workman would like dearly well that his hands were soft and his face smooth, and he would be only too happy if he could have his livelihood without ever bending his back to drudgery. Why, this celebration itself is not in honour of labour, but of rest from labour. It tells of the victory of the men in lopping off a portion of the primeval curse, and being enabled to spend a little more of their time in the ease and leisure which were the characteristics of Paradise before man was sent forth to the slavery of toil. And what is the ambition of even the labouring man? It is not to put together his savings, hoping that at some time in the far future he or his children may eat bread without the sweat of the brow? It is said that work is good for man, both body and mind. That is true; and it is part of the primeval curse that it should be so; and often, if a man tries to evade the necessity imposed on his nature, his liver becomes torpid and his kidneys play up with him, and he becomes a hypochondriac, and his safety is in returning to the duty that has been set him, the necessity for which has been infused into his very system. Happiness is found in labour now; and so much is this the law of our physical and mental being, in consequence of the primeval curse, that happiness without activity is to us almost inconceivable. And so when we have opportunity we choose activities of a pleasanter kind, and so seek to smother the curse in roses. But hard manual toil, like the treadmill or picking oakum or cracking bluestone in gaol, is the hardest form of the universal doom, and there is not a labouring man alive but wishes to be free from its "honourable" bondage.

One is struck with surprise at the singular simplicity that seems to find itself sometimes in the most learned minds. Sir Isaac Newton and the cat and kitten holes in his study door, loom in view at the thought. But the limitations of the human mind are not less strikingly shown in the discussion by astronomers of the question "Are the planets habitable?" The question is raised and discussed in a recent magazine, and the writer comes to the conclusion, generally held by his class, that a large part of the planetary system must be an unpeopled wilderness. Mercury must be so, he believes. Three-eighths of it are in perpetual darkness, and three-eighths in perpetual sunshine, and, being so near Old Sol, it is sunshine. In such extremes life cannot exist, he says. We might ask why? Human life, as we know it, cannot—that is sure. But surely a learned mind should not be so cramped by its surroundings as not to conceive it possible for life to be framed in a way adapted to it environment? Again, it is not possible, we are told, that the equatorial regions of Venus can admit of animal existence. They are too hot. Mars has temperatures bearing some resemblance to those of the earth, and therefore it may support some forms of animal life; but as for the remoter planets, the Asteroids are too cold for life, and Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and the rest—they are too hot in themselves, or too cold from the sun, or too inchoate or something else, so that life on them is altogether out of the question. It gives one a humiliating sense of the weakness of the human mind, when we find scientific inquiry incapable of expanding its grasp to something more than that. Such a view is about as sensible as for a Laplander in his bearskins to think that nobody can live in the heat of Sydney, or rather like the ideas of Old China about the world of the outer barbarians. If there are extremes of temperature in Mercury or Neptune or the sun itself, it was as competent to the Creator to give living beings constitutions adapted to their several temperatures as it was to give us flesh and blood to suit the heat and cold of earth; and that a doubt should enter the minds of astronomers on the subject seems to pass all understanding.

* * * * *

The capacity of Parliament for dealing with little things is not confined to New South Wales. Our controversy over lead pencils has been paralleled by the Victorian Assembly in discussing whiskers in the navy, and by the Legislative Council of that colony in fixing the titular value of Esquire; and now the Parliament of Queensland has spent part of an evening in anxiously debating the question whether or not the door leading to the refreshment-room should be locked in after-hours. It appears that leaving the door open had led to the systematic disappearance of soap and combs and brushes from the lavatory, and with the object, either of protecting honourable members from temptation, or the combs and brushes and soap from pilfering, it was resolved to keep the door locked. Such a reflection on the honour of the high court of Parliament was naturally resented as a breach of privilege. But there is an element in the incident that should prevent that honourable body from taking this so much to heart, and it is to the credit of members that it was not the whisky that was endangered, but the soap. There are vices that lean to virtue's side, and if there is any form of pilfering that ought not to be condoned, it is that arising from a weakness for soap. It is the fashion now to furnish members of Parliament everywhere with requisites, and if this amiable weakness shows itself at Brisbane, it would be the duty of those in control of the Houses of Parliament there, instead of locking the door in question, and so prematurely, perhaps, nipping the early bud of cleanliness, to place within easy reach of members an unlimited supply of soap.

* * * * *

Apropos of the subject of Parliament, it is stated, as a fact of scientific observation, that in these later ages there is a manifest diminution of jaw. The London papers, which at certain seasons of the year are given to the consideration of these curious things, have elicited this strange fact, that the jaw of civilised man is diminishing, and that if things are continued in the way they are going, by and bye there would be no jaw at all. Such a deplorable catastrophe, whatever other results came of it in ordinary life, would have a serious effect on Parliamentary debate, and unless Mr. Edison hurries up with his phonograph, or something equivalent, Hansard will be wiped out. It cannot be said exactly that our experiences confirm the observations of the London papers; indeed, we are inclined sometimes to think that there is more jaw now than ever there was in any previous portion of the colony's history. But from limited particulars, or a single particular in our own experience, we cannot generalise in this way. It may be that we have but a circumscribed field of observation, or that, from exceptional circumstances, we have aggregated together all the jaw that is going; or possibly we are witnesses to but an ephemeral development of this form of mouth disease. At any rate, it is consolatory to hope that, despite the limited data that we have, the general law will hold, and that by and bye, at some time or another, we shall have less jaw.

* * * * *

The embarrassment or collapse of building and land investment companies is undoubtedly a social misfortune. But the sufferers and the sympathisers with their sufferings, will bear with us if we present the other aspect of the shield, and that which shows itself to the world at large. Investment in land is just as legitimate as any other commercial venture, but it has certainly had an injurious effect on the interests of the general community. For it is one of the principal factors in raising the price of land to a fictitious value so that thousands of people are unable to purchase a little bit of this earth's surface for a home. If we consider the object of good government to be the greatest good for the greatest number, no one can pretend that this object is met by the artificial enhancement of the price of land until it is at such a point that thousands of people must perforce go houseless. And if we take into consideration the desirableness of affixing the population to settled homes, the public interest would surely lie in bringing back town and suburban lands from their present exorbitant values as near as may be to their prairie price. That this is shocking to those most immediately connected with the profits of land trafficking, one can well believe; but it is a fact all the same that the high price of building lots is a terrible disadvantage, if not a wrong, to the public at large. Someone at one of the meetings in connection with these company troubles, said pathetically that there were hundreds of people looking with hungry eyes at their properties, hoping that the difficulties would bring bargains. And we can well believe the truth of it, although it may be difficult to see in it any grounds of deep sympathy with the speculative land companies. If they have been mopping up lots, hoping from the painful necessities of the people to make fortunes, they can hardly wonder if the people like to see them, however unwillingly, made to disgorge; and the idea of the Government being expected to empty the public Treasury to keep up these artificial prices is something too rich to be thought of. Every right-minded citizen must feel sympathy with commercial disaster of any kind; but a good many right-minded citizens will not be unreasonably pleased to see building lots come back towards their natural values, so as to come within the reach of men with wives and children, who want to have some little corner of the surface of the earth on which to rear a shed.

When we hear so much about the brotherhood of Christians we might have expected to see a little more brotherly kindness shown to General Booth. With one exception, none of the denominations bade him formal welcome; and with all deference to them be it said, that in this they did not exhibit one bit of the spirit of Christianity. General Booth is doing a work which had been too much neglected by all the Churches to their great discredit. As a rule they have been attending to those who attend to the collecting plates on Sunday, and Christianity has become so respectable in our times that the poor shun the churches. There is a good deal of lip commendation in the way the Churches talk of the good work done by General Booth, but all the same they don't wish to rub skirts with him; and in the late visit, at least, they have walked on the other side of the street from him and his tatterdemalions. We have heard something lately of what the Saviour would do if He was here; and if we judge by resemblances in duties, it might be safely affirmed that if He had been here He would not have stood aloof on this occasion for fear of soiling His clothes; but would have shown a hearty recognition of such a notable illustration of His own old sign of divinity in His mission—"Unto the poor the Gospel is preached." POLICE.

Mr. W. Johnson, S.M., presided at the Central Police Court yesterday. Henry Jones was sentenced to two months' imprisonment with hard labour, on a charge of having stolen a clock valued at 7s 6d from the kitchen at 300 and 310 Kent-street, the property of Henry Blenkins. George Wilson, 30, was charged with having, partly by a false pretence and partly by a wilful false promise, obtained from Francis Prior the sum of 10s, with intent to defraud. Accused was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour. Thomas Brown, 26, a quarryman, on a charge of having maliciously injured a number of glasses and a quantity of liquor to the extent of £5, the property of Patrick Noonan, was fined £1 and ordered to pay £3 10s damages, in default two months' imprisonment with hard labour. Rowland Townsend was fined 20s, with the alternative of 21 days gaol, for having assaulted a constable whilst in the execution of his duty. Thomas Gordon (32), a cook, having maliciously injured a plateglass window to the extent of 20s, the property of Geoffrey Rivers, was fined £1 and ordered to pay 25s damages, or to be imprisoned for two months with hard labour. Mathew Doyle, 35, a labourer, having used threatening language in Engine-street towards John Donovan, whereby a breach of the peace might have been occasioned, was fined £1, in default seven days' gaol. May Walsh, 25, was fined £2, in default 14 days' imprisonment, for having used indecent language in Sackville-street, and on a second charge of having maliciously injured seven panes of glass, two ornaments, &c., to the extent of 30s, the property of Thomas War, was fined £2, with 30s damages, in default two months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Mr. Benjamin Lee, S.M., presided in the Charge division of the Water Police Court. Walter Fall, alias Bollo, blacksmith, was remanded until next Friday on a charge of having, in company, maliciously destroyed certain property belonging to Maud West, to wit, one toilet set, one set of Japanese ornaments, one picture, and sundry other ornaments, doing damage to the extent of £13; and was also remanded on another charge of assaulting Laura Way. A carter named Robert Wright received one month's hard labour for unlawfully assaulting George Brice. Frederick Eades and Antonius Bollers (a negro) were charged with being found in a bedroom in Bowden's Hotel, Elizabeth and Hunter streets, for an unlawful purpose. The negro hails from Victoria, where he has received 10 lashes of the cat-o'-nine-tails, and many other sentences. Eades was sentenced to seven days' and Bollers to six months' hard labour.

Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., presided at the Redfern Police Court. John Sutherland, 43, and Frank Allerton, 42, were sentenced to one month's and three months' hard labour respectively on a charge of being found on the enclosed premises of Michael Norris, Botany-road and Raglan-street, Alexandria, for an unlawful purpose, to wit, to steal. Harriet Ryan, George Austin, William Thomas, and Jessie Longman, were each fined £1 for using obscene language. Esther Margetts and John Cook were fined £1 and £2 respectively for riotous behaviour. James Mitchell, for allowing two cows to stray, was fined £1.

Mr. J. Giles, P.M., disposed of the business at the Parramatta Police Court. Florence Sullivan was fined 20s, or seven days, for riotous conduct. A number of men, charged with assaulting the police and other officers on the Rosehill Racecourse on Monday, were remanded. William Driscoll was fined 20s, or seven days, for using obscene language in the Parramatta lockup. Frederick Miller was fined 10s, or 48 hours, for drunkenness.

CHARGE AGAINST TWO CONSTABLES.

In the Summons Division of the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. George O'Malley Clarke, S.M., Inspector Alexander Mackay proceeded against Walter Mummery and Martin Killeen under 25 Victoria, 16, 12, for "that on the 19th September last, they then being constables of the Police Force of the colony, were guilty of a violation of duty as such constables in arresting and charging one Charles F. Welch with being drunk and disorderly in Elizabeth-street, at 11.5 p.m." The case was heard as a test case.

Mr. Dawson appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Crick for the defence.

Charles Frederick Welch deposed that he was a resident of Cooma, of which municipality he was mayor, and carried on business as an auctioneer. At about 11 o'clock p.m. on the 19th September he was in Elizabeth-street and saw the defendants in uniform; witness was not tipsy, nor in any way under the influence of liquor; he had never been drunk in his life; on that evening he had had two glasses of stout from about 10.30 p.m.; he had previously been drinking soda-water; the defendants came over to him and pushed him, and said "Get away out of this"; witness inquired the reason, and they replied that they had told him before; witness then told them that they had never seen him before; one of the defendants then said, "Well, we told your mate," and they then pushed him again and said "Now go on"; witness told them not to push him as he was not doing anything wrong, and handed them his card and asked them for their numbers; the defendants then pushed him into the gutter backwards, and the push was so forcible that he fell; they then arrested him and took him to No. 2 police station, where he was locked up for 2½ hours; witness was then bailed out; on the Monday morning he was charged with having been drunk and disorderly, and was discharged; witness was not in any way disorderly.

By Mr. Crick: He had had three or four glasses of ale at the racecourse and two glasses of whisky and two glasses of stout; when tried the magistrate said that he would give him the benefit of the doubt, and that he should have moved on; there was a good deal of talk about this matter at Cooma; he interviewed the Inspector-General of Police and Sir Henry Parkes about the matter; he did not say, "I will get their jackets off;" the defendants were sober; he had been in Normoyle's hotel that evening, and had had two glasses of whisky there; the constables may have asked him three times to move on, but pushed him first; a senior-sergeant took the charge at the station; witness protested; witness gave his name, but refused to give his age, occupation, and address.

Martin Byrne, a labourer, deposed that he had been with the former witness to the races; he saw Constable Mummery get hold of him, twist him round, and threw him into the gutter.

Patrick Moore saw a constable knock Welch down; he was not in any way disorderly or under the influence of liquor.

Several other witnesses gave evidence on plaintiff's behalf.

Constable Killeen, one of the defendants, deposed that he saw Welch and five or six others on the footway in Elizabeth-street, near Blackburn-street; Welch was drunk, and shouting at the top of his voice; witness and the other defendant civilly requested him three times to move on; the locality in question was low; it was the rendezvous of vile characters; they would not have arrested plaintiff had he moved on; plaintiff was staggering about the footpath.

Senior-sergeant William Elliott, stationed at No. 2 Police Station, deposed that he received the charge against plaintiff on the 19th instant; Welch was drunk; witness refused to allow him bail, as he was not fit to be let out, and told the bondsmen to come to the station at 2 o'clock the following morning.

The magistrate said that he was of opinion that the constables had not violated or exceeded their duty, and he therefore dismissed the case.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—Tuesday, October 6.

In Equity.—(Before His Honor Mr. Justice Owen, Chief Judge in Equity.)

PROUDFOOT AND ANOTHER v. DALGETY AND CO. (PART HEARD.)

Mr. Want, Q.C., Mr. Walker, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. L. Owen, instructed by Messrs. Levy, Hemsley, and Perkins, appeared for the plaintiff; and Sir Julian Salomons, Q.C., Mr. Pilcher, Q.C., Mr. A. H. Simpson, and Mr. Knox, instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Minter, Simpson, and Co., for the defendants. Since the institution of the suit, Alexander J. Smythe, formerly one of the plaintiffs, had been made a defendant, and David Proudfoot, another of the plaintiffs, had died, leaving George Proudfoot the remaining plaintiff. This was a summons calling upon the defendants to show cause why the Master's certificate, dated August 19, 1889, should not be varied.

The particulars of the case have already appeared. The reading of evidence taken before the Master was continued, and was unfinished.

SINGLE v. SINGLE.

Mr. Tarleton appeared for the plaintiff, Ann Single, and moved for an interim injunction to restrain her brother, Charles Walker Single, from selling or otherwise transferring certain land which she claims to be her property. Plaintiff's case was that she was the owner of 160 acres of land near Penrith, and employed her brother to sell 10 acres to a person named Outram, and to do all things necessary for the purpose of completing the title. Defendant informed her that in order to do this it would be necessary for plaintiff, as a matter of form, to convey all her right, title, and interest in the entire 160 acres to him. Believing his statement, she thereupon executed the conveyance of the 160 acres. Shortly afterwards defendant conveyed the 10 acres to Outram, and plaintiff believed that the purchase-money had been paid to defendant, who, however, had not handed it to her. On many occasions she asked her brother for the reconveyance of the balance of the 160 acres, but was unable to obtain it, and she learned that in September, 1890, defendant had executed a mortgage of the land to David J. Watt to secure an advance of £200 and a subsequent advance of £50, and she was subsequently informed that in fraud of his trust he had entered into a contract with one Hutchinson to sell the land to him for £1100. Hutchinson upon hearing that the ownership of the land was disputed refused to complete, and it had since been announced that the land was shortly to be sold by auction. Plaintiff, therefore, asked for an injunction to restrain defendant from selling or otherwise dealing with the 150 acres of land.

An interim injunction was granted until next Friday with leave to serve short notice on the defendant.

Equity Chambers.—(Before Mr. Justice Owen.)

EXCELSIOR GOLD AMALGAMATOR COMPANY, LIMITED.

Mr. Rich appeared for the official liquidator in support of a summons for a seven day order against John Dennis and Richard W. Taylor for calls due to the company, which is now in process of winding up. All the contributories except those named had paid up.

His Honor granted the order, with £3 3s costs against each respondent.

RE THE AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL INVESTMENT AND BUILDING COMPANY, LIMITED, AND THE COMPANIES ACT.

Mr. Tarleton, for Mr. Hanbury Davies, stated that the petition for the winding up of the company, which had been filed by Thomas Saywell and wife, was, by consent, withdrawn.

NEW MOUNT COSTIGAN SILVER-MINING COMPANY.

Mr. Rich appeared for the petitioner, and said that a petition had been filed for the compulsory winding up of the company. A resolution was carried some time ago for the voluntary liquidation of the company, and Mr. Gallagher was appointed liquidator. The petitioner who is a creditor of the company desired that there should be a compulsory winding up by the court. Gallagher had since left the colony, and the company possessed no registered office.

His Honor directed the usual notice to be served upon two directors whose addresses were known.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before the Registrar, Mr. Arthur Henry).

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

Re John Wesley Goodsell. Mr. Bucknall, for the official assignee, applied for a week's further time to file the report. Mr. Levy appeared for the bankrupt. The official assignee was allowed until Friday to file the report.

Re Enoch Hughes. Adjourned for a fortnight to allow the bankrupt to answer the report of the official assignee.

Re Henry Charles Everill. The Registrar said he believed this bankrupt was out of the colony, and he could not hear the application unless he was in the colony. Adjourned to October 20, affidavit in reply to the report of the official assignee to be filed by October 16.

Re George David Hilder. The Registrar said that this matter was in the list too soon. He had suspended the certificate in a former bankruptcy for six months, and the time had not yet expired. Adjourned for three weeks.

Re Daniel Joseph Frazier. The bankrupt did not attend, nor did he attend his single meeting. Adjourned to November 17.

Re James Smith. On the application of Mr. Goodfellow, for the bankrupt, the matter was adjourned until October 27, the answer to the report of the official assignee to be filed by October 22.

Re James Firbank. The affidavit in reply to the report of the official assignee had not been filed, and the matter was adjourned for a week.

Re John Mark Michael Green. Mr. Rich appeared for the bankrupt. The affidavit of the bankrupt set out that he was a farmer, and that he was enabled to understand his financial position by memoranda in a pocketbook. The Registrar stated that the Judge had held that it was necessary for a farmer to keep books. Adjourned to October 20 to allow bankrupt to amend his statement of affairs, and to give particulars as to a bill of sale.

Re Thomas William Simpson. Adjourned to November 10. Affidavit in reply to the report of the official assignee and proper accounts to be filed by November 5.

Re James Maher. Adjourned to November 10, the answer to the official assignee's report and the statement of affairs to be amended by November 5.

Re Samuel Downes. Adjourned for a fortnight to allow of the costs, charges, and expenses being paid.

Re George Ritson. Adjourned for a week to know what had become of the bankrupt's books.

Re Thomas Aloysius Bourke. The certificate was ordered to issue in this matter.

HEARING OF CREDITORS' PETITION.

Re James Campbell and Sons v. Catherine Mary Agnes Johnson. Mr. Piddington appeared on behalf of the petitioning creditors, and stated that this matter came before the Judge in Bankruptcy on October 1, when the hearing was set down for that day. The respondent had been arrested and was still under arrest. The act of bankruptcy was that an adjudication order was made against the respondent on September 10 last in Queensland, and she had not received a certificate of discharge.

The Registrar: Has she any assets in this colony?

Mr. Piddington: She has a considerable sum of money; a cheque for £250 was found on her.

The Registrar: That will go to the trustee in Brisbane.

Mr. Piddington: The trustee in Brisbane, as attorney for the petitioners, signed the petition.

The Registrar: I cannot see what good it will be to them; nothing will come to the official assignee here.

Mr. Piddington: I am informed that the money is in the bank.

The Registrar: Yes, the bank of New South Wales; but you have an injunction restraining the bank from paying it to her. I do not suppose it will do anyone any harm, if it does no good. I will make the order if you ask for it.

The order was made, and Mr. Morris appointed official assignee. The date of bankruptcy was fixed as September 10.

SINGLE MEETINGS AND EXAMINATIONS.

Re George Halger Gommeson. The examination in this matter was adjourned until October 13, as the accounts had only been filed that day.

Re Daniel William Campbell. The examination was adjourned until October 13.

Re Robert Smith. The examination was declared concluded.

Re James Watson. The bankrupt attended, and stated that he was a dyer; his bankruptcy was caused by the falling off of his business owing to incompetent and drunken dyers. The examination was declared concluded.

Re Newton Bungay. The bankrupt stated that he had filed a correct statement of his affairs; the furniture in the house at Petersham belonged to his children, they bought it; he was stopping with his daughter. The examination was declared concluded.

Re Charles Henry Ducros. Adjourned to October 13.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 30.

Re Henry Spring. The bankrupt was examined by Mr. J. L. Campbell. He said he had been brought back from New Zealand under a warrant; he gave a bill of sale to John Murray Prior, and he was being pressed by Baner Brothers and Co.; this was the only financial difficulty he was in; he left Sydney on Saturday, September 13, 1890, and he went direct to New Zealand; he landed on September 18; the crew told him that the vessel left on a Saturday; he did not know when he went on board; he did not know how he got there; he was unconscious when he went on board; he did not come back because he had no means, and was ashamed; he found that he had the ticket in his pocket when he was on board the steamer; he did not know that he told someone that he was going away; he did not tell his father; he took nothing with him to New Zealand, and he had nothing sent to him; he was away six or nine months before he let his wife and father know where he was; he had not yet filed his statement of affairs; his goods were sold and bought in by an agent for his father; he took the name of Clark in New Zealand; he did not know that this was the name that the ticket was taken out in at Sydney; he did not think it was taken out in any name; he had never used the name of Clark before he left Sydney, and he did not know that pawn tickets in the name of Clark were seen in his possession; he was in the habit of buying pawn tickets; he was unconscious for six hours after going on board the steamer for New Zealand; when he became conscious he asked where the steamer was going to; he remembered receiving two diamond rings for Mr. Ungerer, but he did not remember telling him that he sent them up country; he had no rings to send up country; he remembered getting the rings for Moran, a jockey; he thought it was a few days before he left that he got the rings; he did not know what he did with the rings; he might have sent them up the country, but he did not think he did; he did not pawn the rings, and no one pawned them for him; he kept his own books; he landed in Auckland with 19s in his possession; he recovered consciousness on the boat; he did not give any instructions to any one to look after his business while he was away; he did not remember telling anyone that he was going away because he had no money to meet his monthly accounts; he wrote over from New Zealand about a month before he was arrested; he saw Pickering a month before he was arrested in New Zealand; he had no communication with his family until he saw Pickering, nor did Pickering bring him a message from his father; he told witness to write home, and he did so. Henry James said he saw a number of pawn tickets at bankrupt's place of business. The total amount indicated on the pawn tickets was about 20s. Charles O'Connor was also examined; and the examination was adjourned to October 15.

SEQUESTRATION ORDERS.

Robert Colquhoun, of Cooma. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.
Nicolai Christensen, of Nambucca Heads. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.
Henry Cross, of Bungay, Manning River, farmer, Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.
Thomas Gordon, of Marulan, miner. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.
Francis Dareby, of Hay, drover. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.
Harriet Jones, of Albury, widow, boardinghouse-keeper. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.
James Ellis, of Eureka, labourer. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.
John Lilley, of Nymagee, labourer. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.
Richard Smith, of North Hill, Forbes, labourer, Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.
Thomas Twaddell, of Mount Macquarie, near Carcoar, farmer. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.
Richard Hicks, of Port Macquarie, wheelwright. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.—Tuesday.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice Manning.)

Mr. W. H. Coffey prosecuted on behalf of the Crown.

JURORS FINED.

The following jurors were fined 40s each for non-attendance, and if they fail to appear the following day they will be fined £5 each:—Herbert William Lindeman, wine merchant, Albert-parade, Ashfield; William Clark, stock and station agent, Victoria-street, Ashfield; William Brierty Garland, householder, 100 Great Buckingham-street, Redfern; William Moran, publican, 115 Cumberland-street, Sydney; Charles Allingham, gentleman, Palace-street, Petersham.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Mary Ann M'Donald was charged with feloniously slaying Benjamin M'Donald, an infant, on the 18th August last. The accused was undefended, but Mr. Teece consented to watch the case on behalf of the defendant. The facts as stated for the prosecution were that about the beginning of April last the accused gave birth to a child. Soon afterwards she took to drinking and neglected the child. It died on the 18th August, and a post-mortem examination showed that it had died from starvation. Neighbours had warned the accused that she should take better care of the child, but without effect. After hearing evidence, the jury returned a verdict of "guilty of manslaughter," with a recommendation to mercy, on the ground that the prisoner's husband, by his habits, had contributed to her downfall. His Honor, in passing sentence, said it would be for the good of the prisoner herself, as well as of society, that she should be confined in a place where she would be kept from intoxicating liquors for some time. The sentence on the prisoner would, however, be a lenient one—namely, 12 months' hard labour.

ALLEGED INFANTICIDE.

Jessie Batty was charged with murdering her female child on the 6th of September. Mr. Colonna Close appeared for the prisoner, instructed by Mr. R. D. Meagher. The facts, as alleged for the prosecution, were that prisoner, on the 28th August, entered the service of Mrs. M'Leod, Erskine-street. Subsequently Mrs. M'Leod's suspicions were aroused, and she went to the police station, where she was advised to have the girl admitted to the Benevolent Asylum. On the 5th September she left the M'Leod's house with a bundle wrapped up in a mackintosh, and went to stay at a Mrs. Elie's boarding-house in Sussex-street. About 6 o'clock the same night she went out, saying she was going to Waverley. On the following day the dead body of the child was found in Hyde Park. Accused was subsequently arrested, and then stated that the child had been taken by a woman to Melbourne.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was acquitted.

METROPOLITAN QUARTER SESSIONS.
Tuesday.

(Before his Honor Judge Fitzhardinge.)

Mr. W. L. Merewether prosecuted on behalf of the Crown.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

Seymour Richards was charged on three counts with embezzling cheques for £10, £5, and £20, belonging to John Bell, of the Pyrmont Butchery Company, Harris-street, Pyrmont. The accused had been employed to go round the shipping in the harbour obtaining orders. It was alleged that he had, without permission, collected certain sums due to the company and appropriated them to his own use.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD.

John James Litman and David Crabbe were charged with conspiring to defraud William Benjamin M'Farlane, at Sydney, on September 4, of £60, by trying to raise that sum on the deed of a house and land in Hobart, which they alleged to be theirs. Mr. Levien appeared for Crabbe, the other prisoner was undefended. After hearing evidence the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoners were discharged.

CASES FOR WEDNESDAY.

William Burnett, unlawful assault; Annie Young, larceny; Alexander Morrison, unlawful assault.

JURORS FINED.

The following jurors were fined 40s each for non-attendance: William Farley, contractor, Summer Hill; John Wilson, draper, Goulburn-street, Sydney; Alexander M'Ilrick, stonemason, Queenscliffe, Manly; and Francis P. Warner, builder, Emma-street, Leichhardt.

THREATENING THE PREMIER'S LIFE.

Henry Madore, alias "Harry," on remand, was charged before Mr. Lee, S.M., at the Water Police Court, yesterday, that "he did, on or about the 21st April last, maliciously cause to be received by Sir Henry Parkes a letter threatening to kill the said Sir Henry Parkes, the said 'Harry' knowing the contents of the letter, as follows:—'21st April, 1891. Sir Henry Parkes, K.C.M.G., G.C. I beg to signalise you that I have this day formed the conclusion of your destiny; your doom is sealed, and await results. You shall be killed on the 17th May, 1891.'"

Mr. Wilshire prosecuted, and the prisoner defended himself.

Constable Plungge stated that he arrested the accused at Dubbo on September 23; accused was brought to the court the same day, and remanded until the 25th, and then again to Sydney.

Theresa Buckley, barmaid at the Great Western Hotel, Bourke, knew the prisoner; when witness was employed at the Royal Exchange Hotel, Peak Hill, the accused had one night in the bar asked her for some notepaper and an envelope; after writing accused asked her if she knew the Premier's address, to which witness replied in the negative; witness afterwards saw the words "Colonial Secretary's Office" written on the envelope; the name of the hotel was on the back of the envelope; accused had been drinking at the time.

Sir Henry Parkes said he had received the letter produced, and had opened the envelope himself; the letter had come by post; he had handed the letter over to the police.

John Cassolly, warder in Darlinghurst Gaol, knew the prisoner in gaol; prisoner had asked him on the 30th September for some notepaper, which he had given him. The paper produced (to identify prisoner's handwriting), which is a letter to a friend, is the same.

Prisoner was committed to take his trial at the next Central Criminal Court.

LICENSING COURT.

Messrs. Whittingdale Johnson, S.M., and J. Graham, L.M., presided at the weekly meeting of the central division of the Licensing Court, held at the Central Police Court yesterday.

PARLIAMENT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6.

The SPEAKER took the chair at half-past 4.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Mr. BRUNKER, in answer to Mr. Allen, for Mr. Morton, said the Acting Crown Solicitor had given an opinion on the claim of Isaac Barclay, the substance of which would be conveyed to the hon. member in the course of a week.

Mr. YOUNG, in answer to Mr. Perry, said officers understood that it was their duty to call tenders and let work for unexpended roads and bridges votes unless there were special reasons in any particular case which rendered it undesirable.

Mr. GOULD, in answer to Mr. Allen, for Mr. Jeanneret, said inquiry was made of the Attorney-General as to whether he had any knowledge of the case of a prisoner serving a sentence of two years' imprisonment in Darlinghurst Gaol for perjury, and he was informed that the matter had not been brought under his notice. The papers were since forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police for report, and such report would be submitted to the Attorney-General for his consideration as to whether any prosecution should take place or not.

Mr. YOUNG, in answer to Mr. Houghton, said the cost of the bridge over Beckett's Creek, between Parramatta and Granville, including extras, was £2197 1s 4d. D. M'Gill and Sons were the contractors, and Isaac Palmer was the inspector of the work. The Department had not received any report of the partial collapse of the bridge, but it was reported that there were a few cracks, due to settlement, in the Granville abutment. The bridge was safe at present. No faulty workmanship had been reported to the Department. A slight settlement had taken place owing to the nature of the bottom on which the abutment was founded.

Sir HENRY PARKES, in answer to Mr. O'Sullivan for Mr. Chapman, said he could only say at this moment that the disturbance which had taken place in societies trading in exchange had attracted the notice and the serious attention of the Government. A measure would be introduced on the question; but whether they would appoint a commission to specially inquire into insurance offices was a question which he could not now answer.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH, in answer to Mr. Walker, who asked, had he taken any steps, in view of the financial troubles of New South Wales, to make it widely known in England that our wool crop for the season was estimated to the value of 11 millions sterling, said he did not think that anything was to be gained now by giving publicity to the facts the hon. member suggested.

Mr. YOUNG, in answer to Mr. Alfred Allen, who asked when it was proposed to remove the Randwick tollbar, said, as already explained, it appeared that a loan had been raised by the Randwick municipality on the security of the tolls. Until, therefore, the Randwick Council made arrangements for the retirement of the debentures, the Government could not in justice assist in passing an Act for the abolition of the tolls.

MAINTENANCE ORDER AGAINST A PAUPER.

Mr. HOUGHTON said he wished to draw the attention of the Minister for Justice to what he considered was a case of great hardship. Some time ago an old man named Robert Young, 61 years of age, was taken from one of the benevolent asylums at Parramatta and lodged in gaol, for disobeying an order of the Court for the maintenance of his wife. He had communicated with the Minister on the subject, and he had been good enough to cause inquiries to be made. It then appeared that the man had been committed to the asylum on the certificate of two medical men as being a victim to rheumatism and being too old to earn his living. He had asked the Minister to explain in what way that unfortunate man could obey the order of the Court, and the Minister had replied that he was unable to interfere in the case. If Young was unable to pay he should have the order quashed or varied. Unfortunately the man was in gaol and had no friends, and he would therefore ask the Minister if he could not make any other decision in the case.

Mr. GOULD said every man was unfortunate who got into gaol, even for disobedience of an order for maintenance of his wife. The case was one in which a man had been summoned for wife desertion, and an order was made for the payment of a certain sum weekly. That order was disobeyed, and the defendant was then proceeded against for disobedience, and the usual order was made that he should be imprisoned till the order of the Court was obeyed or else varied or quashed. He failed to see how the Government could interfere in a case of that nature. If the Government ordered the discharge of every man sent to prison for wife desertion the Government would have to provide for the payment of the orders. The man could have the order varied or quashed if he saw fit to take the necessary proceedings. It would not cost very much to enable the application to be made, and it would have been better if his friends had subscribed the few pounds necessary instead of bringing the case before Parliament.

Mr. CANN: Burnett was released though.

PETITION.

Mr. LONSDALE presented a petition from residents on the Guy Fawkes, Armidale, and Grafton roads, New England district, praying that the electoral boundaries of the Armidale electorate, as far as concerned their district, might be allowed to remain as at present.

The petition was ordered to be received.

PARLIAMENTARY SESSIONS BILL.

Mr. COPELAND moved the second reading of a bill to make provision for fixing the commencement, and limiting the duration, of future sessions of Parliament, and for providing for the unfinished work of any session in certain cases being proceeded with in the next ensuing session of the same Parliament. He said the bill simply consisted of two parts, the first of which made provision for the commencement, and for limiting the duration, of each session of Parliament. They had hitherto had no time fixed for the duration of sessions, but there was such a rule in every Parliament in the world except those in Australia. It was just as desirable to fix the commencement and duration of the sessional meetings of the Parliament as of the diurnal meetings, or that of the duration of the whole Parliament. Members with other work in addition to their Parliamentary duties would find it a great convenience to know the exact time when Parliament would be sitting. He did not think five months was too long a recess seeing that they had seven months of almost continuous labour. In most European countries the matter was provided for in the Constitution Acts. In the Argentine Republic—(hear, hear)—the Sessions were fixed at five months from May 1. In the majority of the countries where no rule was laid down in the Constitutions the sessions were held as far as possible in the winter months. The sessions of Parliament in Great Britain were not fixed by law, but a custom had grown up of sitting from the first or second week in February for six months. Men who were not burdened with a superabundance of riches could not afford to sit in Parliament all the year round, and, therefore, we must lose some of our best Parliamentarians unless some such a step as he proposed was taken. In Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, France, Hungary, the Netherlands, and many other countries the duration of the session was fixed by the Constitution. In the United States, a country to which they often looked, and were apt to be guided by, the Federal Parliament commenced on the first Monday in December, and continued sitting until March 4. The Congress, however, was divided into two sessions, the first of which commenced in December, but it was not imperative when it should close; and the second of which must close on March 4. It might be thought that great inconvenience would arise through the session terminating abruptly. He was not of that opinion. If Parliament sat for 99 years there would always be business on the paper. No great inconvenience was felt from the close of Parliaments, and he was convinced no inconvenience would arise from the fixed termination of the session of Parliament. There ought to be a fixed beginning and a close of each session, if only that members might know when they would have leisure for attention to their private business. In almost all the State legislatures of America the sessions were determined in this way:—The average limit was about 60 days, the extremes being about 40 days and 90 days. In the eight States which were the last to join the Union the duration of the Parliamentary sessions was 66 days, and that was a point which the House ought to give some attention to. In the bill which he had prepared it was provided that in the case of war or any other extraordinary emergency special sessions might be convened, and if that provision had not been made the objection could be taken that no matter what difficulty arose, the Government would not be able to call Parliament together before the stated time. But apart from that, he asked if it would not be a good thing in the interests of government for Ministers and members to look forward to a period of respite from Parliamentary duties, and in which work could be prepared for the next session. As things were, Ministers had absolutely no time in which to attend to the higher duties of statesmanship, and that was to be regretted. The time he had mentioned as the duration of the session was seven clear months. That was long enough for any Parliament to sit—(hear, hear)—but if hon. members chose to take in another week or two he would not object. If Parliament met in April and sat until the middle of November the strain was quite severe enough. If the session was longer, hon. members became unfitted for legislative work. In the second clause he had made provision for saving the labour of previous sessions, and on motion without debate a member might at his option restore either a private or a public bill to the stage it had reached before the prorogation. This only applied, however, to succeeding sessions of the same Parliament, for he did not think it desirable to carry business forward from Parliament to Parliament. The bill was a simple one, and one that could be easily understood by every hon. member. It was just as desirable to apply common sense to these matters as to the ordinary events of life. No injury could arise, as provision was made for an emergency session. If members wanted to go away during the recess they would know what time they had at their disposal. As we were making progress in the rate of travelling members might be able to go away to the old country. If the House knew that it had to close its work by a certain time it would be able to get through it much more expeditiously, and the bill altogether would be for the good conduct of the House.

Sir HENRY PARKES said that the conclusions to which the hon. gentleman had come must meet with the concurrence of almost every hon. member. Most gentlemen would admit that a period of seven months in the year was quite long enough in which to transact the legislative work of this or any other country. Most gentlemen would agree that it would be an exceedingly good thing if they could apply the rule of common sense to their business; but whether the hon. member's bill would enable them to arrive at this conclusion was another matter altogether. For himself he was desirous of the business being concluded not simply in seven months but in five, because he contended that the wholesome rule which prevailed in England until recent years, of Parliament sitting only the less half of the year, was a sound rule. He would be quite satisfied, if it could be done, that Parliament should sit less than seven months.

Mr. COPELAND: This bill would not prevent Parliament sitting a less time.

Sir HENRY PARKES: But it seemed to him merely to indicate that Parliament should meet at a given time and close its proceedings at a given time would in no sense remedy the evils from which they now suffered. Suppose that were the case at the present moment, and they had only seven months in which to make the different laws required for the country. It was quite clear that it would be impossible to transact the business which was cast on this one session—it would be impossible for them to enact the measures that appeared to be urgently wanted. Again, suppose the estimates were up for consideration, and there was a party strong enough not to outvote the Government on them, but to obstruct them until Parliament came to a legal termination. What would be done then?

Mr. COPELAND: You have got the closure.

Sir HENRY PARKES: But surely they were not legislating in view of adopting the closure. The closure was an admitted evil—an evil which should not be resorted to on light occasions, or on any occasion that could be avoided. They had seen a condition of things there and a condition of things in the House of Commons, when a small party could obstruct business, and thus a session might terminate without supply being granted for the public service. The true principle of Parliament was to transact needful legislation, and then to go into Committee of Supply; to give fair opportunity for the discussion of the enactment of the Appropriation Bill before the expiration of the legal provision. One strong objection against the bill was that he objected to Parliament encumbering its action in any way. He objected to Parliament prescribing a law under which it must meet at such a time or terminate its sitting at such a time. The exigencies of Parliamentary life ought to be determined by the conduct of Parliament. This bill was not based on any example that could serve for our guidance. He did not think that the Argentine Republic, or Mexico, or Belgium should be taken as examples. As far as the United States was concerned, too, they should remember that it was more a Presidential Government than a Republic. The only authority they had to go upon was the great authority of the House of Commons, from which every party Government on the face of the earth had emanated. It would be a dangerous thing to try and prescribe such rules as these. They would be found to be unworkable in the proceedings of Parliament. Still, he appreciated the hon. member's motives—if he would permit him to say so. He was sure that the hon. member wished to regulate the business of the House so as to allow more time to members, and so that their duties should not be continuous. Certainly they had had sessions sufficient to break down the stamina of any man, and they had been held in the most unfavourable part of the year. To show what little attention was paid to mere resolutions of the House, many years ago Mr. Fitzpatrick moved and carried a motion that Parliament should assemble not later than May every year, but that resolution had been absolutely disregarded. It had had no weight whatever. Suppose the bill became law, it would only be galling on the independent action of the House, and lead to difficulties and crises which ought to be avoided. The second clause, however, contained provisions which might be adopted by the House. The bill proposed that if proceedings were in committee or bills had come up to, say, a third reading, they should be resumed in the next session of the same Parliament if the persons interested desired it, and made a motion to that effect. That portion of the bill might be accepted without injury to anyone, but this provision of fixing the time when the House should meet, and when its business should terminate, would never be consonant with our form of government. He should therefore not vote for the bill unless this first clause was omitted.

Mr. DIBBS said he was quite in accord with the views of the Premier, and if the hon. member would give the assurance suggested they might let the bill pass. As to the second clause of the bill, he thought it was desirable that a bill which had been partly dealt with in one session should be completed in another if it was a session of the same Parliament. In the first clause his hon. friend was providing for the short time that must elapse when the present Premier would be on the Opposition side of the House, and he wanted to prevent that hon. gentleman from causing another 13 months' session. When he (Mr. Dibbs) was in a Government, they were compelled to sit out 13 months because Sir Henry Parkes was leading the Opposition.

Sir HENRY PARKES: What authority has the hon. member for saying that? I was not here at all.

Mr. DIBBS: I can turn up Hansard and prove that you were here most of the time.

Sir HENRY PARKES: I was not.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN: The hon. member might not have been here in body, but he was in spirit.

Sir HENRY PARKES: It does not matter whether I was here or not.

Mr. DIBBS: For once he agreed with the Premier. The Opposition during the last four years had been so kind to the Government that no act of theirs had obstructed the Government, and they had given the Government their Estimates in three or four evenings to enable them to close the session at a certain time. He thought they might pass the second clause, as it was of some value.

Sir HENRY PARKES: I desire to put myself right——

Mr. DIBBS: I shall look up Hansard if you do.

Sir HENRY PARKES: I left Sydney on July 12, 1883, and I returned to Sydney on August 29, 1884.

Mr. DIBBS: What were you doing from January to July, 1883?

Mr. COPELAND said it was an unusual circumstance when they found the leader of the Opposition for once agreeing with the Premier. He thought that half a loaf was better than no bread, but he had not heard any logical argument why the whole of the bill should not be passed. In these modern days they had to limit all kinds of things. They limited the transaction of business to six days of the week, and they placed restrictions on all kinds of people, and he did not see why they should not have a restriction on their own selves. The Premier had drawn attention to the passing of the Estimates, but he could not see any objection. If the Opposition knew that by prolonging a session at the end they might have to be called together for an emergency session, they would not prolong it. Hon. members should know that they were limited to time, and that they had to do seven months' work in seven months' time. If they passed a motion on this matter it would only last one session. That was why he desired to have an Act of Parliament passed into law. The House of Commons was as regular in its meeting as they would be if the bill were passed into law. They met regularly every year, and were very regular in closing. So they were in Victoria, where they met to a day every year and closed at the same time. The average sitting in Victoria was 75½ days. In 1883 the Parliament of Victoria sat for 67 days, and in 1886 it sat for 84 days; but with those exceptions they had sat with great regularity. In 1884 they sat 75 days, in 1885 76 days, 1886 76 days, and 1887 75 days, working almost as if by machinery. (Sir HENRY PARKES: "Hear, hear.") He knew that was an argument against the bill, because if Victoria did it without an Act of Parliament, why, it might be asked, should they not do it? But they might pass an Act of Parliament and be in advance of Victoria this time. He would like to take the second reading of the bill, and then immediately take a vote on the first clause and let it go. If the House approved of it let the bill pass; if it did not, then they could pass the second clause.

The motion was agreed to on the voices, and the bill was read the second time.

The House then resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clause 1, "From and after the passing of this Act Parliament shall be convened for and shall commence its session on the second Tuesday in the month of April in each year; and such session may continue to but shall not extend beyond the second Thursday in the following month of November. Provided that, in case of war or other extraordinary emergency, which in the opinion of the Governor in Council shall warrant the calling together of Parliament, an 'emergency session' may be convened; but, save and except in the case of such emergency session, Parliament shall not continue to sit for the transaction of business after the second Thursday in the month of November, nor meet again until or before the second Tuesday of the month of April in the following year."

Mr. COPELAND said that as a kind of compromise, and with a view to carrying out the suggestions of the Premier, he would move the amendment of the clause so as to confine it to the date at which the session shall commence. He moved the amendment of the clause by the omission of certain words so as to make it read:—"From and after the passing of this Act Parliament shall be convened for, and shall commence its session, on the second Tuesday in the month of April in each year. Provided that, in case of war or other extraordinary emergency, which, in the opinion of the Governor in Council shall warrant the calling together of Parliament, an 'emergency session' may be sooner convened; but save and except in the case of such emergency session, Parliament shall not meet again until or before the second Tuesday of the month of April in the following year."

Mr. BRUCE SMITH contended that even if the clause were amended in that respect it would operate so as to seriously interfere with the business of the country.

Mr. COPELAND said that as the Colonial Treasurer opposed the amendment he would not persist in it.

The amendment was withdrawn, and the clause as printed negatived.

Clause 2, "When, in either House, any public or private bill shall have passed its second reading and shall not have been finally disposed of at the time of prorogation, or when any select committee shall have been appointed and shall have taken evidence on the subject of inquiry, but shall not have brought up its report, or such report if brought up shall not have been disposed of prior to prorogation, then in any such case it shall be competent at any time during the first 10 sitting days of the next ensuing session, if of the same Parliament, by motion of which notice shall have been given, but without debate, to restore such bill or such select committee respectively to the position occupied immediately prior to the prorogation aforesaid."

Mr. COPELAND moved the amendment of the first portion of the clause so as to make it read:—"When in the Legislative Council or Legislative Assembly any public or private bill shall have passed its first reading," &c.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT moved the amendment of the second portion of the clause so as to make it read:—"Then in any such case it shall be competent at any time during the first 10 sitting days of the next ensuing session, if of the same Parliament, by notice of which at least seven days' notice shall have been given," &c.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COPELAND moved the amendment of the remaining portion of the clause so as to make it read:—"For the President of the said Council or Speaker of the said Assembly, as the case may be, to put such question as a formal motion without debate to restore such bill or such select committee or committee's report respectively to the position occupied immediately prior to the prorogation aforesaid."

The amendment was agreed to.

The third clause was amended so as to make the short title the "Parliamentary Business Act," and the preamble and title were also amended.

The House resumed: the bill was reported with amendments, and the report adopted.

PARTNERSHIP BILL.

Mr. REID moved the second reading of a bill to declare and amend the law of partnership. He said the bill was one of the few attempts made in England to codify the law. The Partnership Bill now before the House was a bill which followed line by line the English Act passed last year, and it was an Act which, he might say, had been more carefully considered than perhaps any other measure of which they had any knowledge. It had been drafted by Sir Frederick Pollock, a well-known authority on partnerships. It had been considered by the associated Chambers of Commerce. It had been twice before the select committee of the House of Commons, and it had passed through the Law Committee of the House of Lords. The bill had finally been taken up last year by the British Government and passed. It had been found so admirably adapted to the circumstances of the Australian colonies that, although it was not yet a year old, it had already been adopted by the Parliament of Queensland, and was half-way through the Parliament of Victoria, in both cases without any amendment except one or two to which he would refer later on. It would be an immense assistance to the business community, for in about 40 or 50 sections the whole law relating to partnership was codified. Instead of having to hunt through thousands of judicial decisions, the whole of the law was declared in that simple form. The only alteration made in the law was one to which he would refer in committee. By the English Act, if a creditor had a claim against one of the partners he could take the whole partnership property in satisfaction of his debt. In place of that it was proposed that instead of the partnership property being seized for the debt of a partner, only the partner's share in the partnership property became the subject of the debt. The bill did not alter the present law, but simply put it clearly.

Mr. GOULD said that on behalf of the Government he was very glad to recognise that the measure was one which would be of very great value to the colony, as it would place the law in a clear and explicit form, so that there would be no doubt about the ordinary principles by which the law of partnership was guided.

The bill was read the second time, and the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

The preamble was postponed.

Clauses 1 to 7 were agreed to on the voices without discussion.

Clause 7, "Partner using credit of firm for private purposes."

Mr. REID, in answer to comment upon the clause, said the bill was a fac-simile of the English Act—a measure framed by the highest authorities; and similar bills had become law in Queensland, and had passed through one House in Victoria.

The clause was agreed to.

Clauses 8 to 35 were agreed to as printed.

Clause 36, "Rights of persons dealing with firm against apparent members of firm."

Mr. REID proposed an amendment causing the notice to strangers to appear in at least one Sydney newspaper, and one newspaper circulating in the district in which the firm carried on business, in addition to the Government Gazette.

The amendment was accepted, and the clause as amended was agreed to.

The remaining clauses of the bill were passed without amendment; the preamble was agreed to, and the bill was reported with amendments to the House and the report adopted.

ARBITRATION BILL.

Mr. REID moved the second reading of the Arbitration Bill. This, he said, was one of the useful measures which the Home Parliament had found time for. The present law of the colony was made thirty years ago. The changes made by the bill were few. People often inserted in a contract that any difference was to be settled by arbitration, and the mode in which this was to be done often gave rise to litigation. If members would turn to the schedules they would see that provision was made for the carrying out of the arbitration. The machinery was included in the bill. There was also provision for cases to be remitted from the courts to arbitration.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clauses 1 to 6 were agreed to without amendment.

In clause 7 an addition was agreed to providing for the payment of witnesses' expenses.

Clauses 8 to 22 were agreed to without amendment.

Clause 23, "Definitions."

Mr. REID moved an amendment in line 42, making it read "Court means the Supreme Court or a Judge thereof, and in the case of all sections from section 12 inclusive shall also include any Judge of any District Court."

The amendment was agreed to."

Mr. REID moved an amendment in line 43, making it read, "Judge means a Judge of the Supreme Court or District Court as provided."

The clause as amended was agreed to.

Clause 24, "Short title," was agreed to as printed.

Mr. REID moved a new clause, to stand clause 17, providing that in all cases of reference to arbitration there may be a power as in ordinary common law actions of examining any one who by reason of illness or absence from the colony could not attend by commission.

The clause was agreed to.

Mr. REID moved a new clause to follow clause 17,—"No person shall be compelled, under any such order, or by any arbitrator, to answer any question he would not be compelled to answer at the trial."

The clause was agreed to.

Mr. REID moved a new clause, to follow the last new clause, providing for the reception of the evidence on commission being received by the arbitrators.

The clause was agreed to.

The schedules were agreed as printed.

The House resumed; the bill was reported with amendments, and the report adopted.

YONGALEATHA MARBLE, FLAG, AND FLUX COMPANY BILL.

Mr. WANT moved that the Yongaleatha Marble, Flag, and Flux Company Bill (as agreed to in select committee) be now read the second time. The measure was, he said, almost identical with one passed last session which conferred upon another company similar powers to those which it was now proposed to confer upon the Yongaleatha Company. Provision was made in the bill for the tramway being taken over by the Government should the Government desire to do so.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH said that as far as he could learn there was no objection offered to the bill by the Railway Commissioners. The provision enabling the Railway Commissioners to take over the line was in every way in accordance with the views of the Government.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill read the second time.

The House resolved itself into committee of the whole to consider the bill in detail.

All the clauses in the bill were agreed to on the voices without amendment.

The preamble was agreed to; the bill was reported without amendments, and the report was adopted.

COST OF LITIGATION BILL.

Mr. WALKER moved the second reading of a bill to lessen the cost of litigation. He said it had been introduced in the last Parliament, but owing to the lateness of the session it was not carried to the Legislative Assembly. The bill provided that, when an action took place, and costs were taxed, the losing party should not be mulcted in more costs than the party on the opposite side. As things now were, the rich man could employ a number of barristers—in fact, he might practically buy up the bar, and leave to the poorer party some second-rate or junior barrister, who might lose the case. In that event the junior barrister was paid for losing the case, and the poor client had also to pay all the barristers that the other side had chosen to engage. The bill provided that if a rich man chose to engage a large bar the opposite party, if he lost, need not pay for more than one. The principle had been practically admitted in the Supreme Court by a rule of the Court which stated that "It is hereby ordered that in all cases of appeal from inferior courts one counsel only will be heard on each side." The evil of the matter, however, was that, though only one counsel was heard, two or three might be engaged, and the loser would have to pay for them. The second part of the bill provided that costs of counsel on any chamber application should not be allowable between party and party, unless the Judge certify that employment as counsel was necessary.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH said that whilst it might be the desire of the hon. member in introducing his bill to lessen the cost of litigation the bill would not have that effect. It would not cheapen litigation; it would merely prevent a successful litigant from getting more than a certain amount of costs out of the unsuccessful litigant. (Hear, hear.) The hon. member had forgotten that the successful litigant might be the poor man, and that with a desire to have the case well conducted he might have found it necessary to engage more than one counsel to advocate his claims. Would not the mere knowledge that he would not be able to tax for more than one counsel have the effect of confining him to one?—while the rich man, if he was determined to win, would not consider what he could get allowed in costs, but would employ several barristers. As he read the bill, it would simply have the effect of restricting poor men to junior counsels, because they would not be able to recover by taxation the costs of more than one barrister. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. CRICK said that for the hon. member who had just spoken to tell the House that the bill would not lessen the cost of litigation to the public was to tell them what their common sense could not entertain. The bill proposed to do away with consultation fees between barristers in the same case. The costs of litigation were piled up on certain cases. Take the case of a man suing on a promissory note on which there was no defence. Two counsel would be engaged, yet, perhaps, the senior counsel might not appear in court. It was said that a Queen's Counsel would not go into a case without a junior; but if it came to going into a case without a junior or not going in at all he knew which course would be adopted. Some means should also be taken to prevent the outrageous charges of counsel. The prothonotary had a right now to allow a fee of £100 to counsel if he thought fit, but he believed that there was no counsel worth more than £15 or £20. There were good men amongst the juniors at the bar, and this bill would allow them to get cases. He should support this measure as he should support all bills for simplifying the legal profession.

Mr. WANT said that although he might be thought to be speaking on his own behalf, he hoped he would have courage to speak when it was necessary for him so to do. If he studied his own interests he would vote for the bill. Instead of having to divide his fee with a junior he would then get it all himself. (Mr. REID: Hear, hear.) These so-called reforms were simply being made at the instance of Mr. M'Cormat, a lawyer's clerk who had a taste for law reform. It was only young and inexperienced members of the Bar who were in favour of these alterations. Talk about the charges of the barristers, why solicitors charged 6s 8d for receipting their bills. (Mr. CRICK: Never.) Yes, he had seen it hundreds of times. And a solicitor would receive £100 for defending a criminal and only give the barrister £10. There was a case going on in Equity now and they had got through 451 sheets of printed matter, and they were only half through the brief. Could they expect to get one man to continually rack his brains over a case like that? One barrister could not stand the strain of a long case. Why interfere with a man who thought it necessary to employ for his case more than one barrister? Why it would be a statutory enactment to prevent a man doing as he liked. There was a proper taxing officer appointed by the Judges, who said how many of the counsel employed in a case were to be paid for. This officer was placed in his position specially to supervise the matter of costs in a case. Why should the House say how many people should be engaged to conduct a case? Did they say how many people should be employed to build a house or to work a ship, and so on? They might just as well legislate to make people moral by Act of Parliament. He asked the House to look at the matter fairly and not fix a hard and fast rule, or if they did they would make a mistake.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN said it was a good thing for the public they had had these disclosures made that night. It was not a question as to how many barristers should be engaged in a case, but how many should be paid for. It was about time that some attempt was made to cut down the charges made by the lawyers. He moved the adjournment of the debate.

The motion for the adjournment of the debate was negatived on the voices.

Mr. REID said that barristers could not get a stroke of work unless members of another profession thought they were capable of performing it, and when they were employed in many cases they were never paid, and if they were not paid they could not sue to recover their fees. These were the people against whom this mud was thrown. He was not going to defend a system of persons receiving money for services never rendered. An attorney's bill of costs was crammed full of items which made a man think that the attorney had been doing nothing but looking after his case, when really the whole of the work had been done by a young man who had perhaps paid £200 to go into the attorney's office. He contended that it was in the interests of the poor man that the present system of allowing a litigant to employ two or more counsel should be continued.

Mr. BARTON said he did not intend to vote upon that bill. It contained a falsehood on the very face of it. It was entitled a bill to lessen the cost of litigation; but it would do nothing of the kind. The whole object of the bill was falsely stated. If the bill came into operation the party who had caused the litigation, had caused the wrongdoing, would escape a portion of the costs. Why should a portion of the costs fall upon the party who was in the right? If the bill were carried the side that was in the right would be penalised in every case.

Mr. WALKER then replied.

The motion for the second reading was carried on division by 49 votes to 14, the noes being Messrs. Brunker, Young, Bruce Smith, Gould, Want, Reid, H. H. Brown, Scobie, Tonkin, Dale, Torpy, Marks, Morton, and Nicoll.

The bill was read the second time, and the Speaker left the chair, and the House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

The bill was carried through committee, reported to the House without amendment, and the report was adopted.

PETTY SESSIONS JURISDICTION EXTENSION BILL.

Mr. TORPY moved the second reading of the Petty Sessions Jurisdiction Extension Bill. He said the measure was one purely in the interests of business men. A similar bill was introduced in 1884, and it reached the second reading, but for some reason it was never carried. The intention of the bill was to extend jurisdiction of courts of petty sessions to the hearing of cases involving a claim not exceeding £30.

Mr. GOULD said the principle of the bill must commend itself to every hon. member, but some amendments and modifications were necessary in the direction of limiting jurisdiction to the districts outside the metropolitan area, and extending the jurisdiction to police magistrates only. He should also like to see some provision for obtaining judgment by default or by confession.

Mr. DIBBS said he approved of the principle of the bill, and he thought it should pass. The Minister for Justice ought to have had his amendments ready. The reforms were suitable to the times.

Mr. GORMLY was in favour of extending the jurisdiction of Courts of Petty Sessions to deal with sums up to £50, and he also favoured the extension of the jurisdiction of the District Courts. It was the wish of a great many business men in the country that such a measure as this should be adopted.

Mr. CRICK said that while he was in favour of proper facilities being given for the speedy recovery of debt, yet they must look at the bill to see whether it would meet that end. It did not matter how wrong the decision of the magistrate was there was no appeal against the decision and no reversal of it. If the hon. member would add that in cases of over £10 and up to £30 an appeal might be obtained he would go for the bill. If his suggestion was not adopted he would have to vote against the bill.

Mr. REID said that this was the one court in which equity and conscience of the case could be considered, and it was a court in which a man could appear without the assistance of a lawyer. He thought this jurisdiction should be extended and made as popular as possible. He would vote for the bill. A man should be entitled to sue in a district where the debt was contracted.

Mr. LEVIEN said that though he favoured an extension of jurisdiction he did not feel justified in voting for the second reading, because he was assured that the magistrates of the country were capable of doing the work which would be cast upon them.

Mr. DANGAR said the bill was in the interests of the general community, and if it was properly safeguarded by the right of appeal, and was supplied with a provision by which a person could confess judgment, it ought to meet with general approval.

Mr. KELLY supported the second reading of the bill because he thought it would be a good thing.

Mr. TORPY having replied, the motion was agreed to, and the bill was read the second time.

The SPEAKER left the chair, and the House went into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clause 1, "Jurisdiction extended to £30."

Mr. GOULD moved an amendment excepting the metropolitan police district.

The amendment was negatived on division by 32 votes to 14.

The clause was agreed to.

Clause 2, "Not to interfere with proviso to section 4 of 10 Vic., No. 10."

Mr. GOULD suggested as a further amendment a proviso to the clause conferring the enlarged jurisdiction upon police magistrates only.

Mr. TORPY moved a new clause,—"That this Act shall be taken to amend and form part of the Small Debts Recovery Act."

Mr. DANGAR said he thought the hon. member was being misled, and he moved that the Chairman leave the chair and report progress, and ask leave to sit again.

The motion that the Chairman report progress was negatived on the voices.

The new clause was then agreed to on the voices.

The preamble was agreed to.

The Chairman left the chair and reported the bill with amendments with concurrence, and the report was adopted.

CASINO SCHOOL OF ARTS ENABLING BILL.

Mr. STEVENSON, for Mr. Ewing, moved the second reading of the Casino School of Arts Bill, which gave the trustees power to mortgage the School of Arts.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was read the second time, carried through committee without amendment, and adopted.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH moved,—"That the House do now adjourn."

The motion was agreed to, and the House adjourned at 1.20 a.m. until the usual hour on Wednesday afternoon.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

The following is the result of the shooting for the Ladies' Bracelet and Club Trophy in connection with A Company, Senior Cadets' Rifle Club, best two shootings out of three, seven shots at 500 and 600 yards respectively, which was finished last Saturday. The match was keenly contested throughout, and, as will be seen by the scores, all kept close together, Cadet George Niel eventually winning the Bracelet, and Lieutenant Peate the club trophy. Total points for two shootings:—

Cadet G. J. Niel	110	Cadet Miller	98
Lieutenant E. Peate	108	Cadet Mertel	96
Cadet D. Bartlett	107	Cadet Nanes	93
Cadet H. Muir	106	Cadet Hister	90
Lieutenant Meeks	106	Cadet Gale	89
Colour-sergt. L. Barton	103	Corporal Smith	80

EXCELSIOR LAND INVESTMENT AND BUILDING COMPANY.

SPECIAL MEETING OF DEPOSITORS.

SURPLUS OF ASSETS OVER LIABILITIES OF £107,000.

BUSINESS TO BE RESUMED.

A special meeting of depositors in the Excelsior Land Investment and Building Company and Bank, Limited, which suspended payment during the financial scare, was held yesterday afternoon, at the Temperance Hall, and was attended by about 400 persons, fully one-third of whom were women. The directors, in furtherance of their wish that the business of the company should be resumed, had set forth on paper alternative proposals to this end, and had supplied copies of them to the depositors. These proposals seemed to commend themselves to the great body of those interested, and eventually one of the proposals, providing for the renewal of deposits, was unanimously agreed to, but there was apparent a failure on the part of a section of both of the feminine and the masculine mind to grasp the fact that particular deposits could not be paid forthwith, and, as a consequence of this, explanation had to be added to explanation, and thus a good deal of time was unnecessarily occupied. The chairman (Mr. W. Cary), speaking on behalf of his co-directors (Messrs. George Renwick, Alfred Rofe, and A. Thornley, who were seated with him upon the platform) said he regretted having to meet the depositors under the present circumstances, but he was pleased to be in a position to say in all sincerity that with the forbearance and support of the depositors the directors would be able to pay 20s in the £, with full interest added, to every person interested in the company. (Cheers.) The Excelsior Company was one of the first of its kind to commence business in Sydney, its doors having been opened in 1880, and during all this time its business had been conducted on such sound lines that good interest had been paid throughout, and more than this there was not the slightest reason why, with the forbearance of the depositors, good interest should not be paid in the future. All the company's assets had been well bought, and stood upon the books of the company at cost price plus survey fees and legal expenses. In not a single case had the properties been loaded with interest. (Cheers.) The directors were in no wise to blame for the present position of affairs. (Hear, hear.) With the closing of the doors of the Australian Mercantile Loan and Guarantee Company, and the subsequent disclosures in connection therewith, fears were aroused which resulted in a panic amongst the depositors in building societies. For a time the Excelsior Company weathered the storm, but when it became evident that the choice of the directors lay between preferential payments and temporary suspension the directors chose the latter course, and in doing so believed that they acted rightly and in the interest of all concerned. (Cheers.) The directors and the manager provided seven-tenths of the capital of the company, and in addition to this were depositors to a very large extent. Thus they proved their faith in the company. (Cheers.) The proposals the directors had to submit for the resumption of business were as follows:—"1. That the depositors be invited to take up paid-up shares in the company, the amount subscribed to be taken out of the deposit accounts. 2. That the stock thus subscribed for be allowed preferential interest to the extent of 7 per cent. per annum. 3. That they be invited to take up the company's debentures of £10 each, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, such debentures to have a currency of 10 years. 4. That they renew their deposits as they become payable, and re-deposit the same with the company, to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum; one-fourth of the amount to be repaid the depositor at the end of the first, second, third, and fourth years, the interest to be paid half-yearly."

Mr. JARRETT (manager of the company) said the liabilities of the company were as follow:—Deposit, £223,385 0s 2d; current account, £3643 14s: total, £227,028 14s 2d; interest accrued to date, £5471 5s 10d: total, with interest, £232,500; the amount owing upon mortgages stood at £10,000, and the bank overdraft stood at £25,000; thus the total liabilities amounted to £297,500. The assets were as follows:—Overdrawn account secured, £12,789 3s 1d; amount due on mortgages and agreements, £163,000; amount due for land purchased from the company, £49,000; total, £212,000. To this there was to be added the net cost of lands and buildings (£180,000), raising the total assets to £404,789 3s 1d. Thus the assets were in excess of the liabilities to the amount of £107,289 3s 1d. (Cheers.) The paid-up capital stood at £65,567 10s. In answer to a question as to the location and nature of the estates held by the company, Mr. Jarrett quoted from the following return:—York and Druitt streets estate, original cost £15,199 12s; unsold land at first cost, £15,199 12s; upset price on present value of unsold land, £2500; mortgage on estate, £20,329 7s 11d; a sum of £8200 has been advanced to the contractor for building. Elswick Estate, original cost, £30,000; unsold land, £1250 11s 6d; upset price, £2763 4s. Woodlands Estate, original cost, £13,250; unsold land, £8527 15s; upset price, £11,967. Birkenhead Estate, original cost, £20,625; unsold land, £3441 8s 11d; upset price, £8006. Warren Estate, original cost, £50,000; unsold land, £14,296 5s 9d; upset price, £24,009 6s 8d. Education Park, original cost, £9290; unsold land, £153 15s; upset price, £187 10s. Drew's Orchard, original cost, £2300; unsold land, £275 9s 2d; upset price, £413 5s. Burlington Estate, original cost, £2340; unsold land, £565 5s 6d; upset price, £1183 10s. Grange Farms, original cost £8450; unsold land, £2610 11s 5d; upset price, £5378 10s. Rutter's Estate, original cost, £4151 3s; unsold land, £4151 3s; upset price, £4000. Powell's Estate, original cost, £15,457; unsold land, £10,533 0s 3d; upset price, £18,752 10s. Fairlight Estate, original cost £3182; unsold land, £1667 15s; upset price, £4602. Deanville Estate, original cost, £1188; unsold land, £157 7s 4d; upset price, £325. Grosvenor Estate, original cost, £:868; unsold land, £734 11s 6d; upset price, £1176. Wyoming Estate, original cost, £19,290; unsold land, £16,681 2s; upset price, £20,807; mortgage, £9848 8s 9d. Cox's Estate, original cost, £10,500; unsold land, £8668 9s 8d; upset price, £17,411. Dora Creek Estate, original cost, £18,966 12s; unsold land, £18,966 12s; upset price, £20,000; mortgage, £10,000. Jenner's Estate, original cost, £24,250; unsold land, £16,706 18s 8d; upset price, £26,034 16s. Gosford Estate, original cost, £1625; unsold land, £1625; upset price, £2850. Stoney Creek Estate, original cost, £1764 12s 6d; unsold land, £1742 12s 6d; upset price, £2000. Parsons' Estate (Gosford), original cost, £338 6s; unsold land, 338 6s; upset price £340. Brooks' Osborne Estate, original cost, £4128 2s 9d; unsold land, £4128 2s 9d; upset price, £4000. Toronto Estate, original cost, £26,800; unsold land, £24,465 0s 9d; upset price, £39,176 3s 6d. Lorne Estate, original cost, £399 11s; unsold land, £399 11s; upset price, £500. Totals: Original cost, £286,362 19s 3d; unsold land at first cost, £157,286 6s 8d; upset price on present value of unsold land, £240,882 15s 2d. Toronto tram, original cost, £12,350; unsold land, £12,350; upset price, £12,350; stock and furniture, Toronto Hotel and villa, original cost, £2300; unsold land, £2300; upset price, £2000. Totals: Original cost, £301,012 19s 3d; unsold land at first cost, £171,936 6s 8d; upset price on present value of unsold land, £255,232 15s 2d; mortgages on estates, £40,177 16s 8d. Deducting from the unsold land at first cost the amount of £8200 paid on the Druitt-street building, the total is reduced to 180,136 6s 8d. In answer to questions, Mr. Jarrett said the Warren Estate was at Cook's River, the Birkenhead Estate on the Gladesville-road, the Burlington Estate at Croydon, the other properties were at Parramatta, Strathfield, Newcastle, Riverstone, Marrickville, and Enfield. If these properties were disposed of at a fair and reasonable price, the profits on the purchase and sale would amount to £75,000.

A Depositor: What is the amount of money subscribed by shareholders up to date?

The CHAIRMAN: £69,567, and a further sum of £10,592 10s 10d was now payable on calls.

A Depositor: How much capital is there to call upon?

The CHAIRMAN: £2 more per share.

A Depositor: What will be the amount of the paid-up shares?

The CHAIRMAN: £5; some at present are paid up to £2, £2 10s, and £3. A large number of shareholders had preferred to pay up to the £5. (Cheers.)

A Depositor: What is the salary paid to the directors?

The CHAIRMAN: A sum of £500 is annually set apart for the directors, and this sum has to cover everything, including travelling expenses.

A Depositor: What is the amount of the dividends paid of late years?

The CHAIRMAN: Last year 4 per cent., the three preceding years 8 per cent., and the year before 10 per cent.

A Depositor: How often has 25 per cent. been paid?

The CHAIRMAN: Once.

A Depositor: How often has 15 per cent. been paid?

The CHAIRMAN: Twice. These dividends were paid when the capital was very small.

Mr. ROWE said the first earnings of the company were in connection with the Elswick Estate, and were very large, but they could not expect to have so profitable a contract always on hand. The directors were prepared to do all that was possible to meet the depositors, and had submitted alternative schemes, any one of which, he felt sure, would, if adopted, eventually secure to each depositor 20s in the £ with interest added; but if the depositors insisted upon receiving their money at once, then the company must go into liquidation. The proposals of the directors were that the deposits should be turned into paid-up shares with a preferential interest up to 7 per cent. per annum, or that the depositors take up the company's debentures of £10 each, having a currency of 10 years with 6 per cent. interest; or that the depositors renew their deposits as they become due for four years with six per cent. interest, and with the right to draw one-fourth of the deposit at the end of the first, second, third, and fourth years after renewal. The directors of the company were jointly and severally liable to the bank to the extent of £30,000, and in addition to this they had their shares and deposits, which amounted to £40,000. Further proof of their faith in the company could not be desired. (Cheers.) Personally, he had £7000 in shares, and not one penny of this could he draw until the claims of the depositors were satisfied in full.

A Depositor: What are the amount of separate deposits in the company.

Mr. JARRETT: There are 50 depositors with each under £50, 110 under £100, 106 under £200, 56 under £300, 24 under £400, 25 under £500, 15 under £600, 10 under £700, 5 under £800, 5 under £900, 2 under £1000, 13 under £1500, 3 under £2000, 5 under £3000, 2 under £4000, and 9 over £4000.

Mr. ROBINSON (one of the auditors) said that in one case he believed that the fair market value of one of the company's properties was about £15,000 in excess of the book value. (Cheers.) He believed, too, that several other of the company's properties had a much higher market value than was set down on the books. (Cheers.) In no instance had these properties been loaded with interest. (Cheers.)

A Depositor: Are the properties re-valued from time to time?

The CHAIRMAN: No; they stand in the books of the company at cost price. In answer to further questions the chairman said that depositors to the extent of from £40,000 to £50,000 had signed an agreement to renew their deposits. (Cheers.) The directors would be prepared to meet as far as possible the requirements of small depositors who wished to withdraw their deposits.

After a little more discussion it was unanimously resolved,—"That the depositors of the Excelsior Land, Investment, and Building Company and Bank, Limited, renew their deposits as they become payable, and re-deposit the same with the company, to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum; one-fourth of the amount to be repaid the depositor at the end of the first, second, third, and fourth years, the interest to be paid half-yearly."

Mr. ROFE said he saw no reason why in twelve months' time, provided business went on as formerly, the whole of deposits falling due should not be paid. (Cheers.)

A vote of thanks to the chairman and directors concluded the meeting.

MUTUAL PROVIDENT, LAND, INVESTING, and BUILDING SOCIETY.

SPECIAL MEETING OF DEPOSITORS.

COMPANY TO BE PLACED IN LIQUIDATION.

A special meeting of depositors in the Mutual Provident Land, Investing, and Building Society was held last evening at the offices of the company, Pitt-street, and was attended by about 80 persons. Mr. S. H. Lovett was voted to the chair. The manager (Mr. E. W. Foxall) read a statement submitted to a special meeting of shareholders on October 5, and published in full in the commercial columns of this journal on the following day. Mr. Foxall supplemented this statement by saying that the position of the society showed a surplus of £28,000. The properties of the company had not been loaded with interest, but had this been done the surplus would have stood at £40,000. Last December a special committee was appointed to examine the affairs of the company, and this committee reported as follows:—Liabilities, London Chartered Bank, £22,000; deposits, £17,867 secured and £25,142 unsecured; making a total of £43,009; due on mortgage, £12,600; total liabilities, £77,609. Assets: Borrowers' and land purchasers' balances, £31,000; land and properties, £53,700; total assets, £84,700; surplus of assets over liabilities, £7091. The committee also made certain recommendations concerning the working of the company, and to these recommendations full effect had been given. Thus the board of management had done all that was possible to be done in order to carry on business satisfactorily, but they had been unable to stand the late scare, and had had to suspend payment, and now they believed the best thing to be done was to go into voluntary liquidation. Were this done, he believed the working expenses could be reduced to £400 a year, and the assets could be realised in such a way as to return every penny that was owing to the depositors.

Mr. KELSO KING said he believed the best thing they could do was to go into voluntary liquidation. He was a member of the committee which inquired into the position of the company nine months ago, and he saw no reason then to doubt that the company could pay its creditors, and he saw no reason now to doubt it. Whether the shareholders would get anything was another matter. He moved,—"That in the interests of all concerned the company should go into voluntary liquidation."

Mr. STAPLETON said that if it were true that the company was bankrupt three years ago, the directors had done wrong in carrying on business.

Mr. FOXALL said that up to the time of the financial scare the company was in a thoroughly solvent condition, and it was solely owing to the upsetting of the normal condition of things that they were no longer able to carry on. No demands for repayment of deposits were refused until last Tuesday. Some depositors applied before Tuesday for their deposits, the total of which did not exceed £800, but at his request they left their money in the company. The present directors had deposits of £325, £500, and £300 in the company. Some of the ex-directors were depositors to a very large extent.

The Rev. T. HILLS said he thought the directors had shown extreme care and great skill in carrying on the business of the company.

Mr. DIBBS (a solicitor) asked whether it was true that a year ago Mr. Foxall told a depositor named Brown that if the latter insisted upon withdrawing his deposit of £700 payment would have to be suspended.

Mr. FOXALL said it was not true.

Mr. DIBBS said he charged the company with having in November last falsely represented that it was able to lend money upon freehold security, while at the same period it was admittedly unable to return to Mr. Brown his deposit. This charge led to a stormy passage at arms between Mr. Dibbs and the company's solicitor (Mr. Jones), which, however, was settled by mutual apologies.

Mr. FOXALL, in answer to questions, said that when Mr. Starkey left the board he was a depositor to the extent of £5000, and was also one of the guarantors to the bank. One of the conditions on which Mr. Starkey was released from his guarantorship was that he should allow his deposit to remain permanently in the company. He, however, had drawn out £2000.

After further discussion the resolution in favour of voluntary liquidation was unanimously carried, and it was decided to recommend to the shareholders that Mr. Kelso King be appointed liquidator.

RECEPTION OF MR. HENNIKER HEATON, M.P.

Mr. Henniker Heaton, M.P., who has arrived in Sydney from England, was received yesterday by the Mayor (Alderman W. P. Manning). Many gentlemen were asked to be present, and amongst those who accepted the invitation were the Hons. C. J. Roberts, A. Dodds, A. J. Riley, R. Burdett Smith, D. O'Connor (Postmaster-General), John Davies, L. F. De Salis, W. J. Trickett, M's.L.C., Aldermen J. Martin, M.L.A., Taylor, Playfair, Dean, and Kippax, and Messrs. G. Merriman (city solicitor) and H. J. Daniels (town clerk). After the reception, which took place at noon, an adjournment was made to the aldermen's room, where champagne was served and several toasts honoured.

The MAYOR, in proposing the health of Mr. Heaton, said they were met to welcome a gentleman who at one time was a resident of Sydney, and who had since obtained the high distinction of a seat in the English House of Commons. Mr. Heaton had shown a singular application to the duties of that position, although he undertook them an untried man. Not alone had he been laborious, but he had even tried, whilst discharging the claims of those who elected him to Parliament, to do some good for the country he left behind. It had been his study always to bring England and her colonies closer together by constantly advocating postal and telegraphic reforms; and he had succeeded in making communication by those means easier than it ever was before. He hoped this example would galvanise the New South Wales Postmaster-General into action, and lead to the accomplishment of a penny postage for the whole of Australia. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. O'CONNOR endorsed the remarks of the Mayor in reference to the achievements of Mr. Heaton. It was indeed, he said, a lofty and laudable ambition for a man, young to Parliamentary life, to improve communication with other parts of the world; but his great exertions would have been futile so far as Australia was concerned had it not been for the enlightened policy of New South Wales, of which he (Mr. O'Connor) was the humble instrument. Every step taken in England had been reciprocated here. The ambition of the colonies, and the desire for cheaper communication, exceeded those of the mother country, and whilst we were prepared long ago to reduce the cost of telegrams, and willingly to incur an expenditure of tens of thousands of pounds, the English officials stood aloof and refused to join in the subsidy. He hoped to see Mr. Henniker Heaton's desire for a universal penny postage soon fulfilled. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. HENNIKER HEATON, in response to the toast, which was received with enthusiasm, said no one was more anxious than he to learn the current of Australian thought and feeling. It would be idle for him to conceal the fact that rumours were reaching England that in Australia there was a growing feeling of disloyalty to the old country. He could only say that if those rumours had any foundation no statesman in England would raise a finger to prevent Australians from taking any course they pleased, greatly as they would regret it. He could not hide from them that any step towards separation would unquestionably lead to the dissolution of the Empire, and Australia then would be for ever guilty of the national crime of having brought about the downfall of the nation. ("Never.") He made those remarks, not to influence them in any way, but simply that they might know what was the feeling of the people of England. Having spoken of the educational advantages of cheap telegraphic and postal communication between England and her colonies, Mr. Heaton said that on January 1 next, and perhaps before that, a penny postage would be established. That promise was given to him in writing by the Postmaster-General, and he believed it was acquiesced in by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. (Hear, hear.) He hoped also to see before long a reduction in the cable rates. (Hear, hear.) He thanked the Mayor and those present for the reception given him.

Mr. TRICKETT proposed the health of "The Mayor," and Mr. R. Burdett Smith "The Mayoress," to both of which toasts the Mayor responded.

SYDNEY HOSPITAL.

THE PRESENT ACCOMMODATION AGAIN CONDEMNED.

A meeting of the Sydney Hospital board of directors was held yesterday in the board-room at the hospital. Present: Dr. Renwick (president) in the chair, Messrs. Michael Chapman and John Pope (vice-presidents), Drs. Tarrant, Worrall, and Huxtable, Messrs. I. J. Josephson, Joseph Graham, J. Hourigan, R. M'Coy, I. Starkey, Frank Senior, W. H. Flavelle, Alexander Deane, Samuel Leys, G. N. Griffiths, and the Hon. John Davies, M.L.C.

The accounts for the month had amounted to £1729 12s 8d.

A recommendation was received from the house committee to the board of directors to provide an ambulance. A sub-committee was then formed, consisting of Messrs. Griffiths, Senior, and Chapman, and the medical superintendent, to make inquiries, and with power to act.

The medical superintendent read a report, in which he said he felt compelled to plainly place before the board what he considered to be the disgraceful conditions under which its officers had to conduct the treatment of its patients. During his residence at the hospital, since the beginning of 1889, the board had upon many occasions pointed out in its annual report the strain which was being brought to bear upon the institution, owing to the growth of traffic in the streets and of business in the city leading to the congregation of a steadily increasing floating population, and in consequence a larger number of patients whose urgent illness demanded admission when brought to the hospital doors. During the last three or four years a steady increase in the percentage of the most urgent cases had taken place, and at the present moment it was impossible for the officers to entertain any application for admission to the hospital unless in their opinion the applicant was in such a condition as to require immediate aid which could not be got elsewhere. During the present year 2595 cases had been treated as in-patients up to September 30. There had been an average daily number of 240 inmates, and these patients had had an average stay of 26¼ days in the hospital. Although these large numbers of patients had passed through the hospital, it was a fact that diseases such as typhoid fever had been far less prevalent this year than for some years before. During the year 1890, 97 cases of typhoid fever had been admitted to the hospital for treatment. During this year, of which three parts had already elapsed, the number had been 39. A similar reduction had been noticed at all the metropolitan hospitals. They hoped that the diminution in the number of this class of case might continue, but they could not expect that it would do so without occasional periodic increase due to climatic or other causes. Notwithstanding the fortunately diminished number of typhoid fever cases for which they had had to provide, the hospital had, as the above figures show, been filled throughout the whole of the year. He must now enter into detail as to the disabilities under which they laboured when treating these patients. Nearly all of them when brought there were in either so feeble a condition that they had to be carried into the different wards, or their illness was of such a nature as to make it highly improper to allow them to be conducted thither in any other way. The wards were scattered about the grounds and were devoid of lifts, and there was no method of conveying patients to them, except by means of chairs and stretchers, and it was a most arduous task for these patients to be carried, as they almost invariably had to be, by the porters of the hospital, and the patients also were unavoidably exposed during inclement weather to the open air in their progress to the wards. The food of the patients, the fuel, and every essential for ward use had to be carried first through the open air, and then upstairs to the different wards. The accommodation for nurses in proximity to the wards where they could perform the various duties which must necessarily be performed there, were totally inadequate, now that the hospital was incessantly filled with patients who required to be assisted in the performance of nearly all the functions of daily life. He need scarcely say that it was in his opinion disgraceful that the nurses should not be placed in more favourable circumstances for carrying out their work. It was only by the practice of the most praiseworthy zeal that they could do so at the present time, and he unhesitatingly stated that for no monetary consideration merely would anyone be placed in the position which nurses cheerfully accept in this hospital. This state of affairs could not go on indefinitely, and he felt that he must in this way record his protest. There were many other matters which might be spoken about just as strongly as he had ventured to speak about these. The washing of the hospital, for instance, should to some extent at least be done on the premises. They had a laundry building, but in their present unfinished state they were forced to use it for temporary requirements, which would be met elsewhere in the completed building. This entailed expenses which must considerably increase with the increased gravity of the cases, and the rapidity with which patients followed one another in the occupation of the beds. There was above all the danger of fire in the wooden pavilion. He could do no more than had been done to guard against this accident or to cope with it, supposing it should occur. They had electric alarms in all the wards which would immediately summon every officer in the hospital, and all the servants had been instructed as to what they should do supposing that fire occurred. They all know, however, that notwithstanding these precautions there was a possibility of a frightful disaster. If one could see that the continued representations which had been made had borne fruit in the way of advancing the settlement of this hospital question one way or the other, everyone would work on cheerfully, and do the best to carry over the period of strain. But what had been done? He appended to this report extracts from the minutes of the transactions of the board during the last two and a-half years. It would be seen that there had been no lack of diligence on its part in representing through every channel open to it the necessity for immediate action. The medical profession, at a meeting specially convened in order to consider this subject, had publicly expressed its condemnation of the present state of affairs at the Sydney Hospital, and had unanimously passed a resolution to the effect that the building already partially erected should in its opinion be completed at once, and this at one of the most numerously attended meetings which the profession had ever held in this colony. The members of the honorary medical staff of the hospital in most positive terms had expressed their opinions, and all the members of the profession intimately acquainted with the facts of the case had been, at least on this point, in complete accord, and, finally, his Excellency Lord Carrington, lately patron of the hospital, at the last general meeting which he attended, said that, in order to mark his condemnation of the way in which this matter was allowed to drag, that he would attend no more until better accommodation was provided. It could not be said that this question had been dealt with creditably by any other section of the public. Remarks had been frequently made when the matter had been brought under notice, to the effect that the medical profession generally, and the honorary medical staff of the hospital in particular, had had interested motives in urging the consideration of it. It could only be with the deliberate intention of avoiding the consideration of the subject on its merits that such statements could be made. The honorary medical staff of this hospital, at considerable personal sacrifice, undertook the gratuitous treatment of its patients, and to my own personal knowledge the great difficulties under which their work was done, owing to the shameful condition there, threw upon them increased responsibilities, of which it was the duty of the community to immediately relieve them. He appealed to every member of the hon. medical staff who had recently done work in the hospital to bear him out in the statements he had made. He begged the board to make public, as far as it was able, the facts which he now laid before it, and to make every member of the Legislature and of the general public fully acquainted with the condition of affairs there, which were it not for the ignorance generally prevailing upon the subject would premise in them an almost unparalleled example of apathetic cruelty. He had carefully abstained from entering into particulars which might in any way obscure the chief object he had in view—that was to denounce in the most forcible language of which he was capable the langour which allows this important matter to continue unsettled. As to what should be done, he could not go into that part of the subject then. It would occupy too much time, and was moreover unnecessary as the unanimous opinions of the honorary medical staff and of himself, with the fullest explanation of the grounds on which they based them, given in evidence before the Parliamentary Public Works Committee had been, by the board's direction, appended to the last annual report, and were freely available to all who might wish to become acquainted with them. In conclusion he begged to state that he made this formal report because he felt that in this way, and in this way only, could he relieve himself of the sense of responsibility which he personally incurred as medical superintendent of the hospital. He felt strongly that it was the duty of all who were in any way directly connected with the institution to make use of every opportunity of calling public attention to the needs of the hospital, and that it was only after having faithfully done this that they could consider themselves blameless in the event of calamity occurring.

Dr. RENWICK concurred in the opinions held by the resident medical superintendent, and thought that the Government should be asked to proceed with the erection of the new building at once, now that the Parliamentary Committee had reported favourably upon its erection. He also advocated widely publishing the present wants of the hospital, so that assistance might be rendered.

Alderman DEAN endorsed the president's remarks.

The Hon. JOHN DAVIES agreed with the report. He proposed that the honorary medical staff be requested to furnish a report.

Dr. TARRANT said that the honorary medical staff had already reported upon the matter.

Mr. GRAHAM thought that the present hospital was a disgrace, and only fit for a cow shed.

Mr. CHAPMAN said that some of the wealthy citizens could easily assist in the construction of the hospital. He moved that the board wait upon the Premier and lay the matter before him.

Dr. HUXTABLE believed that Dr. Hull had stated the facts. He did not see any good in the honorary medical staff again reporting on the subject.

Mr. DAVIES then withdrew his motion.

Dr. WORRALL thought that the labour members in the Assembly should be invited to inspect the buildings, as they, in the interests of the sick and poor, should be most interested in this matter.

Mr. Chapman's motion was then carried.

AMUSEMENTS.

"TOM COBB."

Not often does an amateur company choose plays so well within their grasp as the pieces staged at the Garrick Theatre last night. As regards the principal piece, at least, it would have been difficult to make a better selection. "Tom Cobb, or Fortune's Toy," is one of W. S. Gilbert's less important and earlier works, but it is full of good things, and in the whimsicality of some of its topsy-turvey ideas, the hand which a few years later wrote the "Pinafore" series of comic operas can be readily traced. "Tom Cobb" was originally produced at St. James's Theatre in April, 1875, under Miss Litton's management. Miss Litton herself played Caroline Effingham, E. W. Royce was the Tom Cobb, and the late Mrs. Chippendale—another artist beloved of Sydney playgoers—created the rôle of Mrs. Effingham. Very little has lately been heard of the piece, a circumstance probably due to the fact that, like "The Colonel" of Burnand, and its successor, "Patience," the farcical comedy satirises the æsthetic craze. The craze was so ephemeral that the satire quickly lost its point, and fell out of date, and this militated against revival. Fortunately, there is not enough of the æsthetic burlesque to make it tedious, and thus the amateurs secured a farcical comedy at once excellent in itself, and very little known to the majority of the audience. The scheme of the plot is wild enough for the wildest farce. Tom Cobb, an impecunious saw-bones who is in love with pretty Matilda O'Fipp, cannot meet the bills he has backed to oblige the damsel's indigent father, the gallant Colonel O'Fipp. Now Matilda, who is nothing if not practical, always "goes with the bills," and has obliged her father by pledging her young affections for a large amount at three months to a rival suitor, named Whipple. Whipple is a man of fertile resource, however, and persuades Cobb to evade arrest for debt by undergoing the temporary oblivion of the tomb under cover of a death-and-burial certificate which really refers to an aged "Tom Cobb" who has died in the parish poorhouse. Cobb is declared dead, and his bills are compounded for with the colonel's creditors, whilst the astute Whiffle makes love to the accommodating Matilda. Then Cobb proposes to come again to light and love; but as this is likely to breed confusion, he is bullied by Colonel O'Fipp into accepting the name and fame of "Major-General Arthur Fitzgerald," deceased, and in his despair consents even to pocket £1 weekly, on which to support his newly-acquired rank. Unhappily, the Major-General had had a love correspondence of a flirtatious character with Caroline Effingham, a lady he had never seen, and the whole Effingham family are hunting high and low for the deceiver to bring him to book. Poor Tom is pounced upon, and there is a delightful and truly Gilbertian scene, in which the lovely Caroline insinuates a writ for breach of promise into the hand she is rapturously kissing. Tom, ever susceptible to beauty, promptly evades the writ by returning the affection of the amorous æsthete; and he soon finds himself adopted by the Effingham family, placed upon a pedestal as their very own poet, and generally cried up as a Bunthorne when his craven heart tells him that he is a Grosvenor! All this, played as it was with considerable spirit, proved highly amusing last night, and when it came about that the Major-General had inherited untold sums from the supposed pauper a roar of laughter and applause greeted the last "good thing" of the piece as the curtain fell—"Caroline, you loved me as a penniless but poetical Major-General, can you still love me as a wealthy but unromantic apothecary?" Caroline (confidently): "I can! I can love you as a wealthy anything!" Chorus: "We all can!" Curtain.

It is some time since Sydney amateurs have played as well as they did last night in "Tom Cobb." Captain Rupert Leigh's acting in the name part was frank, unaffected, and quietly humorous, and his genuine appearance of distracted bewilderment when besieged by the Effingham family and served with the writ, delighted the house. Another really good character sketch was Miss Austin's Matilda O'Fipp. Miss Austin's rich Irish brogue was delightful, and she got off her good things with quite the right air of unconsciousness. This was the one perfect performance of the evening, and would not have discredited a professional cast. Mrs. Forbes-Angus was soulfully intense as Caroline, and made a pretty picture as she languished in an art-costume, with a lily in her hand. Mr. G. Goschen was cleverly disguised as Colonel O'Fipp, and played the part with discretion and a good accent, though his reading lacked the unctuous bluster and weight required for such a character to make it effective on the stage. Captain H. Cholmondeley's ghastly playfulness as the funereal Bulstrode Effingham in the little scene with Caroline was admirable. Mr. George Forbes was well made-up as the aged, oily-tongued Mr. Effingham; and other characters were played by Mr. G. H. Clibborn, Miss Joseph, and Miss W. Austin. "Tom Cobb" was preceded by "A Pair of Lunatics," an amusing sketch by W. R. Walker, originally played two years ago by Mr George Alexander and Miss Maude Millett at the Avenue Theatre. Captain H. Cholmondeley and Miss Gillies represented the characters last night, and played at first in much too low a key. Before the curtain fell, however, greater confidence and buoyancy were shown by both, and the little piece is one in which these players would probably give a good account of themselves on repetition.

His Excellency the Governor and the Countess of Jersey, with a party of guests, which included the Mayor of Sydney and Mrs. W. P. Manning, were present, the circle was crowded and the stalls well filled, and the whole entertainment was cordially received. To Mr. Forbes Angus's energetic stage-management it is presumably due that the performance concluded early, that the waits were not long, and that the voice of the prompter was never heard.

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

A meeting of the senate was held yesterday at the University-chambers, Phillip-street. There were present: The Chancellor (the Hon. Sir William Manning), the Vice-Chancellor (Mr. H. C. Russell, C.M.G.), his Honor Judge Backhouse, Professor Butler, Professor Cobbett, the Hon. Peter Faucett, Professor Gurney, Professor Liversidge, the Hon. Dr. MacLaurin, the Hon. Dr. Renwick, Professor Scott, and Mr. R. Teece.

The following warrants were signed, on the recommendation of the finance committee: — Salaries, £1521 1s; University Scholarship, £12 10s. On Private Foundations Account: Scholarships, £158 15s; bursaries, £255; salaries (Challis Fund account), £668 15s.

A letter from the Royal Commissioners of the Exhibition of 1851, having reference to the science scholarship offered by them, was referred to the Faculty of Science.

A letter was received from the hon. secretary of the Hospital for Sick Children, requesting the senate to take into favourable consideration the question of granting a site upon the University estate for the new Children's Hospital. It was resolved,—"That the senate regrets that it is unable to accede to the request of the board of the Hospital for Sick Children for a site upon the University grounds."

The senate then proceeded to consider the application of the Wesleyan Conference for a site upon the University grounds for a college in connection with the Wesleyan body to be affiliated to the University. It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Faucett, seconded by Dr. Renwick,—"That the University consents to hold at the disposal of the Wesleyan body for a period of two years a site near the St. Andrew's College and the Prince Alfred Hospital boundaries, comprising about 2½ acres, provided that that body shall comply within that time with all the requirements for the establishment of an affiliated college."

A letter was received from the honorary secretary of the Women's College council, accepting on behalf of the council the site set apart by the senate for the Women's College, but suggesting that a site on the Parramatta-road might be substituted for it. It was resolved,—"That the senate regrets that after much consideration it cannot accede to the suggestion of the council of the college."

On the recommendation of the Acting-Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Professor E. C. Stirling, M.D., of Adelaide, was appointed an additional examiner in physiology for the University examination.

A report was received from the Professorial Board, stating that it had carefully considered the proposal to hold the senior public examination and the matriculation examination concurrently in the month of December; that in doing so it had found many difficulties in arranging the details of the scheme; and it therefore recommended that the senate should postpone its operation for the present. The report was adopted.

The following recommendation, contained in a report from the Professorial Board, was adopted:—"That the following examiners be appointed for the conduct of the Queensland examinations for exhibitions to Universities:—Professor Butler, Professor David, Professor Gurney, Professor Haswell, Professor Liversidge, Professor MacCallum, Professor Scott, Professor Wood, and Messrs. J. J. Fletcher, F. B. Guthrie, F. Lloyd, E. M. Moors, A. Newham, A. B. Piddington, and Dr. Trechmann."

On the recommendation of the board for conducting the public examinations, Mr. J. Garland, M.A., was appointed an additional examiner in history.

The remaining business on the paper was postponed.

ALLEGED ROBBERY IN HYDE PARK.

Before Mr. Lee, S.M., in the Water Police Court yesterday, Alfred Kenny, on a charge of stealing a gold watch and medal, value £8, the property of George Grey, was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. It was alleged for the prosecution that the prisoner, in company with others, on the 15th April last, at about half past 11 at night, in Hyde Park, asked Grey the time, and, when the latter pulled out his watch to see, seized it and ran off. Prisoner's alleged accomplice is now undergoing a sentence in connection with the alleged offence. Bail was allowed, self in £80, with two sureties in £40 each, or one in £80.

Shortly after Kenny had been committed, a friend of his named Minnie Berthy, aged 23, who had been weeping all the morning prior to the case coming on, it is said, went outside and bought a bottle of lemonade. When passing through the cloister by the Summons Court she met a woman who, she thought, intended giving evidence against her fiancé, and instantly struck her with the bottle. The police arrested her, but before she could be subdued she had torn the constable's trousers. She was later on brought before Mr. Lee, S.M., on three charges, viz., unlawfully assaulting one Annie Sparks, using indecent language in Phillip-street, and damaging a policeman's uniform trousers valued at 11s 11d. She was very excited, and Mr. Smith, who had appeared for Kenny, endeavoured to make matters better by explaining how keenly the girl had felt for Kenny. Berthy admitted all the charges except the first, and that she regretted she had not done. She was fined 30s, or in default five weeks in gaol on the first two charges, and 11s 11d (value of trousers), or one week's imprisonment, on the last.

Webster from Adelaide, the brigantine Darcy Pratt from Newcastle, the barquentine Cuthona from Sydney, the barque Northern Chief and the brigantine Defiance from Wollongong, and the brigantine Sea Bird from Hobart, all arrived at Auckland prior to the 2nd instant. The brigantine Circe from Sydney, and the barque Freetrader, from Hobart, arrived at Bluff Harbour on September 29 and October 2 respectively. The barquentine Rio arrived at Napier on September 29, from Newcastle. The barque Wonona and the American barquentine Wrestler, from Melbourne, reached Kaipara on the 2nd instant. The Shaw, Savill, and Albion Company's steamer Pakeha left Port Chalmers on the 2nd instant for London. The American barquentine Abiel Abbott, for New York, sailed from Wellington on the 2nd instant. The barque Alice May, for Sydney, and the barque Camuna, for London, left Auckland on the 2nd instant. The barque Brunette left Bluff Harbour on the 2nd instant for Sydney. The barquentine Flying Scud, for Newcastle, left Napier on September 29. The barque Vivid sailed from Greymouth on September 29 for Melbourne.

The Northern Steamship Company of Auckland has had launched at Paisley a steel twin-screw steamer of 300 tons for the East Coast trade. The dimensions of the boat are 125ft. by 25ft. by 8ft. 5in. She is constructed with a bridge of 58ft., and quarter-deck same length. Her engines are quadruple, 13in. and 26in. respectively, with an 18in. stroke. The new steamer is fitted for limited passenger service, and is classed 100 A1. On leaving the ways she was named the Waiotaki. The engines are by Messrs. Hanna, Donald, and Wilson, Paisley.

LAUNCH OF A LUGGER.

An important business is being carried on in what may be called the "small fry" building amongst the local builders, and in this connection the name of the port has been well upheld by those who have been entrusted with orders from the owners of the pearl fisheries in Torres Straits. Some really handsome craft have been sent north from the yards of Sydney builders within the past year for Mr. Kelly's station at Thursday Island, and more recently Captain T. L. Grainger, marine surveyor, has had one or two smart luggers built and sent forward to take part in the pearling industry. Mr. Ford of Berry's Bay has finished another of these vessels to Captain Grainger's order, and will launch her to-morrow evening. She is to be called the Mabel, and will register 14 tons, is 49ft. long, 11ft. 6in. beam, 5ft. 9in. deep, and will draw about 6ft. 6in. when ready for sea. The Mabel will sail on Saturday next for Thursday Island in charge of Captain Pitcharding.

NEW STEAM LAUNCH FOR THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

A cablegram was received yesterday by Mr. Thomas Pratt, financial agent of the London Missionary Society, authorising him to have built a steam launch for mission work on the Fly River, New Guinea. The launch will be about 55ft. overall, 14ft. beam, and about 6ft. deep, built entirely of colonial timber. She will have a comfortable raised cabin in the fore end of the vessel about 18ft. long, neatly fitted up. Special care will be given to the ventilation and shade, on account of the great heat on the Fly River. The cabin fittings will be of the very plainest description, to offer as little opportunity as possible for cockroaches or other vermin to infest the vessel. The crew's quarters will be abaft the engines. The launch is to be specially fitted for the Fly River work of the mission, and will be what is known as a bent-timbered boat. The engines will be of a powerful description, to enable her to attain a fair speed against the strong current of the Fly River, which is 700 miles long. She will be rigged as a ketch and sailed to Thursday Island, from whence she will be despatched under steam to New Guinea. The launch will be designed and the building will be supervised by Captain T. L. Grainger. The vessel will be ready early next year.

MAURITIUS SHIPPING.

Under date the 8th September from Port Louis, the Chilian steamer Guayacan was on the berth for Melbourne. The barque Maroon, 361 tons, from Acrolhos, with 500 tons guano, sailed on August 8 for Singapore. The William Turner, from Newcastle, arrived August 4, and was to load sugar for Calcutta. The William Manson arrived August 5, from Newcastle. The Elizabeth, 263 tons, from Adelaide, arrived August 31.

WOOL STEAMERS.

A larger number of steamers have loaded this year with wool for the November sales than usual. Referring to the departures that have taken place since the opening of the season, it is found that in addition to the mail liners there have been despatched the Gulf of Guinea, Port Jackson, Port Adelaide, Port Pirie, Port Denison, Strathdon, Australasian (to sail), Tartar, Murrumbidgee, Hubbuck, and the Woolloomooloo.

PURITY IS HEALTH.
CORBETT'S WORCESTERSHIRE SALT.
The well-known "Black Horse" brand, beautiful in colour, from the natural and pure brine springs of Stoke Prior, Worcestershire, as supplied to the Royal Families of England and Europe, should be exclusively used for all purposes where purity and health are of importance, for table purposes, in baking, dairy, and provision curing, as physicians of eminence declare pure salt to be a vital constituent of the blood; hence the ancient proverb, "Ex sale salus"—from salt is health. Do not be misled by OUTLANDISH or SENTIMENTAL names for salt. You must not expect PURE water from an IMPURE fountain. Have confidence in an article that has stood the test of hundreds of years, and from one of the oldest firms in the trade.
John Corbett, M.P., Stoke Prior Salt Works, Worcestershire.
London Agents—Weston and Westall, 11½ Lower Thames-street.
Colonial Agents—Henry Berry, Melbourne and Adelaide; Dalton Bros., Sydney; and may be obtained from the leading Storekeepers in all the colonies—only be satisfied you obtain "Corbett's Worcestershire Salt," "BLACK HORSE BRAND," as inferior Salt under other brands, more or less similar, and calculated to deceive, is sometimes offered.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1891.

The reported murder of Captain Younghusband, a British political agent at Pamir, in Central Asia, by Russians, proves to be without foundation.

The Paris correspondent of the Times states that M. Ribot, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, intends to promptly conclude a written compact specifying the arrangement which has been entered into by France and Russia. It is expected that a treaty will be signed within a few weeks.

In his tour through Bohemia the Emperor Francis Joseph has failed to reconcile the Germans and the Czechs.

Cardinal Langenieux, Archbishop of Rheims, has expressed regret in the presence of the Pope for the incident at the tomb of Victor Emmanuel.

A special meeting of the depositors in the Excelsior Land, Investment, and Building Company and Bank, Limited, which suspended payment during the recent financial scare, was held yesterday. The financial statement showed a surplus of assets over liabilities of £107,000, and the meeting unanimously agreed to renew deposits as they become payable.

The peasants in the Baku district of Russia are dying from starvation by thousands. The Czar has abandoned the holding of Court balls, and intends to devote the money thus saved to the Russian Famine Relief Fund.

The authorities of the Bank of England are said to be highly indignant at the tone of Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith's reference to that bank. In London it is thought that the bank is likely to resign the Queensland Government business unless the Government apologises.

The British-India Steam Navigation Company's steamship Jumna will leave Genoa, in Italy, on the 22nd instant, with 350 Italian agricultural labourers, chiefly single men, intended for the Northern Queensland districts.

Mr. Spurgeon's health has sufficiently improved to permit his removal to Eastbourne, the watering-place on the English Channel.

President Harrison has instructed the United States Minister in Spain to demand from the Spanish Government an indemnity for the outrages committed upon American missionaries during the recent disturbances between the natives and the Spanish troops.

By the explosion of the boiler of a tug at Chicago eight people have been killed and many others injured.

Mr. J. W. Fortescue has a letter in the Pall Mall Gazette, in which he accuses the Victorian Government of showing sham surpluses.

The Right Hon. W. H. Smith, M.P., the leader of the Government in the House of Commons, who has lately been suffering from illhealth, has undergone a relapse.

The federation of shipping and carrying unions of England proposes to arrange a federation of similar unions in America and Australia. An international conference will probably be convened in Chicago during the exhibition season.

If the labour block in London is effective, overtures will be made to the employers for a settlement, as the men desire to confine the dispute to its present area.

Seventy-five thousand miners in South Wales are parleying to join the Labour Federation.

The Labour Federation has instructed all unions affiliated with it to boycott goods handled at the Carron and Hermitage Wharfs wherever they may be found.

A strike has taken place in London amongst the sailors, firemen, and carmen.

Captain Holm, of the barque G. M. Tucker, which arrived at Newcastle on Monday from Adelaide, reports that on the 27th ultimo, when off Cape Everard, the barque narrowly escaped being run down by a large passenger steamer, which came within a couple of yards of her.

The Indians near Tulancingo, Mexico, have butchered 200 German settlers. Troops have been sent to the scene of the massacre.

The Queen intends to visit Florence in March.

Shares in the Bank of South Australia are quoted at £15.

King Charles of Wurtemburg is reported to be dying. He is in his 68th year.

A great fire is raging in Tooley-street, London. Large quantities of colonial produce, consisting of gum, bark, cotton, and tallow, have been destroyed.

The fire broke out in the warehouse of Leach and Co., and rapidly extended, five other warehouses being completely gutted.

Sir Henry Parkes stated in the Legislative Assembly yesterday that the Government intended to bring in a measure dealing with building societies.

In the Legislative Assembly last night the portion of the Parliamentary Sessions Bill providing that business begun in one session may be continued in the next, passed its second reading. The other part of it, which limited the length of Parliamentary sessions, was withdrawn.

The Partnership Bill introduced by Mr. Reid passed its second reading in the Assembly last night, and was taken through committee.

The Arbitration Bill introduced by Mr. Reid passed its second reading last night, and was taken into committee.

Mr. Archibald C. Fraser, J.P., Under-Secretary to the Department of Justice, has been appointed a member of the Civil Service Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Hon. Geoffrey Eagar.

The authorities at Pentridge are experiencing considerable trouble with the prisoners in one of the divisions, in consequence of the introduction of the new system of separating the men at meals.

Yesterday, at an inquest held by Mr. Pinhey, the Deputy City Coroner, on the body of a man named Richard Ditchburn, the jury found that the deceased had died from burns accidentally received.

General Booth addressed an immense meeting at Brisbane last night on his scheme, "Darkest England and the Way Out." A motion in favour of the scheme was carried almost unanimously.

At a special meeting of the depositors in the Mutual Permanent Land, Investing, and Building Society held last night, a resolution in favour of voluntary liquidation was unanimously carried.

The boy Dicker, who escaped from the Mount Gambier Gaol on Sunday, has been recaptured.

Last night Lord Kintore gave a ball at Government House, Adelaide, in honour of the officers of the Australian Squadron.

Up till Saturday last 31 deaths from influenza had been reported in Melbourne.

The Victorian Court of Marine Inquiry continued the investigation yesterday into the Gambier-Easby collision. The summing up of the evidence was concluded, and the board will give its decision on Thursday.

The Customs receipts yesterday amounted to £8734.

It is rather odd to find Mr. Copeland endeavouring to carry a measure to curtail the duration of sessions of Parliament at a time when it is more than ever apparent that the length of our sessions, great as it is, is quite insufficient to the accomplishment of the work urgently required by the country. Were we to leave this consideration out of view, we might agree unreservedly with every argument urged by Mr. Copeland in favour of the measure with which the House dealt with such scant ceremony last night. Unquestionably our sessions are far too long—longer than those of almost any other Parliament, much longer than those in which the British Parliament transacts the business of a world-wide Empire, and long out of all proportion to the work they produce. All this is beyond dispute. The case remains that they are not long enough to enable Parliament to produce anything like a fair proportion of the work which is promised at the opening of each session. An ordinary incident of the progress of our recent sessions is a statement from the head of the Government at not very long intervals indicating the measures which it is found necessary to jettison from the Parliamentary ship in the hope of possibly saving the remainder. In this way the unfortunate Local Government Bill was again tossed overboard the other day, and we have yet to see how many of the few remaining measures will have to share the same fate before the deeply waterlogged vessel is brought safe into the harbour of the recess. When this is the normal state of the case, the suggestion of the shortening of the duration of the session is at least a singular one. It was viewed in this light last night by the leaders of the Ministry and of the Opposition. What the House at their suggestion decided to do was to omit from Mr. Copeland's bill the provision for fixing limits to the length of the session, and to preserve the practical clause providing that any measures which have passed certain stages, but have not been finally disposed of in one session, may in the following session, if of the same Parliament, be restored to the same position and proceeded with.

If we are warranted in regarding such proposals as those of Mr. Copeland's bill, the new standing order, carried in the beginning of the session on the motion of Mr. Reid, providing for the curtailment by the intervention of the Speaker of speeches of "unwarrantable length," and the eager desire of many members of Parliament in addressing their constituents to clear themselves from the imputation of wasting time, as evincing a sense that there is a strong feeling outside of disappointment with the present and the anticipated results of the session, we may at once cordially recognise that this sense is not without ample warrant. The proportion of disappointment to expectation and to promise bids fair to be larger in regard to the outcome of the present Parliament than in respect to any recorded in our annals. Never was there a time when the legislative business of the country was in a more unsatisfactory state, or when Parliament appeared more impotent to deal with it. By the time the electoral measures, for which a "call" of the House is contemplated to be made on the 28th instant, have been finally dealt with by the Assembly, about three-fifths of the session will have been occupied almost wholly with their consideration. And whatever may or may not be the improvement of the representative machinery which they effect, their passing leaves the practical wants of the country wholly unsupplied. The Local Government Bill concerns the real and material interests of the country more directly than any bill merely recasting the electoral arrangements of the country. Yet this bill, promised as one of the most essential of the few measures certain to be dealt with this session, is thrown over to an uncertain future. The great question of federation is so far similarly treated as to evoke from one of the colonies a bitter complaint that the Government of New South Wales having served its own ends with this proposal is now treating it in such a way as to break faith with the other colonies. The subject of federation is of growing importance, and we may say urgency. Many things point to the approaching revival of a Chinese question in a state of great activity in reference to the utilisation of Northern Australia. Much may then depend on whether Australia is able to speak with one voice or with several, perhaps conflicting, voices. Apart from this, the duty of keeping faith with the other colonies by honourably carrying out our pledge to deal with the measure is a paramount one, the neglect of which would seriously jeopardise the whole future of federation. With these and other matters earnestly demanding attention the House flounders on, destitute alike of resolute leadership and definite purpose, and eager at all opportunities to declare that the failure to perform the business of the country is in no way due to its fault.

If these matters largely concern the past portion of the session, every day brings us nearer to a danger to the usefulness and productiveness of the session which lies before us in the future. It is unhappily the case that much of the work which has been passed through the Lower House falls short in quality as it does in quantity. Owing to conditions visible to every observer of our politics, much of that work has not received the fair and impartial consideration which we are entitled to expect the representative House to accord it. Some of it has been introduced undisguisedly in the interest of a class, and as that class has been represented by a strong party in the House, the other parties have not cared to accept the risks of an honest and unflinching criticism of these measures of class legislation. There has been a readiness, springing partly from want of courage, partly perhaps from even more discreditable causes, to let these measures go with all their imperfections on their heads to be dealt with by the Legislative Council. And in view of what may possibly be their fate there, we have already heard mutterings of menace as to what is to happen if the Council should in dealing with these measures bring to bear on them the fair and judicial spirit and the sense of the general interest which we had a right to expect the Assembly to exhibit. These vague threats may prove to be but empty thunder. Should anything more be attempted, the result could only be to add to the barrenness and to intensify the disappointments of the present session. In view of the realities of the past and the possibilities of the near future, it seems a grotesque proposal to offer to us as a remedy, or at least a palliative, of our Parliamentary difficulties a measure for fixing rigid and narrow limits to the length of the session. Surely what is wanted is something wholly different. What we want is a spirit of self-control and self-effacement, which would allow the despatch of public business to take the place of empty purposeless talk. And we want care to so shape measures in the popular House as would reduce the work to be done in the other House, and would eliminate, as far as possible, the necessity for the invidious duty of drastic amendment or absolute rejection.

The foundation of the National Association of New South Wales is one of the signs of the times, and there need be no difficulty in tracing out its origin. It would be more difficult to foretell the future of the movement, and to measure by anticipation the influence it is to exercise. Its objects are such as to deserve success. The undertaking is a large one, as the title of the Association implies, and to carry it through in a satisfactory manner will require no ordinary amount of enthusiasm and persistent effort. A National Association to be worthy of the name, should be represented in every part of the colony, and win the support of men of every class and creed. We would not throw any doubt upon the possibility of attaining such results as these, because national interests are to be recognised everywhere, and there are men in every position of life who are prepared to set a higher value upon them than upon the supposed interests of any class. But it will not be a light task to bring about the union and active co-operation of such men throughout the country in a way whereby the wholesome influence of their patriotism may make itself felt. The old saying that "What is everybody's business is nobody's business" is, to a large extent, explanatory of the comparative indifference with which the general interests of the community are too often regarded. It is often found an easy thing to get men to organise and act vigorously for the propagation of particular principles, or the promotion of sectional or class interests; but it may be a different matter to establish an active agency for the achievement of the broadest national purposes, and the protection of the largest national interests. People are too often content to leave these to take care of themselves. No object could be more in accordance with the general interest of the community than that which is set [illegible] first on the programme of this Association, viz., "To promote law and order and good government, and thereby ensure to every man his personal freedom, and the peaceable enjoyment of his earnings and savings." But if it has been found expedient to establish an organisation for the special purpose of initiating and carrying on a systematic movement in such a matter as this, the inference is that these things, though essential to the public well-being, have suffered neglect. The business of the Association will be to counteract and, if possible, overcome the tendency to indifference and neglect where the very foundations of national prosperity are concerned, by providing a rallying point and a common field of action, for men who, though they may have the common welfare at heart, have yielded in the past to discouragement and a sense of want of power.

The difficulty of forecasting the future of this Association arises from the doubtful character of the movement to which its existence may be traced. Never before in the history of the colony has there been so manifest an attempt as at the last general election to return men to the House as class delegates for the avowed purpose of carrying class legislation by any available means. The experiment is being watched with interest, not only in the colonies but elsewhere; but naturally the keenest interest is felt within the colony itself. It is the people of this colony who will first feel the results, whatever they may be; and while the experiment is in progress the opinion of the people is being formed. At the present moment it is a speculative question whether the unexpected measure of success in the return of class delegates at the last general election is an indication of the future course of events, or is to be considered rather as the flood-mark of a tide that was swollen by special influences, but will ebb when a natural reaction sets in. The people as a whole outnumbers any section of the people; and the question for the future is, whether the people will be content to be governed by the delegates of a section of a particular class, or will take the trouble to insist upon having the conduct of affairs regulated by larger lines. Thus it may be said to be uncertain whether the National Association has been founded to struggle against the permanent current of the stream, or to aid in a reversion to the pursuit of national aims by national methods.

There may be some doubt as to the precise manner in which the Association will work as a political organisation; as, for instance, in connection with the contests of elections. Apparently it would not interfere with party politics, and would govern its action by simple regard to the distinction between what is for the good of the community as a whole, and what is confined to the promotion of the interests of a particular class. In this way it may be possible that in some cases an ambiguity would seem to attach itself to the proceedings of the Association. There may be occasions when the ordinary boundary lines between one political party and another would be overlooked under the necessity of differentiating between the representation of a class and the representation of the community. The Association, we presume, will include men of all classes, and of all parties who are ready to work together through its agency for the promotion of the general good. The tendency of its action would thus be in direct opposition to the scheme of serving class interests by purchasing indifferently the support of either of the two chief parties in the State. But whatever may be the manner in which the Association may endeavour to exercise a direct influence upon contested elections, its chief usefulness will probably be proved by systematic and judicious endeavours to cultivate and develop a healthy public opinion. In times like these, when, as we have said, it is uncertain whether it is a continued rising or turn of the tide that is to be looked for, few things can be of more importance than the exercise of influences tending towards the formation of sound opinion. When efforts are being made to foment class animosity, and to spread the belief that the general prosperity can only be reached by processes of confiscation and destruction, we may welcome the establishment of any agency in support of the principles of honesty and peace, for the protection of personal freedom, for the promotion of general security and confidence, and for setting forth the doctrine that the welfare of every class is the best guarantee for the prosperity of all.

A good deal of both practical and political importance attaches in the estimate of the public to the result of the conference which is to be held this afternoon between representatives of the two Houses with respect to the Crown Lands Act Amendment Bill. And we may be quite sure that the public interest is strongly in favour of such an issue to the conference as will secure the measure and will obviate a dispute which might become an angry one between the two Chambers of the Legislature. We ought not to be expecting too much when we look to see a similar spirit animating the discussions of the conference. There is everything to make this desirable, and, so far as we can see, nothing on the other side. There is first the interest in the bill becoming law. We have the assurance of Mr. Brunker, speaking as the guardian of the interests at once of the State and of the protégés of the State, the selectors, that great and important interests depend on the bill becoming law. It is difficult to see what constitutional interests operate to prevent this result. There is no apparent interest of class or party tending in any way to exacerbate the difference of opinion between the two Houses. The merits of this difference we have already discussed, and do not desire to enter into the subject now. It is difficult to suppose that the merits of the difference can furnish anything like an insurmountable obstacle to a satisfactory settlement. The danger, if there is any danger, to such a settlement lies in a different direction. The talk that has taken place on the subject has gone more on constitutional grounds than on practical grounds of land legislation. It has been too rashly assumed that the Council in amending the bill has in some way infringed the rights of the other House. This argument is too untenable to find a place in the serious deliberations of the conference. At the same time we may reasonably expect that the representatives of the Council will not allow themselves to be hardened by what has been said in this tone against the spirit of mutual consideration and concession which a conference is designed to elicit. On the other hand, it is not too much to assume that the representatives of the Assembly will bear in mind that the other House, in preferring the operations of a legal and open court to the arbitrary decisions of a Minister, is only acting in harmony with the recent course of the legislation of the Assembly on this subject, and in accordance with what has been affirmed in the Assembly to be at once the will and the best interest of the people. However we view the matter, there seems no ground for apprehending any insuperable difficulty in the way of a satisfactory agreement. The sole essential is that agreement be sought in the spirit of peace and conciliation, and we trust that this will not be wanting.

The incident which has recently occurred at Rome, in the insult offered by French pilgrims to the tomb of Victor Emmanuel, is not one to result in political complications. The amende honorable has been made by a French Cardinal in the name, it may be presumed, of the religious world of France; and though the populace at Rome seemed inclined to resent the indignity offered to the memory of the patriot King, the Government is not likely to look on it otherwise than as a meaningless ebullition of fanaticism. Yet it points to the line of cleavage between France and Italy. The former may not as a nation have retained much concern in the question of the temporal power of the Pope—for his action in relation to which, the memory of Victor Emmanuel evoked this expression of hostility from the pilgrims. Still it is to that question that is dated back the unfriendly feeling that now exists between Italy and France. Italy is sometimes charged with ingratitude to France in forgetting the help rendered by that Power to the restoration of United Italy; but Italy has resentful memories of the difficulties thrown in the way of her getting possession of Rome by the protectorate given by France to the Papal Power. It was only when the might of France was lowered at Sedan that Victor Emmanuel was enabled to make Rome the capital of United Italy; and whatever gratitude Italy might have been supposed to owe for former services, was not only obliterated but turned to resentment by this protection to the temporal rights of the Church. From that has arisen mainly the alienation which has shown itself in the jealousies over Tunis, Tripoli, and Mediterranean questions generally; and not even the forced concession of territory has left a more rankling feeling in the popular mind of Italy than the recollection of the attitude of France on the question of the possession of the capital. The insult, therefore, to the tomb of Victor Emmanuel on the part of pilgrims from France, had not only a religious but a political aspect; for it touched in the Italian mind a memory of the incidents that formed the starting point in the present political estrangement between France and Italy.

His Excellency the Governor presided over the weekly meeting of the Executive Council held yesterday. Mr. Archibald C. Fraser, J.P., Under-Secretary to the Department of Justice, was appointed a member of the Civil Service Board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Hon. Geoffrey Eagar. Mr. Fraser was a member of the original board appointed in 1885. At the expiration of three years' service he retired. The Executive also sanctioned the following public holidays:—Walcha, October 7; Wentworth and Orange, October 8; Bombala, October 15; Corowa, October 22; and Bourke, October 23.

A meeting of the Cabinet will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Legislative Council will meet this afternoon. The business paper consists of two questions, a motion to refer the Rutland Flux Tramway Bill to a select committee, a motion for leave to introduce a bill to amend the Broken Hill and District Water Supply Act of 1888, and also a motion for the production of certain military correspondence.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the free conference of hon. members of the Legislative Council and Assembly will meet to discuss the Council's amendments to the Crown Lands Act Amendment Bill which the Lower House has declined to accept. The representatives of the Council will be—Dr. Garran, Messrs. James Hoskins, A. H. Jacob, R. E. O'Connor, W. J. Trickett, W. H. Suttor, G. H. Cox, F. T. Humphery, S. A. Stephen, and H. E. Kater. The Legislative Assembly will be represented by Sir Henry Parkes, Messrs. J. N. Brunker, J. H. Carruthers, H. Copeland, W. P. Crick, J. Gormly, W. J. Lyne, E. W. O'Sullivan, T. T. Ewing, and C. A. Lee. The last free conference took place in November, 1881, the subject discussed being certain amendments made by the Council in the Influx of Chinese Restriction Bill disagreed to by the Assembly and insisted on by the Council. At the hour appointed the managers proceeded to the conference, attended by the Sergeant-at-Arms, the business of the House being suspended during their absence. The same course of procedure will be followed to-day. At 5 o'clock members of both Houses will suspend business until some decision has been arrived at by the conference. The managers will then return and report the result of deliberations. In the Assembly Sir Henry Parkes, with consent, will move that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the report forwarded by the free conference, and after consideration the committee will, in the ordinary manner, report to the House.

A matter of such importance as the recent financial panic could not, of course, be left unnoticed by Parliament. Under the pressure of this panic many of the weaker building and investment companies have gone down, and hence Mr. O'Sullivan wished to know whether the Government would consider the advisableness of having a thorough inquiry made into the condition of the various fire and life insurance companies. What possible connection there can be between building societies and insurance companies was not explained by Mr. O'Sullivan; but the Premier, who took the matter seriously, explained that the Government intended to bring in a measure dealing with the building societies. As to the insurance companies, he could not say, until he had consulted his colleagues, whether a Royal Commission would be appointed or no. There were more surprises in store for the House. The Premier gave notice that he would adopt the unusual course of moving for a call of the House on October 28 to consider the third readings of the Electoral Reform and the Seats Redistribution Bills. This will, at anyrate, secure a fair expression of opinion from a full House, and will prevent anything like a snatch party vote being taken on these important matters. Then Mr. Houghton, as a friend of the newly-enfranchised paupers, brought a most curious matter under the attention of the House. It appears that somewhere in the land of benevolent asylums there resided a married pauper, who at present is an occupant of one of her Majesty's gaols. The pauper, sick, weakly, and unable to earn his own living, had a wife who also wanted support. Consequently he was summoned for wife desertion, and a magisterial order for the payment of maintenance was made against him. Naturally the pauper was unable to obey the order of the Court, and his imprisonment followed.

It was a strange case, certainly, but Mr. Houghton's warm sympathy brought forth no response from the Minister of Justice. Mr. Gould showed that the aged pauper had only been treated in a strictly legal fashion. An order of the Court for the payment of a certain weekly sum had been made. It had been disobeyed, and the pauper had been imprisoned. Voilà tout. Mr. Gould, apparently, saw nothing humorous in the idea of imprisoning a pauper for the non-payment of money. The law was the law, and must be carried out. The only remedy the Minister could suggest was that the friends of the newly-enfranchised should subscribe a few pounds on his behalf, and, by bringing the case before the Court, have the order quashed. After this the orders of the day were soon reached, and Mr. Copeland had an opportunity of making a lengthy speech in support of a very short bill. His measure, called the Parliamentary Sessions Bill, is designed to fix in an arbitrary way the duration of Parliamentary sessions. There is to be only one session each year, lasting from the second Tuesday in April to the second Thursday in November. Of course the session may be shorter, but it must not extend beyond the seven months period thus specified. In the event of war or other extraordinary event, the Government is to have power to summon an emergency session, and provision is also made for the transference of business from one session to another.

Mr. Copeland brought forward many arguments in favour of his measure of reform. He showed how the lengthy sessions and long hours at present in vogue were simply killing members of Parliament. He urged that all needful business could easily be transacted in seven months of the year, and the five months' rest intervening would give the Government time to prepare work for Parliament to go on with. As usual the member for New England was armed with statistics, and to strengthen his case he told the Assembly a good deal about the things done in other countries, especially in South America, where such arbitrarily limited Parliamentary sittings seem quite common. Sir Henry Parkes took exception to this attempt to define the length of Parliamentary sessions. He pointed out that many exceptional circumstances might arise, and that it would be most inconvenient if the session terminated on a fixed date. A small party wishing to hamper the Government could easily obstruct the Estimates, and so prevent their passing before the session legally ended. In short, after dwelling for a few minutes on the history of the United States Republic, Sir Henry condemned the proposal as a dangerous one, and advised the House to reject the first portion of the bill. The second part of the measure, which provides that business begun in one session may be continued in the next, met with the Premier's approval. Mr. Dibbs, for a wonder, found himself in accord with the head of the Government, and asked Mr. Copeland to abandon the first part of his enactment as impracticable. Being philosophically inclined, Mr. Copeland considered that half a loaf was better than none. So he agreed to take the opinion of the House on the first section of the bill. Hence, one-half of the bill was quietly put out of the way, and after a little debate and sundry amendments, the second section was passed. As the bill now stands it simply provides for the transference of business from one session to another, and will probably effect much saving of legislative time.

As it was a private members' evening, Mr. Reid had an opportunity to go on with a little proposal of his own, the "Partnership Bill." He explained that the measure was an exact copy of the Act recently passed in England. It coded the whole of the law relating to partnership, and would therefore be of immense assistance to the business section of the community. On behalf of the Government Mr. Gould warmly supported the measure, and so its path was smoothed. No one raised any special difficulty; the provisions of the bill were purely of a legal and technical character, and were calculated to benefit rather than to injure mercantile men carrying on business in partnership. Thus the measure, which contains altogether 48 clauses, was rushed through committee in a remarkably short space of time, and Mr. Reid had the satisfaction of feeling that he had introduced a unique enactment—one which met with the approval of all sections of the Assembly. The member for East Sydney had yet another useful law to propose. This was the Arbitration Bill, designed to provide a cheap and easily available machinery for the conduct of arbitration cases. The idea is to save the time of the courts by referring matters of a purely technical character to one or more arbitrators. This is done sometimes at present, but as no machinery for the purpose exists the process is troublesome and costly. Mr. Reid's bill, designed to remove these difficulties, was readily accepted, and a few necessary amendments having been made, it went through committee with the greatest ease.

More little bills had to be dealt with. Mr. Want, who by some means had induced many members to give way to him, moved the second reading of the Yougaleatha Marble, Flag, and Flux Company Bill, a purely local measure, designed to empower certain persons to construct a tramway for the purpose of conveying flux to the Broken Hill mines. The Government raised no special objection, and the Minister most concerned, Mr. Bruce Smith, contented himself by suggesting an alteration in the proposed gauge, so as to bring it into harmony with the other lines of the colony. There were good reasons, however, against the amendment, and so it was not insisted on. The next bill, though it was fathered by a layman, was distinctly of a legal character. Mr. Walker, on behalf of the poor man, desires to cheapen litigation. His measure proposed to prevent more than one counsel being employed, or rather paid for, in any case. Costs should only be allowed for one counsel, and then, according to Mr. Walker, the poor and the rich would at last be placed on a footing of legal equality. Thus the member for Northumberland, who apparently made out a good case until Mr. Bruce Smith knocked the whole foundation from under the structure. As a non-practising lawyer, Mr. Smith claimed to speak with authority, and yet with impartiality. He showed that Mr. Walker's bill would have an effect exactly opposite to that intended. Instead of helping the poor man, it would handicap him in favour of the man prepared to spend money. The rich man would employ counsel ad lib., not caring whether the cost was returned or not. The poor man, however, knowing that he could not recover costs for more than one counsel, would be restricted to a single advocate, and thus placed at a disadvantage. Mr. Crick, as a representative of the lower branch of the legal profession, grew wrathful over all this, and came forward as an ardent supporter of Mr. Walker. Mr. Crick could find no words of denunciation too strong to apply to the higher branch of his own profession.

All this aroused Mr. Want's indignation, and in the course of a powerful speech he made a vigorous defence of the barristers, more than hinting that Mr. Walker knew nothing whatever about the bill which he had introduced. Mr. Reid, supporting his legal friend, drew a moving picture of the suffering and hardships endured by the poor barrister. He showed that no good could come of these patchwork attempts at legal reform, no benefit would be derived; nothing, in fact, would be of any use until the whole system was revised. Mr. Barton also, as a lawyer who knew something about the matter, took strong exception to the bill, showing that it would entirely fail to accomplish the end desired. In spite of these technical objections, the measure was eagerly accepted by the House. For some mysterious reason the proposal was looked upon as a democratic one, and this in itself was sufficient to secure the support of the large number of representatives who pose as advanced thinkers. Consequently the second reading was carried by 49 votes to 14, and the bill, presenting no special difficulties, was passed through committee without amendment. The next little bill belonged to Mr. Torpy, who wished to extend the jurisdiction of the courts of petty sessions from cases involving £10 to £30. Mr. Gould, however, had certain objections, and asked for a postponement until he could bring down some new clauses to be embodied in the bill. This gave Mr. Crick an opportunity to point out that justices of the peace were not always immaculate, and that appointments to the commission were too often made for purely political reasons. When the bill got into committee an attempt was made by the Minister of Justice to exclude the metropolitan police district, making the bill applicable only to the country districts. This having failed, the bill, after a little discussion, was safely engineered through committee. It was now nearly 1 o'clock, and the idea of adjournment naturally seemed appropriate. Mr. Bruce Smith pointed out that it was hardly fair to keep Ministers up till all hours of the night, and then to expect them to attend to their official work during the day. Some objections were raised by members who had business yet untouched on the notice paper, but common-sense at last prevailed, and the House, having done a remarkably good evening's work, rose at 20 minutes past 1.

Sir Henry Parkes will move this afternoon,—"That the Assembly will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the expediency of bringing in a bill for prohibiting the sale, or exposure for sale, of diseased animals, and for amending the law relating to the sale, or exposure for sale, of meat which is diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man."

Sir Henry Parkes will move in the Legislative Assembly this afternoon,—"That there be a call of the House on Wednesday, 28th October instant, for the purpose of considering the third readings of the Representation of the People Bill (No. 2) and the Seats Redistribution Bill." Calls of the House, although rare, are not without precedent, as they have been made in the Parliament of New South Wales from the year 1853 down to 1886. There were calls in 1854, 1857, 1861, and 1866, and on the last-named occasion, the subject under particular notice was the advisableness or not of affording State-aid to religious instruction. On the 21st October, 1886, Mr. J. P. Abbott, the present Speaker of the Assembly, demanded a call of hon. members to give an expression of opinion on the payment of members proposal. The Standing Orders of the Legislative Assembly provide that no order for a call of the House shall be made for any day earlier than 21 days from the date on which such order shall have been made. Any member not attending in compliance [illegible] with an order for a call of the House without reasonable excuse is guilty of contempt, and every member adjudged by the House guilty of such contempt "shall be committed by the warrant of the Speaker to the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms, and shall be detained in custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms until released by an order of the House, upon such conditions for payment of fees as the House shall deem meet." If the Premier's motion is carried, the Speaker on October 28 will order the Sergeant-at-Arms to summon hon. members. All letters and explanations received for non-attendance will be read, and then the Speaker will instruct the Clerk of Assembly to call the roll in alphabetical order. The names of members not present, and who have failed to send a valid excuse for absence, will then be noted.

Amongst the notices of motion on to-day's Legislative Assembly business paper is one by Mr. O'Sullivan for leave to introduce a bill for the prevention of cruelty to and better protection of children; and another by Mr. Hoyle, asking that a portion of the Art Gallery shall be set aside to enable artists of the colony to exhibit at least two works of art each once a year.

To-day, at 11 o'clock, a deputation will wait upon Mr. Brunker, the Minister for Lands, with a request for a piece of land at Hornsby Junction for recreation purposes. Half an hour later residents of Auburn will submit to the same Minister certain local requirements. On Friday, the following deputations will wait upon the Premier:—Kogarah Municipal Council, at 11 o'clock, respecting a cemetery; the Australian Cities' Investment Corporation at 11.30, respecting the condition of a portion of the Centennial Park and approaches to the Kensington Estate; and at noon, representatives of the Sydney Woolselling Brokers' Association with regard to the representation of Australian wools at the World's Fair, Chicago, in 1893.

Yesterday Messrs. J. F. Cullen and E. M. Clark, Ms.L.A., introduced to the Minister for Works a deputation representing the North Sydney Municipality, with a request to the effect that the proposed bridge at the foot of Walker-street, in connection with the North Shore railway, should be abandoned, and the line be taken through a tunnel under Walker-street. In reply, Mr. J. H. Young said his knowledge of engineering was insufficient to warrant him in forming an opinion on the merits of the proposed change, but at the same time he was surprised that the matter had not been laid before him prior to the signing of the contract. He could not stop the contractor at this stage, and all he could say was that he would submit the facts placed before him to his engineering advisers, and ask for a fair consideration and report.

Mr. Oliver, one of the Railway Commissioners, accompanied by Mr. Foxlee, the Acting-Engineer-in-Chief, Mr. Superintendent Parry, and Messrs. Monie and Angus, the contractors, on Monday last inspected the works under construction on the Southern line between Sydney and Bowral. Satisfactory progress is being made, and in the near future an additional length of double line towards Picton will be completed. The small bridge-work is also well forward, and the road as it at present exists is in fair order. Bowral Quarry has proved a convenient source of excellent ballast, the output for the last month having been 4500 tons.

The case of Proudfoot v. Dalgety and Co. was continued before Mr. Justice Owen in Equity yesterday, but the greater part of the day was devoted to the reading of evidence taken before the Master. The hearing will be resumed this morning. It was announced during the day that a petition which had been presented for the winding up of the Australian Mutual Investment and Building Company, had been withdrawn by consent.

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday Mr. Registrar Henry made an order for the sequestration of the estate of Catherine Mary Agnes Johnson, on the petition of James Campbell and Sons, of Queensland. The act of bankruptcy was that an adjudication order was made against the respondent on September 10 last, in Queensland, and that she had not received a certificate of discharge. The respondent, who is a married woman, was arrested in Sydney some few days ago on a charge that, she being an adjudicated insolvent, did leave the colony of Queensland having in her possession a certain sum of money, the property of her creditors. On October 1 a petition was presented to the Judge in Bankruptcy for the sequestration of the estate of Mrs. Johnson, and the time of hearing was set down for yesterday, at the same time the Judge granted an injunction restraining the Bank of New South Wales from paying certain money to the bankrupt. The Registrar in granting the order remarked that he could not see what good would come from the granting of it, as there were no assets in this colony, and nothing would come to the official assignee.

Mr. W. M'Millan, M.L.A., as president, has convened the first meeting of the New South Wales Commission whose duty is to represent this colony at the Chicago Exhibition of 1893. It will take place at 11 o'clock this morning in the board-room of the Colonial Secretary's Department. The business to be transacted is of a preliminary character.

At a special meeting of depositors in the Excelsior Land, Investment, and Building Company and Bank, Limited, held yesterday afternoon in the Temperance Hall, it was unanimously resolved that the deposits be renewed upon maturity for a further term, and that one-fourth be made payable, with 6 per cent. interest added, at the end of the first, second, third, and fourth years after renewal. In the evening a special meeting of depositors in the Mutual Provident, Land, Investing, and Building Society was held, and a resolution in favour of voluntary liquidation was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. Thomas Pratt, financial agent of the London Missionary Society, has received a cablegram from London instructing him to build a steam launch for mission work on the Fly River, New Guinea. The vessel is to cost £1000, towards which sum upwards of £500 has already been raised in the colonies, in answer to appeals made by the Rev. James Chalmers, who will have charge of the mission. In addition to the steam launch, a large whaleboat, 30ft. long, a present from the natives of Aitutaki, in the Hervey Group, will also be employed.

The mission of the Rev. G. C. Grubb was continued in St. Barnabas' Church, George-street West, yesterday. Early in the morning there was a prayer meeting, and in the afternoon there was a Bible reading, followed by a children's service, conducted by Mr. Millard. The evening meeting saw the church completely filled, among those present being the Rev. Wm. Martin, B.A., incumbent, Revs. J. D. Langley, T. B. Tress, Canon Soares, of Goulburn, and A. C. Mosley. Mr. Grubb preached a sermon on the story of Jesus at the well in Samaria, special reference being made to the words "The woman then left her water-pot." (John iv., 28.) At an after meeting, which followed the sermon, about 50 men and women confessed to having learned the "true way" that night.

The annual festival of the William-street Wesleyan Sunday School was held in the church last night. There was a large attendance. On the platform round the pulpit were seated about 150 children, who, under the direction of Mr. J. M. Lane, sweetly rendered a number of hymns. Mr. G. J. Godfrey presided at the organ, and addresses were delivered by Mr. F. Swyny, the Rev. Rainsford Bavin, and Mr. W. White.

A bazaar, in aid of the funds of the Waverley Presbyterian Church, was opened in the local Athenæum Hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. J. Marks, M.L.A. In addition to the endeavour to clear the liability on the church an effort is to be made, by means of the bazaar, to form the nucleus of a new building fund. The bazaar was organised by the ladies of the congregation, and the artistic and imposing display of articles bore ample testimony to the ability and application which they have imported into their labours. The arrangement of the stalls and the decoration of the hall were very effective, and the only other element required for the success of the bazaar, viz., a large attendance, was in strong evidence. The Rev. John Macaulay, M.A., pastor of the church, presided at the opening ceremony; and amongst those on the platform were the Revs. J. Milne, T. Hope, J. Walker, J. Paton, J. Inglis, and Messrs. Alfred Allen, M.L.A., P. D. M'Cormack, A. Kemp, and Alderman Macpherson. The Rev. James Milne offered the initiatory prayer. Mr. M'Cormack read a statement which showed that the church was about £1000 in debt, although its assets far exceeded its liabilities. The congregation was worshipping in a school hall. They possessed the land adjoining and upon it they desired to erect a proper church. Mr. James Marks, M.L.A., in declaring the bazaar open, said it gave him great pleasure to be present and express the hope that the result of the bazaar would fully realise all their expectations. On the motion of Alderman Macpherson, seconded by Mr. A. Kemp, a vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. J. Marks for opening the bazaar. Business was then proceeded with briskly. The stallholders and the ladies assisting them are as follows:—Mrs. William Grahame, assisted by Mesdames Sands, J. K. Smyth, R. Sands, Hughes, and George Bogg; Mesdames Macaulay, Hutton, and Matheson, assisted by Misses Hutton, Ross, Campbell, Peden, and Bristo; Mesdames Watson, Griffiths, D. W. Harrison, and P. D. M'Cormack, assisted by Mrs. Vaxman, Misses Fletcher, Griffiths, Hicks, and Paterson; Mesdames T. Meldrum, S. Steel, J. S. Christie, and J. Beaumont, assisted by Misses Drummond, Macpherson, Steel, Meldrum, Beaumont, and Kirkpatrick. Sunday School stall: Misses Emily Patterson, Annie Hicks, Maggie Haig, and Nellie Harrison, and Mr. A Kemp, superintendent. Flower stall: Misses Macpherson and Gracie Macpherson, assisted by Misses Hammond and Jessie Hutton. Refreshment stall: Mesdames A. Craig and Chave and Miss Close. Produce stall: Messrs. W. Houston and J. Nivin. Shooting ranges: Messrs. E. J. Harrison and D. Wiley and Master T. H. Meldrum. The bazaar will remain open till Saturday night.

The Rev. D. F. Barry, O.S.B., delivered a lecture last evening in the Federation Hall, Charlotte-place, entitled "Ireland's Great Poet, Tom Moore." There was a fair attendance, and the chair was taken by the Rev. Father Le Rennetel. The lecturer opened with a dissertation on the influence of poetry and music on the human passions and affections, which he declared were part of ourselves—a portion of our destiny. Shakespeare had said that he who had no music in his composition was something less than a man, but it would hardly be imagined that any such charge could be sheeted home to the sons of Erin. The taste and talent of ancient Erin for music and poetry surpassed both Eastern and Western nations. Going back to the time in which Moore flourished, the lecturer gave a brief sketch of the literary merit of his contemporaries, one of whom—Lord Byron—designated him as "the poet of all circles, the idol of his own." From Moore's birth on August 12, 1779, through his childhood, school days, and, later, University career, the lecturer followed him closely, subsequently touching upon his principal works, and quoting from each. An excerpt from "Larry O'Brannigan's Letter to Judy in Mullinafad" completely brought down the house. Moore was not only a poet of first rank, he said, but his prose writings, such as the "Life of Sheridan," the "Memoirs of Captain Rock," the "Life of Lord Edward Fitzgerald," and the "Letters and Journal of Byron" were pronounced by Macaulay as deserving "to be classified amongst the best specimens of English prose which any age has produced." The proceeds of the lecture were devoted to the parochial fund of St. Patrick's parish.

The anniversary services in connection with the Sussex and Liverpool streets Mission Church, were held on Sunday. The Rev. B. Kenny preached in the morning and evening, and the Rev. C. Waters and Mrs. Waters spoke in the afternoon. In continuation of the celebration, a public meeting was held in the church last evening. The annual report and balance-sheet were adopted, and an address relating to the work of the pastor, Mr. George Lewis, was presented to that gentleman.

A musical and literary evening was held in the Centenary Hall, York-street, last evening, under the auspices of the Young Men's Club associated with the hall. The Rev. W. G. Taylor was in the chair. The following contributed to the programme:—Mr. E. J. Massey, Mr. Watson, Miss Naylor, Mr. Kramer, Mr. R. B. Hartley, junr., Masters R. and H. Clough, and Mr. Ingram.

A tea meeting was held at Rockdale on Monday night in connection with the settlement of the Rev. Charles Boyall as pastor of the Rockdale Baptist Chapel. A public meeting was afterwards held in the Town Hall, which was attended by a number of friends of the denomination. Mr. W. G. Judd occupied the chair.

A pleasant outing has been made by the students of the agricultural classes of the Sydney Technical College, and of the class at Hornsby. The party, under the charge of the acting-lecturer, Mr. Henry Lord, went to Gosford on Saturday afternoon, and returned to Sydney on Monday evening. The State Forest Nursery at Gosford was visited several times. The overseer, Mr. MacCoig, showed the students over that extensive establishment. Among other interesting events was a visit to the Kent Apiary, where Mr. Lurcock gave the students a practical lesson in beekeeping, one item being the hiving of a swarm of bees.

The monthly meeting of the Australian Economic Association was held last evening in the rooms, Pitt and Park streets. The chair was occupied by the president (Professor Scott). There was an excellent attendance of members. After discussion it was decided to invite an accredited representative of the Trades and Labour Council of New South Wales to read a paper on "Surplus Labour" before the association. The discussion of Dr. Ellis's paper on "Is Land Capital?" was continued by Dr. Garran and Professor Scott, and then Dr. Ellis replied. Following this was the discussion on Mr. A. W. Johnston's paper on "Revenue v. Production." The discussion was opened by Mr. A. De Lissa, several other members taking part.

On Monday evening the School of Arts Debating Club debated the following:—"That the bill introduced by Mr. B. R. Wise to amend the Municipalities Act is worthy of support." An amendment was moved,—"That this club approves of the alteration of clause 1 in Mr. Wise's Act in the direction of making the proposed taxation a compulsory method." The amendment was carried by a large majority.

Mr. Henry Savage Landor, a young artist, and grandson of the famous poet, is now visiting Sydney in the course of world-wanderings which have occupied the past seven years of his life. Mr. Landor, who was born at Florence, began his travels in Morocco and Algeria, traversed Spain, and in 1887 reached Malta, of which city he painted a series of views for the Duchess of Edinburgh. The Washington Post of April, 1889, records the success of his portrait of President Harrison and of Miss Lincoln, the daughter of the present U. S. Minister at the Court of St. James's. In Chicago, where Mrs. Potter was then playing in "Anthony and Cleopatra," Mr. Landor painted the winsome actress in the character of Juliet, and a few weeks later Mrs. Langtry sat to him as Esther Sandraz. Japan was next visited, and here the young artist met Sir Edwin Arnold, and at Tokio perpetuated his likeness in oils. The Japan Gazette mentions the fact that Mr. Landor was the only Englishman upon whom the Duke of Connaught called, the occasion referred to being a royal visit to his studio on May 6, 1890. From Japan Mr. Landor sent home more than 700 sketches and paintings of native life and characteristic scenery, and he then explored the North-east Coast of Yeso, and resided for five months—the only man of his race and colour—in the secluded and barbarous Kurile Islands. Some of his experiences in these islands were narrated by him at a banquet in his honour given by the German Asiatic Society at Yokohama, on December 2 last, and the whole story of his adventures there will shortly be published in London under the title of "Among the Hairy People of Yezo." It is conjectured that this nation may furnish Darwin's missing link. Mr. Landor learnt the Yezo tongue—indeed, he boasts the acquisition of 12 foreign languages—and then visited the Royal Family of Corea (North China), whose portraits he painted. Whilst at Hankow he fell in with the Czarewich of Russia, who proved in an amiable mood. Mr. Landor reached Sydney about five weeks ago, bringing with him a number of landscape paintings, for the most part rather sympathetic than finished, but in several instances showing force as well as feeling. These qualities are especially noticeable in the art with which he has overcome the difficulties inherent in his subject of the Great Wall of China, painted at a point where it climbs the steep front of a bare and rocky hill. The mountain side, the fortresses, the very camels that trail along the lower road, are of the same hue, but the brown tones are so subtly contrasted that there is no sense of monotony, and the intense and cloudless blue of the sky which forms the background is truthful. Mr. Landor, since his arrival here, has painted a striking portrait of Sir Henry Parkes in profile. The likeness conveys a sense of power, due to the force and boldness of the treatment, and the somewhat sickly flesh tints, suggesting recent illness, are cleverly handled. Mr. Landor remains a short time longer here before proceeding to Melbourne.

In the window of David Jones and Co., George-street, there is now on view an example of pastel painting, being a portrait enlarged from a small photograph by Mr. Van der Beeck, of the Imperial Arcade. The artist has succeeded in getting an effect of great softness and mellowness, as well as a faithful reproduction of the original. In a less harsh light than the rather unsuitable one of a shop window, the picture would be seen to better advantage, and the shadowing of the portrait would receive its proper value. Pastel painting is of course a revival of an old and once popular taste which flourished in the last century, and is now, like other old fashions, coming once more int· marked popularity.

Yesterday afternoon a small quantity of wool in premises occupied by Mr. J. Vicars, woollen manufacturer, Sussex-street, caught fire, and was destroyed. The employees extinguished the flames before any serious damage had been done. Several offices have insurances over the contents, amounting altogether to £4850. The origin of the outbreak is unknown.

Mr. W. T. Pinhey, J.P., Deputy City Coroner, held a magisterial inquiry yesterday at the South Sydney Morgue upon the body of a rope-maker named William Chapman, aged 27 years, who was washed off the rocks at the north side of Long Bay whilst fishing about noon on September 27 last. His body was not recovered until last Monday. Deceased had resided at Botany-road, Waterloo. A finding of accidentally drowned was entered.

Mr. W. T. Pinhey, J.P. (Deputy City Coroner), held an inquest yesterday afternoon at the Summer Hill Hotel, Summer Hill, upon the body of a man named Richard Ditchburn, aged 69 years, who had been burned to death at a house in Grosvenor-crescent, Summer Hill. The house was occupied by Mrs. M. Dransfield, by whom deceased was employed as gardener. A verdict was returned to the effect that deceased had died from injuries accidentally received by fire while sleeping in an outbuilding.

Yesterday afternoon a man named Thomas M'Manis, resident of Surry Hills, was admitted into the Parramatta District Hospital suffering from injuries to his head and arms caused through a derrick falling and striking him. He was engaged in removing the overhead bridge at the Parramatta railway station when the guys supporting the derrick gave way or slipped. One of the man's ears is badly cut all round, and he has a bad scalp wound.

A Chinaman named Chey Hay, 26, a vegetable dealer, living in Wexford-street, was admitted to the Sydney Hospital last night, suffering from severe burns. While in the act of pouring some kerosene on a fire the flames rose and set his trousers alight.

A little boy named Ray Small, son of the schoolmaster at Rydalmere Public School, met with a severe accident on Saturday afternoon. While bird-nesting he fell from a tree a distance of about 30ft., and received a concussion of the brain, besides other internal injuries.

A pleasant ceremony took place on Thursday evening last at the printing establishment of Marcus and Andrews, when Mr. E. L. Clark, who is leaving the firm's employ, was the recipient of a handsome dressing-case. Mr. G. E. Barrie, in making the presentation on behalf of the employees, referred to the good feeling which had invariably existed between Mr. Clark and the whole of the men employed in the office. To these remarks Mr. Clark very feelingly replied.

The eighth annual social of the Glebe Bowling Club took place in the Glebe Town Hall last night. Alderman Conlon filled the president's position, who, owing to illness, was unable to attend, and Mr. J. G. Purves acted as M.C. There were about 50 couples present, and dancing, to music supplied by De Groen's Band, was continued till a late hour. The Mayor (Alderman P. C. Lucas) and the Mayoress were present during the evening. Mr. J. I. Smith, of George-street, did the catering.

An interesting lecture entitled "Shakespeare's Country" was delivered last evening before a large audience by the Rev. George Walters at the Unitarian Church. The remarks of the lecturer were illustrated by about 50 lantern views representing scenes of historical interest in Kenilworth, Stratford-on-Avon, Coventry, Warwick, &c. A picture of Shakespeare's birthplace was much admired, as were also representations of the memorial theatre and other structures erected in memory of the great playwriter. During the course of the evening Miss F. Tuckett sweetly rendered the solos "Waiting" and "Stay with me," for which she was loudly applauded. The entertainment was brought to a close by the exhibition on the screen of an excellent photographic slide representing the interior of the Unitarian Church as decorated during the recent floral services.

"Woodbarrow Farm" was repeated at Her Majesty's Theatre last night. The performance may be recommended to playgoers as a pleasant rendering of a pretty piece, marked by alluring pathos and some humour. Jerome's comedy is preceded by "A Prompter's Story," a well-played little drama.

"Cinder-Ellen" was performed for the second time at the Theatre Royal last night, when the house was crowded, and the piece was as cordially received as on Monday. The new burlesque is evidently going to carry the London Gaiety Company triumphantly through the remainder of its short season here.

"Sunlight and Shadow" will be produced for the first time in Australia at the Criterion Theatre this evening, when Miss Marie Fraser will make her début with the Brough-Boucicault Comedy Company as Helen Latimer. The cast, as already stated, will include Messrs. Titheradge, Boucicault, Lyndal, Lawrence, M'Intyre, and Miss Pattie Browne, whilst Miss Watt Tanner joins the company especially to play the heavy dramatic character of Janet Felton. Mr. Carton's drama bears a high reputation, and to-night's production will be viewed with interest.

The last three nights of "Potter of Texas" were announced from the stage of the Garrick Theatre by Mr. George Darrell on Monday. The statement made at the same time that "The Sunny South" would be revived on Saturday was cordially received. The piece had a good run at the Opera House some years ago, and its revival by the present company should prove popular.

A benefit concert will be given this evening at the Centenary Hall, York-street, in aid of the widow of the late J. Churchill Fisher. That composer's cantata, "Under the Holly," will be performed by a strong chorus under Mr. J. A. Delany's direction, and an attractive miscellaneous programme will follow.

The Permanent Artillery Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Devery, will perform in the Botanic Gardens this afternoon, weather permitting.

The report for the week ended October 3 of the number of pauper patients under treatment in the metropolitan hospitals at the Government expense is as follows:—Coast Hospital: Admissions, 23; discharges, 39; death, 1; number remaining, 178. Sydney Hospital: Admissions, 15; discharges, 12; deaths, 3; number remaining, 76. Moorcliff Eye Hospital: Admissions, 4; discharges, 2; number remaining, 45. Prince Alfred Hospital: Admissions, 11; discharges, 12; death, 1; number remaining, 68.

PRISON DISCIPLINE IN VICTORIA.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The authorities at Pentridge are finding considerable trouble with the prisoners in C division of the Pentridge stockade through the introduction of the new system of separating the men at meals, and Governor Dwyer states that he has a very delicate task with the prisoners in making them conform to the regulations without resorting to force. There are about 400 prisoners in this division. Many are employed in the shops as carpenters, tailors, bootmakers, &c., and they were allowed out of their cells at 6 in the morning to wash, the prisoners taking advantage for exercise and to converse. Now the men have to wash in their cells, and their food is passed in to them at 20 minutes past 6. At 20 minutes to 7 they are marched to work. The men now feel the want of morning exercise. On Sunday Governor Dwyer told the prisoners, when assembled in the large mess-room, that the new system would come into operation on the next morning, and that it would be wise to obey cheerfully, otherwise sufficient force would be used to enforce compliance. Next morning at the usual hour for opening the cell doors the inmates began to murmur loudly at not being let out, and the governor had great difficulty in repressing an outcry. At dinner time the discontent was again manifested, in a less aggravated form. Yesterday considerable trouble was also experienced, and Dwyer says that it is yet too soon to assert that all danger of an outbreak is over.

DROWNED IN THE MURRAY.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

ALBURY, Tuesday.

Another sad drowning accident occurred in the Murray, at Albury, this morning, and resulted in the death of a man named John Saunders, a well-known citizen of Albury. Saunders, in company with three other men, was proceeding down the river in a flat-bottomed boat for the purpose of obtaining a supply of a certain kind of grass which they required for brickmaking. They had got but a little distance below the Union Bridge when the boat struck a snag and overturned, and left the occupants struggling in the water. The companions of Saunders managed to reach the shore, but Saunders himself was unable to stem the strong current, and sank exhausted. The police are engaged in dragging the river for the body. The deceased was a married man with a family.

GENERAL BOOTH IN BRISBANE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

General Booth addressed an immense meeting at the Exhibition Building this evening on his scheme "Darkest England, and the Way Out." Sir Samuel Griffith occupied the chair. Mr. Hume Black moved a vote of thanks to the General, and stated that he was converted to General Booth's scheme. The Premier said General Booth need not go away with the idea that the people of Australia in Queensland wanted to shut out those whom General Booth was desiring to help. A motion in favour of the scheme was carried almost unanimously.

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The Paris correspondent of the Times states that M. Ribot, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, intends, after having sounded the Chamber of Deputies on the matter, to promptly conclude a written compact specifying the arrangement which has been entered into by France and Russia.

It is expected that a treaty will be signed within a few weeks, despite Russian attempts to prevent a too close identification of France with Russian interests.

THE SHIPPING STRIKE IN LONDON.

FEDERATION OF UNIONS.

[By Cable.]
(From our Correspondent.)

LONDON, Oct. 5.

The federation of shipping and carrying unions proposes to arrange a federation of similar unions in America and Australia. It is probable that an international conference will be convened at Chicago during the exhibition season, when terms may be arranged for combination.

If the labour block is effective overtures will be made to-morrow to the employers for a settlement, the men desiring to confine the dispute to its present area.

Seventy-thousand miners in South Wales are parleying to join the Labour Federation.

The Labour Federation has instructed all unions affiliated to it to boycott goods handled at the Carron and Hermitage wharfs, wherever they may be found.

Oct. 6.

Frequent conflicts have taken place between the strikers and the non-unionists at the Carron wharfs; but so far the consequences have not proved serious. Further police protection is needed.

The masters deny that they have any intention of locking the men out.

THE GAMBIER-EASBY COLLISION.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Court of Marine Inquiry sat again to-day investigating the circumstances of the Gambier-Easby collision. Mr. J. C. Stewart addressed the court on behalf of Captain Prideaux, master of the Easby, contending that Captain Bell's evidence regarding the position of the vessels and the rates of speed had not been borne out by the evidence, and in other respects his case had been contradicted by the evidence. Whilst the Gambier lay half a mile from where he stated the collision occurred, she must have been driven that distance against the tide. He claimed that Captain Prideaux had steered a proper course, and one entirely justifiable under the circumstances. Mr. Woynarski summed up the evidence for the board, which will give its decision on Thursday next.

THE INFLUENZA IN VICTORIA.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Board of Public Health to-day, Mr. C. A. Topp, the chairman, stated that the typhoid and diphtheria returns were about stationary, the returns comparing very favourably with those of last year. Influenza, although infectious, was not one of diseases of which returns were compulsory, and probably the returns received were incomplete, but it was evident that there had been very serious mortality in the Melbourne district. Up to Saturday 31 deaths had been reported from influenza. Dr. Gresswell stated that many deaths from chest affections were directly attributable to influenza.

Lieutenant Ulrich, of the Williamstown Garrison Artillery, was attacked with influenza while visiting his brother at Maryborough about a week ago, and during a fit of coughing he ruptured a blood-vessel, death ensuing. Thirty-eight men out of a little over 200 of the Victorian Navy are laid up with the disease. Eleven of the Collingwood police, five of Fitzroy, and four of the Carlton division are also down. During the last month over 400 cases were treated at the Free Medical Dispensary in Collingwood.

THE WEATHER FORECAST.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Cabinet has refused to grant the concession asked for on behalf of the Yea River Trading Company that four members of the company should be empowered to take up a thousand acres of land each for cutting timber on condition that they receive compensation for any plant they erect on the reserves.

The billiard match, Roberts v. Memmott, was continued to-day. When play ceased the scores were: Memmott, 9361; Roberts, 6001.

Last night about half-past 7 o'clock William Berry, aged 65, was awaiting the arrival of the Geelong steamer at the Queen's Wharf when a man asked him for a match, and before he could reply he seized him by the throat and held him down while two others ransacked his pockets, stealing four sovereigns and some deposit receipts. Berry was brutally illused, and was unable to call assistance.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The steamer Merrie England returned to Thursday Island last evening with Sir Wm. M'Gregor, who proceeds to Brisbane.

The steamer Waiotahi, 278 tons, arrived at Thursday Island yesterday from Glasgow. She has been built for the Northern Steamship Company, Auckland. Captain Wilson praises her sea-going qualities highly. Five stowaways were discovered shortly after leaving port. Three went back with the pilot, and the others are still aboard.

The trial of John M'Namara, charged with setting fire to grass at Lorne station in March last, was commenced at Rockhampton to-day.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Charles Pomeroy, who was arrested for assault in connection with the recent scene at Spry Bros.' boot factory, was to-day fined £5 at the City Police Court.

The interest in the Squadron is still maintained. Large numbers visited the vessels to-day. The Ringarooma left the Semaphore anchorage early this morning for Launceston. It is expected that some of the vessels will go to Western Australia.

A large crowd gathered at Spry Brothers' to-night and hooted the non-unionists. Four men were arrested, and will be charged at the Police Court in the morning with insulting behaviour.

The boy Dicker, who escaped from gaol on Sunday at Mount Gambier, was recaptured near Casterton. He will appear there on Monday on the charge of horse-stealing.

Lord Kintore gave a ball at Government House to-night in honour of the officers of the Squadron. The guests numbered in all 450. The ladies wore dresses symbolical of almost every flower in bloom. Everything passed off satisfactorily.

The Oroya's mails were delivered in Adelaide at 11 p.m. The Eastern mails go by express on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. R. S. Smythe, who arrived by the Oroya says that Mr. H. M. Stanley was in London when he left. He still walked on crutches, but hoped to dispense with them in 10 days; otherwise he was in splendid health. Stanley leaves Brindisi in the Arcadia on the 11th instant with his wife and Mrs. Tennant. The Colombo residents hope to get Mr. Stanley to lecture there, as the Arcadia waits for Lord Sheffield's Eleven to play a match.

The men of the squadron have decided to march in procession from the railway to the Exhibition Building on Wednesday.

Arrival: R.M.S. Oroya, from London.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The revenue for the September quarter amounted to £117,946 as against £79,401 for the corresponding quarter of last year. The expenditure was £92,803 as against £76,233 for the corresponding period of 1890. The credit balance on October 1 was £111,290.

The Albany Advertiser states that the capital required by the West Australian Land Company was subscribed at the close of a meeting of the shareholders held in London recently; also, that the Hon. J. A. Wright has received instructions to proceed with the Agricultural Training College and Model Farm scheme. A large block of land for this purpose has been set aside south-east of Broome Hill. From 50 to 100 young Englishmen will be trained at the college, and will settle on the company's land when they are qualified.

TASMANIA.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

Preparations are being made at Hobart to give the squadron a hearty reception on its arrival.

Mr. Lay, of Launceston, has secured a contract for catering for the Exhibition. The price paid was £600.

The bank liquidators have commenced operations. They announce their intention of dealing quietly with the creditors, affording ample time to pay debts, and will only resort to extreme measures when compelled to do so.

The Branxholme goldfield is looking uncommonly well; the reefs averaging from 2ft. to 5ft. in width, carrying coarse gold. A large area is taken up.

Exhibits are arriving in considerable number for the Exhibition. M. Joubert anticipates that everything will be in readiness on the opening day, November 25.

NEW ZEALAND.

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

The Waikato election took place to-day, and resulted in the return of Mr. Lake by a large majority. Both candidates were Oppositionists.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN BRISBANE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

A deputation representing the unemployed waited on Commissioner Coombes yesterday, to ask him to lay several matters affecting them before General Booth, in the hope that he might be able to improve their lot. They stated that there were not less than 1500 unemployed in Brisbane. Commissioner Coombes asked to be furnished with the names and addresses of these 1500, stating that he would have to lay the facts before the General. The deputation was unable to comply with the request, but would do so later. They also desired to know whether the General's scheme would in any way interfere with them. The Commissioner considered they had better hear General Booth themselves, and he arranged to reserve 20 seats for the unemployed representatives at his meeting to-night.

CASE UNDER THE BETTING-HOUSES SUPPRESSION ACT.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

GLEN INNES, Tuesday.

The police proceeded in the police court to-day against the proprietor of the Glen Innes Guardian for publishing the advertisement of Adams' Tattersall's Hotel sweep. The information was laid under the first section of the Betting-houses Suppression Act. Mr. Boyd, who appeared for the defence, asked for a dismissal of the case, as the advertisement did not disclose any offence within the meaning of that clause of the Act. The police magistrate upheld the objection and dismissed the case.

CASE OF SNAKEBITE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

GULGONG, Tuesday.

Mrs. Ballard, residing at Tallewang, whilst gathering firewood, was bitten on the arm by a snake. She was brought to town last night in a state of collapse and almost pulseless. The sufferer was attended by Dr. Bennett, who tried strong baths and ammonia with no effect. He then injected strychnine with the happiest result. The patient is now out of danger.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A COLLISION.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

Captain Holm, of the barque G. M. Tucker, which arrived yesterday from Adelaide, reports that on the 27th ultimo, when off Cape Everard, at 1.30 a.m., she narrowly escaped being run down by a large passenger steamer, which came within a couple of yards of the vessel. The captain's wife, also the wife and family of the chief officer, were on board. The barque's lights were properly displayed. All on board who witnessed the affair expected to meet with a watery grave. The steamer, however, reversed her engines just in time to prevent a serious disaster, and then stood on her course.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Legislative Council, Mr. Williamson, the new member for the Nelson Province, was introduced, and sworn in. Mr. Service asked the Minister of Defence whether the Government had received lately any information of importance concerning the state of affairs in the New Hebrides, and if so would he communicate the same to the Council. Sir F. Sargood, in reply, said the Standing Committee of the Federal Council had communicated, in accordance with a resolution at the last meeting of the Council, with the naval commanders and the High Commissioner on the subject, and the latter had sent a long reply to the effect that the prospects with regard to British interests in the New Hebrides were reassuring. Disputes would arise between conflicting parties, especially where there was no settled law; but there was nothing very serious, and no cause for alarm on the part of the Australian Governments. The National Australian Convention Bill was further considered in committee. The proposal by Mr. Cooper to omit New Zealand from the federation proposals was negatived on division by 19 votes to 3. Mr. Service moved that the clause—"An individual State could not communicate with the Queen except through the Governor-General," should be struck out. After debate the amendment was rejected. Progress was then reported. The Legal Practice Amalgamation Bill was further considered in committee, and after all the clauses had been agreed to the bill was passed through all its stages.

The House adjourned at 9.15 p.m. till the following day.

In the Legislative Assembly to-day, Mr. Turner, in replying to a question, stated that the block in the Supreme Court business was largely due to the Judges having had to try some exceptionally heavy cases. It was thought that when the arrears of business were worked off it would be unnecessary to appoint a seventh Judge. The House, having gone into committee on the Constitution Amendment Bill, Mr. L. L. Smith proposed an amendment to give an elector a vote for the district in which he resides, and another for the district in which he has property, or for a University degree. The amendment gave rise to a long discussion, and was warmly opposed by the Premier, who pointed out that the late Government in 1888 introduced a Plural Voting Abolition Bill, which was passed unanimously in the Assembly, and rejected by the Council. He declared that plural voting was a great obstacle to federation. Mr. Patterson expressed approval of Mr. Smith's amendment, declaring that the stability and credit of the colony were at stake. The proposal would give encouragement to thrift. Mr. M'Lean, in reply, contended that the proposal was illogical, as under it a man with an allotment worth £10 would have equal power with a millionaire. Mr. G. D. Carter supported the amendment, and held that every ratepayer should have a second vote. He hoped the amendment would be altered to that effect, and that all persons convicted of felony should not be allowed to vote. The question was whether the Trades Hall Council should rule the country, which had already been paralysed by strikes. Could they wonder why loans were not floated well when in the New South Wales Parliament, the day before that colony's recent loan was placed on the market, a labour member submitted a motion that any scheme of federation should be only accepted on condition that it provided also for separation from the mother country. Could they wonder that capital was frightened away. Mr. Duffy opposed the amendment. Mr. Zox supported it, but Mr. Stuart traversed Mr. Patterson's remarks, and cordially supported the one man one vote principle. Sir Bryan O'Loghlen condemned the amendment, and held that action should be taken to prevent a man voting in more than one electorate. Mr. Trenwith strongly opposed the amendment as illogical and unjust. Mr. Armytage, though not approving of unlimited plural voting, held that property should have representation by one vote. Mr. Bent attacked Mr. Trenwith, and was called to order, after considerable uproar. Progress was reported, and the House adjourned at 10.55 p.m. till the following day.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

In the Legislative Council the Crown Lands Bill was passed through committee. The special sales of Land Bill was read the second time. Several bills were received from the Assembly, and read the first time.

In the Assembly the Defence Act Amendment Bill and the Workmens' Lien Bill were read the third time and passed. Mr. Cowley moved the second reading of the Agricultural Lands Purchase Bill, the object of which, he said, was to enable the Government to purchase agricultural lands suitable for settlement, and to facilitate the settling of the people on such lands. Large estates had been acquired when there was little or no demand for agricultural land, but agricultural settlement had since taken place at a rapid rate, and there appeared to be a desire that these large estates should be repurchased by the Government and sold on long terms to farmers. He proceeded to justify the action of the Government bringing in the bill, and to explain its provisions in detail. If the measure passed he believed thousands of persons would be induced to settle on the soil. The leader of the Opposition moved the adjournment of the debate. Other prominent Opposition members also urged an adjournment in view of the importance of the question involved, and the thin state of the House. After some discussion the debate was adjourned. The remainder of the sitting was occupied with the consideration of the Estimates. The House rose shortly after 10.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

In the Legislative Council to-day, Mr. Ward gave notice that he would, on Tuesday next, call the attention of the Government to the recent riots in the streets of Adelaide, and ask whether the Government would suppress societies whose members were found guilty of breaking the public peace by intimidation or assaulting their fellow-workers. Mr. Baker intimated that he would move amendments to the Chinese Immigration Restriction Bill, exempting from its operation naturalised Chinese and their wives. The Commissioner of Crown Lands moved a motion to permit the construction of a tramway from Mount Koolka to Mingary, 40 miles, by a private company supplying iron flux to Broken Hill. Some objection was offered to the motion being taken as a precedent. The debate was adjourned until next day. The Blockholders Loans Bill was read the third time, and passed. Further debate took place on the Onkaparinga Waterworks Bill, and it was then adjourned. It is believed the Government now have a majority. The second reading of the Agricultural Holdings Bill was moved and the debate was adjourned. The Council rose at 5.45 p.m.

In the Assembly, Mr. Rounsevill said that the Government approved of the proposed graduated scale of railway charges for the carriage of wheat on the railways over a distance exceeding 150 miles. The Railway Commissioners had been desired to consider the question of a further reduction for wheat for a less distance than 150 miles.

Mr. Castine resumed the debate upon the Commonwealth Bill, approving of the scheme generally, though indicating defects in the financial and other clauses. On the whole he concluded that it would be in the interests of South Australia to join the federation. Mr. Hooper, the latest elected labour representative, said that the adoption of the federation scheme would be premature. South Australia should first develop its own resources so as to enter into federation on equal terms with its neighbours, and avoid any danger of being overwhelmed. Mr. Playford wished to go on with the debate, but afterwards agreed to report progress, urging members to come on Thursday prepared to make an advance in the bill. The Immigration Limitation Bill was passed through committee to the third reading, and the Administration and Probate Bill was well advanced in committee.

THE ANGLO-AUSTRALIAN BANK.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

A meeting of the depositors in the Anglo-Australian Bank was held at Hobart yesterday to ascertain the position of the finances. During the discussion it was stated that the local manager refused to supply information, and had declined to attend the meeting. The impression was that the Hobart deposits amounted to £9000, and that there were no assets in Tasmania beyond a doubtful claim. A committee was appointed to interview the Hon. Adye Douglas, who, during a visit to Melbourne regarding the British Bank, obtained information concerning the Anglo-Australian Bank also.

COUNTRY NEWS.

BOWRAL, Tuesday.

The Bowral Athletic Club has offered Lord Sheffield's team £100 and train fare from Sydney to play a match here in December. The team ask their hotel expenses also, and stipulate that this shall be the first match played by them on the Southern line. It is probable that the match will be arranged.

The Mayor of Bowral (Mr. J. G. Morris), who contested this electorate at the recent election, is seriously ill.

By arrangement with the committee of the School of Arts, Mr. W. H. Judd plays here to-night, he being guaranteed a certain amount, the balance of the takings to go to the institution.

Yesterday's eight-hour celebration was a great success financially. There were about 1000 people on the ground.

CLIFTON, Tuesday.

The cold severe winds which prevailed on Sunday and Monday last caused much harm to the fruit trees and young pastures. To-day, however, has been beautifully fine and warm, and the weather appears to have become settled. The sea is fast moderating, and coal-shipping has to-day been resumed at most Illawarra jetties.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

The hares in this district are increasing at a great rate. Out of dozens of orders received by the secretary of the Stock Board to-day for the payment for scalps, there were four which reached a total of 4500 in the aggregate.

The Licensed Victuallers' Association is being revived to keep up the uniform charge [illegible]tors.

The secretary of Lord Sheffield [illegible] has written to the secretary of the local cricket union asking if a match can be arranged during December, and what guarantee could the local clubs give, pointing out that the expenses in bringing Dr. W. G. Grace are great.

GULGONG, Tuesday.

The Rev. F. Haviland, from South Grafton, preached his first sermon last Sunday. He will be inducted by the Bishop of Bathurst on the 18th instant.

It is a bad season for shearers, work being greatly retarded by the showery weather. A large number of sheep are affected with foot-rot. A large percentage of lambs died through the wet and cold. The weather is now fine and clear.

GUNDAGAI, Tuesday.

The annual flower show in aid of St. John's Church of England Vicarage Fund, Gundagai, is announced for the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd October, in the Assembly Hall. The committee is making strenuous efforts to make the affair a success, and has met with liberal response to its applications for assistance. The debt has been a stumbling-block for years to the church, but annual flower shows gradually are removing it.

In connection with Rifle Association matches to be competed for during the month at the Randwick (Sydney) range the Gundagai Reserve Rifle Company has entered a team, some members of which will fire in the individual contests.

The weather the past two days has been beautifully fine. Grass is growing wonderfully fast. The country is looking splendid.

KATOOMBA, Tuesday.

Large numbers of visitors arrived in town on Friday or Saturday to spend yesterday's holiday. Although the crowds were not nearly so large as those arriving in the summer months, the new railway platform was taxed to the utmost, being densely packed on the arrival of each train. It is apparent that the platform is not nearly wide enough. Most of the visitors returned to Sydney yesterday.

Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed that the 8.35 morning train did not run to-day. This train has hitherto been provided for the day following the holidays, but for some unaccountable reason it did not run this morning.

Heavy showers fell on Saturday and Sunday. Yesterday was a beautiful day, and was greatly appreciated by the visitors. The day was not observed as a holiday by the workmen in town.

As showing the urgent necessity for the erection of more commodious police quarters, Sergeant Illingworth to-day stated to the bench that six prisoners had to be kept all night in a room 12ft. square. As the wind whistles through everywhere, and the night was bitterly cold, rest must have been out of the question. Without doubt the present quarters are disgraceful. The long-promised new buildings are anxiously looked for. The justices of the peace to-day decided to represent the matter strongly to the Minister for Justice.

LISMORE, Tuesday.

Mr. Ridley, who has been appointed Crown lands agent at Lismore, has arrived and entered on his duties. Mr. Gale, who has filled the office for the last three years, leaves next week for Corowa, to which place he has been promoted.

The induction of the Rev. D. M. Craigie, who has accepted a call to the Presbyterian Church here, has been definitely fixed for October 21st.

A smart thunderstorm occurred on Sunday evening. It has been cloudy and cold since.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

A meeting of the local branch of the Labour Electoral League was held in the Oddfellows' Hall a few nights ago, Alderman Jones presiding. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—President, Alderman Jones; secretary, J. Paton; treasurer, J. Coates; committee, Messrs. Drury, Alexander, Everitt, Gordon, and Gilliam. The treasurer's statement showed the balance of over £15, after paying all expenses to date. After despatching the routine business it was unanimously decided to call a public meeting next Friday night at the same place, and to invite the labour member, Mr. Cook, to speak. The meeting will be held accordingly.

MENINDIE, Tuesday.

After several very warm days last week, the north wind brought up rain, 61 points being registered locally and 65 at Poonarrie. Rain was general throughout the district.

Mr. Rygall, assistant engineer in connection with the Water Conservation Department, has arrived here.

Large quantities of wool are now passing down. Shearing is only progressing slowly owing to the scarcity of shearers.

MOSS VALE, Tuesday.

All business places, including the banks, closed on Monday on account of its being Eight-hour Day. The weather being fine, numbers of people visited the various picnic rendezvous.

Mr. C. E. Darley, Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers, accompanied by several aldermen, visited the source and traversed the route of the proposed water supply last Friday.

In consequence of next year being Leap Year some confusion has arisen over the fixture of the dates for the next annual shows of the Berrima District Agricultural Society and the Camden Agricultural Society. It transpires that the latter society has chosen three days, one of which will be Sunday. Accordingly, the Berrima District Society has selected March 10, 11, and 12, so as not to clash with Camden.

The decision of Mr. Justice Manning in the Court of Equity last Friday removed whatever obstacles there were under the Settled Estates Act to the subdivision and sale of a large portion of Throsby Park Estate. About the beginning of next year, therefore, 700 acres of land within the municipal boundary of Moss Vale, belonging to Patrick Hill Throsby, will be cut up and sold in building sites and allotments. Mr. P. S. Nott is making a survey of the land to be sold, which includes magnificent building sites on the heights at the rear of the principal street. It will be the most important land sale here for years.

Mr. Darley has expressed approval of the scheme suggested by the council for supplying Moss Vale with water.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At the request of the Royal Humane Society of Australasia, Inspector Brennan has presented two certificates of merit from that association, one to Constable W. Lane for his gallant attempt to rescue Constable J. W. Hunt from drowning at Newcastle on the 30th November, 1890; and the other to G. Hewitt, a lad of 13 years, for having rescued a boy named George Hart from drowning at the ocean beach, Newcastle, on the 26th February of the present year.

Mr. S. Ross, hon. secretary of the Newcastle Benevolent Society, has received from the treasurer of the Newcastle Friendly Societies £43 18s 6d, being half the proceeds of the late Hospital Sunday demonstration held in Newcastle.

The inquiry into the cause of the wreck of the ketch Jonathan will be held by the local Marine Board to-morrow.

Early this morning a miner, named William James, was found dead in the verandah of the Lake Macquarie Hotel, Toralba. He had been drinking heavily during the last two days.

Michael Skehon, alias Gaffney, who was arrested in Sydney last night on a charge of breaking into the house of Hugh Shedden, Wickham, in July last, and stealing a gold watch and jewellery, valued £20, was brought before the Newcastle Court to-day and remanded till Thursday for the production of evidence.

NOWRA, Tuesday.

An enthusiastic meeting of representatives of the following factories was held at Lawrence's Hotel, this afternoon, to consider the butter question:—Jindiary, Cambewarra, Meroo, Comerong, The Gem, Worragee, Jasper's Brush, and Bengalleva. The meeting was convened by the Comerong Company. Mr. R. Bice, jun., occupied the chair. Various schemes for the export of butter during the summer months were considered. It was ultimately resolved on the motion of Mr. Henry Head, seconded by Mr. Jos. Williamson, to agree with the proposal of the Dairy Farmers' Association of New South Wales, and that a branch of that society be formed. Mr. Henry Head was elected chairman, and Mr. L. A. M'Intyre secretary. All the other delegates present constituted a committee. The next meeting will be held on the 15th instant.

NYNGAN, Tuesday.

The season is exceptionally good. Rains at the head of the Bogan and Macquarie rivers flooded the lower districts. On the Marra, Macquarie, and Lower Bogan all the heavy transit is stopped. Thousands of bales of wool are stored in the sheds and it is impossible to get them to the railway station. A petition is being numerously signed for bridges over the Duck Creek and the Bogan River, as communication is cut off through the flood waters. Miles of country are under water.

Shearing is progressing satisfactorily. No disagreements have occurred, all apparently working in harmony. The clip is good but light.

The late rains have done much good to the district generally. It never looked better. Prospects for the summer are very good.

The stock routes are improving. Grass and herbage are growing fast. Thousands of store cattle are passing Nyngan weekly, going chiefly to Wodonga from Queensland stations. The roads throughout the district are in a bad state through the heavy rains.

Rabbits are increasing, and are being blocked by wire netting on the southern side of the western railway. Much anxiety is felt by the selectors on both sides. The Nyngan dam for supplying the railway with water has been washed away, and should a drought come the consequences must be serious.

The contractors for the Cobar line are making good progress. Engines now run to Budds, 50 miles out.

PICTON, Tuesday.

Major Lassetter, commanding the Mounted Infantry Regiment, inspected the Picton Company on Saturday last, being much pleased with their efficiency. The non-commissioned officers showed themselves thoroughly acquainted with their drill. He goes to Camden to-day to witness the first drill of the corps just formed there, and will proceed to Bega to-morrow in order to inspect the Bega company.

At a rifle match between the Picton Rifle Club and Newington Club and Newington College on Friday last, 500 and 600 yards, usual conditions, Newington scored 457, Picton 490. The cloudy sky and shifting winds rendered the day very unfavourable to good shooting.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

Mr. C. H. Emery, Crown lands agent at Albury, has been appointed to the Wagga office; Mr. M. Longfield, who has been acting Crown lands agent at Wagga, proceeds to Balranald to perform similar duties, coupled with those of clerk of petty sessions.

The river continues to rise at Wagga all day. This evening it was 11ft. 6in. above summer level.

The annual meeting of the Mechanics' Cricket Club was held this evening. The balance-sheet was adopted. The club was the premier one here last season. Mr. Rae was elected president, and Mr. H. Hardy secretary and treasurer. It was decided to open the season on the 17th instant.

A great deal of interest is taken here in the forthcoming meeting of the New South Wales Rifle Association to be held at Sydney. No less than 14 entries have been sent by members of the Wagga Reserve Rifle Company.

The weather is fine and frosty.

BICYCLE RECORD FOR A HUNDRED MILES.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

Yesterday Mr. Pearson, a member of the Redfern Bicycle Blub, succeeded in establishing the record for 100 miles. He was accompanied by Mr. Jones, a member of the same club. The Braidwood road was chosen for the trial. They left Goulburn at 6 a.m. Within a few miles of the fifty miles turning point Jones ran into some loose earth and damaged his machine. Pearson went on, and reached the turning point at 10 o'clock. After a short rest he started on the return trip, reaching Goulburn at 17 minutes past 2 o'clock, thus doing 100 miles in 8 hours 17 minutes, and winning the Redfern Club's medal for the first to cover 100 miles within 9 hours. Jones repaired his machine, and made the turning point 30 minutes behind Pearson. On the return journey he went some miles out of his course, which disqualified him, but the register on his machine shows that he did 100 miles in 8 hours 55 minutes. The local cyclists accompanied Pearson in the latter part of his ride.

FIRE AT A TIMBER YARD.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At about half-past 3 o'clock this morning a fire was announced. It was found to be at the timber yard of Messrs. John Ash and Sons, Upper Church-street, Newcastle. Inspector Brennan, with a posse of police, was quickly on the spot; also engines from the Honeysuckle Point, Wickham, Carrington, City, and Hamilton brigades, with the King-street hose and reel, under Superintendent F. Gardner. Owing to the prompt arrival of the engines and plenty of water, and continued willing exertions of firemen, what bade fair at first to become a large fire was extinguished in 20 minutes, the only damage amounting to about £50. The fire is supposed to have originated from the pipes of strangers seeking shelter in the timber yard, as is frequently the case in Newcastle.

One of the firemen on the Wickham engine slipped from the top, and the wheel passed over him. He was, fortunately, not materially hurt.

Later.

The damage by the fire at Ash's timber yard is estimated at £200. The property is insured in the Australian Mutual Fire Insurance. About 100 casks of cement were destroyed by water in extinguishing the fire. The cement is not insured.

A Hillgrove telegram states that the reef at Baker's Creek main shaft is now down 93ft. below the 90ft. level. It has widened to 2ft., and shows good gold. The mine looks well throughout, and there is not likely to be any falling off in yields. At the Earl of Hopetoun the lower level has been extended nearly 500ft. westward into the hill, and shows coarse gold on the face. The directors of the West Sunlight have selected a site for the battery, and determined to proceed with the erection of plant immediately.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Share report.—Sales:—Baker's Creek, 32s 6d; Macintosh, con., 8s 3d; Rickey's Reef, pro., 2s 7d; Ballarat Extended, 1s 5d; South Australian Insurance, N. 1., 6s 3d; New Glenelg Railway, 7s; Block 10, £14 2s; Broken, colonial, £8 10s 6d, £8 12s 6d, £8 8s 6d; Central, paid, £6 5s 9d; Block 14, £5 11s, £5 10s; South, paid, £4 5s; New ditto, £3 10s; Round, £2 12s, £2 3s; Old British, 33s; New Broken Extended, 21s; Junction, 19s; New Junction, 5s 6d; Leigh's Creek, pro., 22s 6d.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The crushings at Charters Towers for the month of September were 17,217 tons, yielding 20,696oz. of gold. The crushings for the past nine months were 180,677 tons, yielding 161,556oz., being 6000oz. in excess of the total yield for 1890.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

An assay of stone from a depth of 45ft. in Bosworth and party's find, near Scamander River, gave 973oz. of silver per ton.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

All prospecting and development works at the Central mine have been suspended for two weeks or so, owing to about 20 miners being absent, every shift being ill with influenza, which is raging here. A few men from Moonta have been taken on, but only enough miners are available for keeping the smelters supplied with ore. The stopes are looking well without change, save at the 300ft. level, where carbonate is rising as it goes south, and evidently connects with the parallel stopes at the 200ft. level. If this is found to be so, it will considerably increase the ore in sight. The erection of new smelters is proceeding rapidly.

DEATHS UNDER CHLOROFORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The continued frequency of deaths of persons while under the influence of chloroform or its admixtures has caused some of the relatives and friends of these persons to prepare a petition for presentation to Parliament, praying for a Royal Commission to be appointed to inquire into the whole subject of the administration of anæsthetics. About 100 signatures have already been obtained, and I trust that you will kindly insert this letter, so that the attention of those relatives and friends who have not yet already been communicated with may be directed to the advertisement inviting their co-operation. Much yet remains to be ascertained regarding the use of anæsthetics, and also of the methods for resuscitation, as may be seen by perusing the article in the May number of the Nineteenth Century magazine entitled "Resuscitation by Oxygen," in which the writer gives evidence of the efficiency of compressed oxygen for restoring suspended animation, and advocates its use in all cases from choke-damp in mines, &c., and states that in every well-appointed hospital where chloroform, ether, or other anæsthetics are administered, there ought to be side by side with the chloroform-inhaling apparatus another apparatus for the administration of oxygen.

Oct. 3. I am, &c., W. D. CAMPBELL.

An Heraldic Exhibition is now being held in the National Portrait Gallery at Edinburgh. Amongst the exhibits are some of great antiquity and interest. The collection has been contributed to by over 200 individuals or corporations, the Queen sending an heraldic roll of the time of Edward III. and some valuable manuscripts.

MEETINGS.

WATER AND SEWERAGE BOARD.

A meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board was held yesterday, under the presidency of Mr. Rowe.

The secretary reported that the receipts to October 3 were £163,513 5s 5d. The receipts for the week were £8001 16s 5d. The number of hydrants fixed during the week was stated to be 206.

A report was received from W. F. Brooks, manager of the Sewerage Farm, relating to the month of September, stating that all works connected with the farm had progressed satisfactorily. He was commencing to sow sorghum and pumkins for summer crops. The filter beds were working well, and were now taking all the sewerage. The crops of cabbage were working off steadily, the revenue for the last month being £40. The late crops looked exceedingly well, and he thought would turn out better than the early portion. The pigs were doing first-rate, and the cattle were improving.

A letter was received from Mr. George Wagg, claiming compensation to the amount of £50 for damage to his property in Redfern-street, Redfern, through the construction of a sewer through his property. It was reported to the board that the kitchens of a terrace of houses had been injured by fracture of the walls, and it was suggested that the board should offer £40 as compensation. The report was adopted.

A list of the names of persons using the board's water without paying special fees was handed in and referred to the board's solicitor.

The committee of the Industrial Home for Blind Women wrote that they were erecting the permanent buildings of the institution in Albert-road, Strathfield, at a cost of £8000, and asked that it be exempt from water rate as a charitable institution. The request was granted.

Accounts amounting to £8098 17s 9d were passed for payment, and the board then rose.

MISSION CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

In connection with the anniversary of the Sussex and Liverpool streets Mission Church, a public meeting was held in the church last evening. The attendance was large, and was presided over by Mr. George Winter. Early in the proceedings, Mr. F. L. Voller, one of the secretaries, read apologies from several clergymen and other gentlemen, including Dr. P. Sydney Jones, who was to have taken the chair, but who wrote stating that an attack of influenza would prevent him from doing so.

The annual report, which was read by Mr. Voller, set out that not alone on the year now closed did the members of the Church ponder with joy and gladness, for that night they were celebrating the end of 30 years' faithful service in the cause of Christ on the part of their beloved pastor. The Sunday services had been well sustained. Open-air services had been maintained throughout the year morning and evening with very little break. Invariably the open-air workers obtained a good hearing. At the Wentworth-lane branch services were conducted on Thursday evenings. The Sunday morning breakfasts which were given to the destitute men of this city during the winter were looked upon as a work of the highest importance, and fraught with possibilities beyond human gauge. For four months from early in June up to September 27, each Sunday morning had seen a crowd of hungry men fed with a substantial breakfast. A tent mission was started on September 13, which it was intended should last eight days, but such a blessing had fallen upon the work that the poles had not yet been struck. The services of many persons who had been of assistance in various ways were duly acknowledged.

Mr. G. Goldsworthy, the treasurer, read the balance-sheet, which showed an amount to credit at the bank.

An address to Mr. George Lewis was then read and presented.

The Rev. W. Mathieson moved, and the Rev. B. Kenny seconded, the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, and the proposition was carried. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Kenny said that if Mr. Lewis, instead of having been doing the work to which he had applied himself, had been down the harbour or been playing cricket every Sunday, nothing would have been said about him in Macquarie-street.

Mr. Lewis, on being called upon, said that had it not been for the presentation of the address tendered to him that evening he should have remained quiet and been content to listen to the kindly words of brethren in full sympathy with the work. Had he seen the epistle earlier, he should, no doubt, have endeavoured to get it toned down. The gentleman who had asked certain questions concerning him in Parliament was not at all cognisant of the work which he (the speaker) was doing. It must have been that that gentleman had been led into a trap. He proceeded to explain how it was that he had entered upon the work, and to speak of the manner in which he carried it on. If, he said, that constituted a crime, he was deeply guilty of it. He urged those present not to let the incident discourage them. The skyrocket, as it had been termed, had gone off, and the party who had fired the charge had suffered the most damage. Whatever had inspired the questions had not injured him, but had done a wrong to the members of the church and against Christ. It was thus that he left that "much ado about nothing."

The members of the choir and some other ladies and gentlemen contributed a programme of music during the proceedings.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

The executive committee of the Trades and Labour Council met at the Trades' Hall last evening. Mr. J. Wilson (president) occupied the chair, and there were also present Messrs. R. M'Kilop, G. Herbert, J. V. Wiley, A. Thompson, J. E. West, G. A. Edwards, and J. Riddell (secretary). It was decided, after discussion, to request the Trades and Labour Council at its next meeting to allow the committee as a matter of privilege to bring under the attention of the council the necessity of immediately taking steps in regard to General Booth's colonisation scheme. It was resolved to hand over to the Female Employees' Union the balance of the funds subscribed by the various unions towards the laundresses on strike for the purpose of establishing a co-operative laundry on condition that the premises are secured and the money banked in the names of the trustees of that union.

A considerable number of replies have been received by the Journeymen Tailors' Union from the employers respecting the proposal of the men to confer with them in reference to the recently-revised log. The majority is willing to meet the men, and it was therefore resolved by the journeymen tailors last evening to suggest that the conference should be held on the 14th instant at 10 a.m., and 15 delegates were appointed to represent the union.

The committee of the Stonemasons' Union met at the Trades' Hall last evening to consider what steps should be taken respecting the dispute with the contractor for the additions to the Prince Alfred Hospital. It is probable that the difficulty will be amicably settled to-day.

The prizes won in connection with the sports at Rosehill on Monday were handed over at the Trades' Hall last evening.

MUNICIPAL COUNCILS.

ASHFIELD.

A meeting of the council was held on Tuesday, September 29. Present: The Mayor (Alderman Brown), and Aldermen Lyttle, Dean, Dougan, Thompson, and Josephson. Amongst the correspondence were letters from the Railway Department, forwarding plans showing the proposed alterations to the railway-line, and also the station arrangements at Summer Hill; also, of the sewer and subway at Bland-street; also, forwarding extracts from the general conditions of the contract for duplicating the railway line from Long Cove Creek to Croydon. It was resolved to object to the levels of the street leading from the Bland-street subway to Elizabeth-street, it having a fall of 1 in 15, and recommend that, instead of a brick arch being used at the subway, it be constructed of iron girders. It was also agreed to advocate the construction of steps from the eastern end of the Summer Hill platforms, and a subway for foot-passengers at that place to get from one side of the line to the other. The Secretary for the General Post Office notified that the Works Department had been asked to place on the Estimates for 1892, for consideration, the sum of £2150, to defray the cost of erecting a post and telegraph office at Summer Hill, similar to the building at Ashfield. The Water Board notified the council to cease any payments to the water turncock for supervising the flushing of gullies and gutters. The Works Department wrote in reference to the site proposed for the terminus of the Enfield tramway at Ashfield, stating that the land which would be required from the Railway Commissioners is needed for other purposes. The finance committee recommended payment of accounts amounting to £675 17s 11d, which was adopted. In reply to Alderman Dean, the clerk reported that before the subsidy of £200 was received from the Government towards the proposed free public library, it would be necessary to have the library in actual operation and a code of bylaws established, and the Government state that it must be one of reference only. Alderman Dean thereupon moved,—"That the library sub-committee be empowered by this council to make the necessary arrangements to establish a free public library, and submit cost of same to the next meeting of this council." Carried. The council decided that they did not think it desirable to unite with the Camperdown Council in forming a municipal association of those councils within the metropolitan area. Several motions were referred to the lighting and works committee.

LAW REFORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—This is essentially an age of progress and reform. Everything connected with our every-day life has within the last 50 years undergone beneficial change except the law, which from my personal experience I would speak of as legal robbery. I hold in my hand a bill of costs wherein I am charged by an attorney 6s 8d for receiving my cheque for £100, a like charge for receiving my cheque for £50, a similar charge for receiving and reading my telegram. When I seek an explanation I find these charges have been made to swell reductions on taxation. Then there is a fee of £10 10s paid to senior counsel, who was not in court on the day named, the work (a matter of form) having been done by his junior. When an explanation is demanded I am told this is the etiquette of the Bar, by which I say suitors are fleeced. I have been told and believe that a well-known barrister claimed fees (which were paid) when he knew he could not be in court. Surely, Sir, as you have advocated in your issue of to-day, legal reform is necessary when cases such as I have referred to are of daily occurrence. It is not an uncommon thing for barristers to receive fees, and "retain" them, when they could not and did not attend to the interest of their clients by reason of their being engaged in two courts on the same day. In the face of these facts we shall be told that the dignity of the Bar must not be assailed, and that the legal "etiquette" of the dark ages must be upheld. I am, &c.,

Oct. 3. A VICTIM.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The weights for the handicap events to be discussed at Rosehill on Saturday next were duly posted at Tattersall's yesterday. The speedy contingent engaged in the Flying Handicap is topped by Victor Hugo, who, with 9st, will stand in need of all the beating of which the best of them are capable. Realm and most of those that come after the top-weight down to Bernardo would seem to have come in for their full portions, but the son of Henchman is so well in with 7st 11lb, that it may be hardly necessary to search further for the winner. The score that have found their way into the Hurdle Race are headed by Rushlight, who has not been at all imposed upon when allotted 10st 5lb, while the form shown by Grandson at Warwick Farm on Monday last entitles him to a deal of respect when in receipt of a couple of pounds from the top-weight. Sovereign may also be trusted to run a good mare with 9st 11lb, and at 2lb less Diomed is well in, but the pick of the basket may be Vanguard. The Granville Stakes presents a very open question, but Nightingale, Pickwick, Welcome, Compulsion, and Rosstellan, may be among the most trustworthy. When it is remembered that Buttons carried 9st 5lb, and ran a mile and a half at Eagle Farm in 2 minutes 40½ seconds, it is not surprising to find him at the head of the list for the October Handicap, but his display at Warwick Farm on Monday last was anything but encouraging. The Tyler has quite enough in 8st 7lb, and on figures nothing looks better than Bustler, Two Up, Barraba, and Yunko. Bernardo, Thornden, Rushlight, Blacklock, and Over would appear to have the best prospects of the numerous lot engaged in the Welter Mile.

Owners and trainers of racehorses are finally reminded that at 5 p.m. to-day nominations close with the secretary, Mr. G. B. Rowley, for the following items on the programme to be played out at the Rosehill November meeting:—First day: Maiden Hurdle Race, a handicap of 60 sovs., for all horses which have never won a hurdle race at time of starting, two miles; Handicap Selling Race of 75 sovs., winner to be sold for 1 sov., 1½ mile; Welter Handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 8st, 6½ furlongs; Sapling Stakes of 70 sovs., for two-year-olds, colts 8st 5lb, fillies and geldings 8st 3lb, 5 furlongs; Parramatta Handicap of 70 sovs., 1 mile. Second day: Open Hurdle Race, a handicap of 70 sovs., 2 miles; Granville Stakes, a handicap of 50 sovs., for all horses that have never won a prize of the value of 45 sovs. at the time of starting, 1½ mile; Auction Plate of 70 sovs., w.f.a., winner to be sold for 100 sovs., selling allowances, 6 furlongs; Steeplechase, a handicap of 75 sovs., about 2½ miles; and Stewards' Mile, a welter handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 8st, 1 mile. The usual liberal conditions will be in vogue, and the entrance fee of one sov. for each race must accompany each nomination.

The settling over the Warwick Farm October meeting passed off satisfactorily at Tattersall's rooms yesterday, and during the afternoon the leading events of the Victorian spring campaign received some attention. A slight demonstration was made against Bungebah for the Caulfield Cup, and from 5 to 2 he receded to 7 to 2, but a few small lines booked at the latter quotation brought the son of Grandmaster down to 3 to 1, which remained on offer. The recent performances of Glenloth caused him to advance to the position of second favourite at 100 to 8, while Dillon was the only other inquired for, and 100 to 6 was available against him. The feature of the V. R. C. Derby wagering was the support accorded to Stromboli, about whom 3 to 1 was accepted for all the money available, and 5 to 2 was the best offer at the close of business. Oxide receded to 4 to 1 offered; 7 to 1 could be got about Penance, 8 to 1 v. Sternchaser, and 12 to 1 v. any other. The only changes of importance in the wagering on the Melbourne Cup were the advance of Paris, who finished up an equal favourite with Megaphone and Malvolio at 100 to 9 each, and the knock-out of King Olaf, against whom 100 to 2 was on offer consequent on his running in the Mordialloc Handicap at Epsom yesterday. A couple of thousands were booked against Tirailleur at 100 to 3, without exhausting the market at that figure, and the following prices were also obtainable:—100 to 7 v. Vengeance, 100 to 6 v. Correze, 100 to 5 v. Cobham. The Galloway Handicap—the principal event of the Moorefield pony and galloway races on Thursday—was also the medium of speculation, and the following are the latest quotations:—6 to 1 v. Signess, 100 to 12 each v. Abergeldie and Romp, 100 to 10 each v. Forget-me-not and Swan, 100 to 6 v. Secret, 100 to 5 each v. Dark Light, Veronica, Vortex, and Nolan.

The weekly trotting and race meeting, under the management of the Sydney Driving Park Club, takes place this afternoon at Moore Park. The first event is set down for 2.15 p.m., and the usual means of transit by rail and road will be available for visitors. The track is reported to be in good order, and there are five items on the card for the afternoon's sport.

The half-dozen events on the programme for the Canterbury Park October Meeting, which takes place on the 17th instant, attracted 114 nominations yesterday, of which the Hurdle Race was responsible for 15; Flying Handicap, 25; Park Stakes, 23; Canterbury Handicap, 11; Selling Race, 16; and Stewards' Mile, 24. The lists are published elsewhere in this issue.

The following scratchings in connection with the Moorefield pony and galloway meeting, which takes place to-morrow, were notified at the office of the club yesterday:—Flying Handicap: Little Clare. Blakehurst Handicap: Twinkie. Tiny Handicap: Pert. Galloway Handicap: Felspar, Sincerity.

The adjourned investigation into the running of Dan O'Connell in the Labour Handicap, at Warwick Farm, on Monday, took place before the stewards at the office of the club yesterday forenoon, and after considering the evidence administered a caution to both rider and trainer. In the case of Carbon, the rider of whom was called upon to account for his display in the Pace Welter, a satisfactory explanation was tendered.

Sir William, Bella, and Maud left by rail last evening for Melbourne, under the care of E. Keys; and Dan O'Connell, in charge of his trainer, Russell, took his departure by the same train.

The following race meetings have been granted registration by the A. J. C.:—Mandurama, Ballina Turf Club, Half-Way House, and Grogan.

A number of the provincial race clubs take advantage of the holiday on November 9 (Prince of Wales's birthday) to hold a day's sport. That date has been selected by the Monaro Jockey Club for their Spring Meeting, at which close on £70 will be distributed in prizes; the Yass sportsmen have fixed upon the same day, and distribute about £40, five events; the Burrangong Turf Club also bring off their Spring reunion, with over £70 to be disbursed in stakes; and the Louth Jockey Club's annual meeting takes place on the 9th and 10th, when £165 will be spread over 10 events.

The Midsummer Meeting of the Wilcannia Turf Club has been set down for Boxing Day, and an attractive programme, containing five events, for which the added money amounts to £190, has been issued for the occasion.

The following horses, purchased by Mr. Walter Tyson in Melbourne, have arrived at Hay:—B m Ultimate, by Martini-Henry from Ultima; b m Mistletoe, by Bosworth from Star of Love; ch m Richmere, by Richmond from Miss Heslop.

After his short but exceptionally brilliant racing career, the three-year-old colt Common, winner of the "triple crown" of the English turf, has been sent to the stud. Common was recently purchased by Mr. Blundell Maple, a prominent English sportsman, for £10,000, who refused to part with the colt at a most substantial advance on that figure.

Advices from the Richmond River district state that Mr. H. T. Sheppard, of Casino, has purchased the brown horse Tartar, by the celebrated sire Musket from Steppe (imp.), for stud purposes. Such a fashionably-bred animal should greatly improve the breed of stock in the northern district.

VICTORIAN TURF.

THE MORNING GALLOPS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was a splendid morning for training, and albeit the tracks at Flemington were somewhat heavy, the proceedings in the main were interesting. Portland negotiated 9 furlongs in excellent style, escorted home the last half-mile by Friday. The mile was traversed in 1 minute 51 seconds. Survivor swung over 5 furlongs in even time, after which Whimbrel put in a good working gallop of a mile and three-quarters. Scarpia, who is by Neckersgat from Tarpia, and engaged in the Great Foal Stakes on Saturday, displayed some brilliancy in a three-furlong flutter on the tan. Forty Winks brushed home sharply, and John S. and Porisca strode comfortably over the concluding 5 furlongs of a mile and a-half in 1 minute 12½ seconds. The former moved like a piece of machinery. Nobody was despatched at three-parts speed on the sand, where Azim slipped along for half-a-mile in 54 seconds without any apparent effort. Caledonian was exercised stoutly on the tan, in company with Golden Ray. Wilga and Mitre were sent along for 4 furlongs, which they covered in 56 seconds. Marvel and Paris cantered gently round, as also did Bungebah and Melos. The Caulfield Cup candidate created quite a consternation among the touts owing to his tucked-up appearance. The general cry was, "No wonder he has gone back to 4 to 1 for the Caulfield Cup." Bungebah does look very finely drawn; but whether this is merely the result of the journey by train or the outcome of overwork is at present an open question, the speedy chestnut not being a taking horse to scan at the best of times. Ronald and Redcap were treated to useful exercise, and both move with great determination. Siberia, Star of Erin, and Laverock started off for a mile and a-quarter gallop, but at the end of 5 furlongs Laverock had to be pulled off, owing to his breaking another blood-vessel in the nostril, an infirmity to which he is much subject when despatched at any pace. The other pair continued on and registered the 10 furlongs in 2 minutes 23½ seconds. Trieste and Kossuth slipped along for half-a-mile, for which the time, 53½ seconds, was extremely creditable. Trieste is a beautiful mover; so is Moouray, who rattled over a similar distance with Corvette in 55 seconds. Cherrystone, Fuss, Hero, Carrington, The Gift, Helter-skelter, Blue and White, Sundowner, Mark Tapley, and Beggar Boy were given strong work; and Yabba and Lady Lynn were exercised over the schooling hurdles. Albemarle, Bengal, and Stromboli covered 7 furlongs in 1 minute 39½ seconds. Albemarle appeared to most advantage.

CAULFIELD, Tuesday.

Light showers fell this morning. Kimberley, Cornet, and Egyptus cantered; and Renata and Tirailleur ran 9 furlongs in 2 minutes 8 seconds. Glenloth cantered, and Swivel ran a fast mile. Birdie and Silverstream cantered. Greygown and Ascot Vale ran 9 furlongs in 2 minutes 6 seconds, and Sternchaser and Tirailleur went at half pace twice round. Proh Pudor cantered once round, and then ran a fast half-mile. Tyras spurted, Sanfoin went at half pace once round, and Bothwell, Winifred, and Raoul started for a nine furlongs' gallop, and ran it in 2 minutes 6 seconds. John Bright went once round at a good pace. Stamboul, Accident, and Gladstone cantered. Alcinous and Pikikitiki went steadily, and Steeltrap ran 1 mile in 2 minutes 53 seconds. Bridegroom, Buzz, and Brown Bess ran 5 furlongs in 1 minute 5 seconds; while Diomed and Drayton went a strong mile. Malvolio ran a mile and a-half, Marco having helped him for 9 furlongs. The time was 2 minutes 48 seconds. Stave ran a fast mile. Blister and Shanks were schooled over fences, and the rest of Corrigan's horses did half-pace work. Sea Song went twice round strongly on the tan, and Peerswick did the half pace once round the tan. Hermit and Redcap ran a mile and a-quarter on the course in 2 minutes 25 seconds. Elworthy and Hogmanay ran a fast mile. The ground was rather slow this morning.

THE MELBOURNE BETTING MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The principal change in the betting market this evening was the advance into favour of Glenloth for the Caulfield Cup in consequence of his excellent performance in the Mordialloc Handicap to-day. 100 to 8 is now the best offer against him. Bungebah receded a point, and 4 to 1 was on offer against him. There is no change of note in the Derby betting, and Stromboli remains a slightly better favourite than Oxide, while the others hold their places. For the Melbourne Cup 100 to 9 was accepted about Megaphone and Malvolio. Correze was inquired for 100 to 4 being wanted, while 100 to 5 is offered. The only changes from yesterday's quotations are:—

Caulfield Cup: 100 to 25 v. Bungebah, 100 to 8 Glenloth.

Melbourne Cup: 100 to 5 Correze.

Golden King has been scratched for the Melbourne Cup, and Tradition for the Toorak Handicap.

EPSOM RACES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A meeting took place on the Epsom course to-day. Beautiful spring weather prevailed, and there was a fair attendance. A good day's racing took place. The following are the results:—

Four others ran. Betting: Evens Boonoke, 5 to 1 v. Buzzard, 7 to 1 v. Proletaire and Darnley, 8 to 1 v. Pluto. Won by five lengths, Boonoke four lengths behind Buzzard. Time, 2 minutes 53 seconds.

Trial Stakes, 5½ furlongs.—Mr. W. Clifford's Ægyptus, 6st 9lb (V. Fountain), 1; Mr. P. Reynolds's Royal Mail, 6st 4lb (Myers), 2; Mr. A. Skirving's Nell Cook, 7st 9lb (Kingham), 3. Five others ran. Betting: 7 to 2 each v. Despised and Royal Mail, 5 to 1 v. Mulgrove, 6 to 1 v. Ægyptus, 7 to 1 v. Rossall. Won by a length and a-half, a moderate third. Time, 1 minute 7¼ seconds.

Imperial Handicap, for ponies 13.1 or under, 5 furlongs and 20 yards.—Mr. J. Kennedy's Fancy, 7st 8lb (Trainor), 1. Time, 1 minute 11½ seconds.

Selling Race, 5 furlongs.—Mr. J. Lynch's Vaacona, 6st 11lb (Myers), walk over.

Hunters' Steeplechase, about 2½ miles.—Mr. D. J. Ben's Snip, 13st (Mr. J. E. Brewer), 1; Mr. H. P. Keogh's Piper, carried 11st 2lb (Mr. F. E. Power), 2; Mr. W. Hingston ns Echo, 12st (Mr. R. Jones), 3. Five others ran. Betting: 3 to 1 v. Snip, 5 to 1 v. Piper, 6 to 1 v. Monarch, Echo, and Alick, 7 to 1 v. Koroit, 10 to 1 v. Sundowner and Volunteer. Volunteer ran off at the first fence. Alick fell at the turn into the straight. Won easily, a fair third. Time, 6 minutes 27 seconds.

Mordialloc Handicap, 1 mile and 3 furlongs.—Mr. M. Carmody ns Glenloth, 8st 7lb (W. Clifford), 1; Mr. H. Oxenham's Forty Winks, 7st 4lb (W. Delaney), 2; Mr. C. W. Murray's King Olaf, 8st 7lb (Gainsforth), 3. Eleven others ran. Betting: 3 to 1 v. Propounder, 4 to 1 v. Forty Winks, 5 to 1 each v. Glenloth and King Olaf, 7 to 1 v. Mikado II., 8 to 1 v. Lapstone, 10 to 1 v. any other. Won by a nose. King Olaf was third half a length away from Forty Winks. Time, 2 minutes 27 seconds.

Nominations close to-night for the Sir Joseph Banks' 100 Yards Handicap of 35 sovs, to be run next Tuesday afternoon.

Entries for Mr. D. Blyth's Seventy-fifth Weekly Handicap Meeting, to be held at Marrickville next Saturday, close to-night at Warner Brothers.

SIR JOSEPH BANKS HANDICAP.

The Sir Joseph Banks 275 Yards Handicap was run yesterday afternoon at Botany, and a splendid finish resulted in a win for J. Armstrong, who started an outsider at 10 to 1. A two miles' walking match also took place, and it was won by F. Bowen from scratch, with J. J. Maloney, 275 yards, 2nd, and W. Harris, 95 yards, 3rd. Bowen's time was 13 minutes 46½ seconds, the English record being 13 minutes 14 seconds, by J. W. Raby in 1883, and the American 13 minutes 49 3-5 seconds, by J. Meagher in 1882. The following are the details of the running event:—

First Heat.—H. Stewart, 14½ yards, 1. Other starters: W. Brock, E. M'Ateer, S. Donovan, J. Harrison, T. Parnell, H. Harris, and C. W. Mitchell.

Second Heat.—F. Surman, 15½ yards, 1. Other starters: W. Brown, T. J. M'Auliffe, C. E. Merchant, T. H. Roberts, W. Kennedy, C. Samuels, and A. A. Brown.

Third Heat.—W. A. Connolly, 16 yards, 1. Other starters: C. E. Armstrong, G. T. Hicks, J. K. Smith, F. C. Exrie, R. R. Williams, L. Hoelcher, and W. Canty.

Fourth Heat.—J. Marsh, 16 yards, and F. Kingsmill, 7 yards, dead heat. Other starters: W. Wiley, F. W. Lund, E. A. Martineer, T. G. Agnew, and R. C. Harris.

Fifth Heat.—J. Armstrong, 18 yards, 1. Other starters: A. E. Roberts, O. Cowley, W. Abbott, J. Sullivan, R. Hilderbrand, and W. Neilson.

Sixth Heat.—J. W. Byrne, 10½ yards, 1. Other starters: D. T. Murphy, W. Read, J. Collier, T. Pringle, L. Cassimer, and T. Elliott.

Seventh Heat.—M. Monnock, 18 yards, 1. Other starters: F. Nowland, W. Moore, C. M'Gilveray, M. E. Hillsary, and C. A. Murray.

Final Heat.—J. Armstrong, 18 yards, 1; J. W. Byrne, 10½ yards, 2; H. Stewart, 14½ yards, 3. Betting: 6 to 4 on Surman, 5 to 1 v. Stewart, 10 to 1 v. Armstrong.

CRICKET.

The following matches were played on Saturday:—

Surry United and Clyde played on the Surry's wicket, and the match resulted in an easy victory for the Surry United. Scores: Clyde, 44 (Shea 16 and Harrington 15); Surry United, six for 54 (Parfitt 12, Ironside 11 not out, and Brown 8 not out). Ironside (four wickets for 3 runs) and Rush (three for 11) divided the Surry bowling honours, whilst Fallon was the most successful for the Clydes. He obtained five wickets at a very small cost.

Lark, Sons, and Co. and D. Jones and Co. played at Norwood Park, and the match resulted in a win for Lark, Sons, and Co. by three wickets and 72 runs. Scores: D. Jones and Co., 38 (Caldwell 32, Cummins 10); Lark, Sons, and Co., seven wickets for 101 runs (W. Galloway 46, S. Brooks 18, A. Paterson 13, A. Braund 10). Galloway (seven for 18), Sippe (one for 0), and Hoskisson (two for 20) for Lark, Sons, and Co., and Shoosmith and Cummins for David Jones and Co., bowled well.

The Newington B team journeyed to Riverview, where they received a signal defeat at the hands of the St. Ignatius College B team. Angus captained the visitors, and D. Corrigan performed a like duty for the St. Ignatius boys. The latter, having won the toss, sent his opponents to the wickets, where they compiled a total of 61 runs (Tasker 22 and Angus 12). The St. Ignatius team then took the wickets, and, when the last wicket fell shortly before time, the total had reached 162 runs (J. O'Brien 38 not out, T. Coen 34, D. Corrigan 21, J. Henerie 14, and W. Burfitt 12). The college thus won by 101 runs. Maloney, O'Donnell, and Corrigan bowled well for the local team, as did Hicks, Tasker, and Beaumont for the visitors. After the match the Newingtonians were hospitably entertained by the college superiors.

Cooerwull and Double Bay played at Double Bay, and Cooerwull winning the toss occupied the creases nearly all the afternoon, scoring 197 (Clissold 58, E. Sparke 43, Alkin 23, and Webb 22); Double Bay lost one wicket for 18.

St. Albans and Norwood played on the former's wicket at North Sydney, and the match resulted as follows:—St. Albans, seven wickets for 107 (W. Hopkins not out 29, P. Hopkins 25, Johnson 23); Norwood, 77 (Thomas 23). The bowling honours were divided between Lusk for the winners, and Ruthven for the losers.

Belvidere Veterans and Suffield played at Burwood, the latter winning. The Veterans, in spite of their want of practice, played in a way that must be highly satisfactory to the promoters of the team against their well-practised opponents. They also fielded splendidly at the end to try and stave off defeat.

Sydney and Surry United 13 played on Monday on the Redfern Park Oval, in the presence of a very large gathering of spectators, the match resulting in a draw. J. Searle, the Sydney captain, won the toss, and decided to send his opponents in to bat on a very damp wicket, which improved towards the latter part of the afternoon. The Surry United 13 scored 135 (Ironside 51 not out, Brown 28, Hillier 19, and P. Beveridge 13). Hume and Newell were the most successful bowlers for the Sydneys, and special mention must be made of the excellent wicket-keeping of R. Warren. The Sydneys at the call of time had lost six wickets for 102 (S. Gregory 49, Clark 18, and Newell not out, 15). Ironside and Pemell divided the bowling honours for the Surrys. Scores:—

A meeting of the Printers' Cricket Association was held at the Star and Garter Hotel last evening. The secretary reported that Messrs. F. T. Wimble and Co. had donated the cup for competition this season. Eleven entries were received, and the draw for companionship in the first round resulted as follows:—Marcus and Andrew v. F. Cunninghame and Co., S. T. Leigh and Co. v. Daily Telegraph, Evening News v. Gibbs, Shallard, Batson and Co., John Sands v. S. M. Herald, Turner and Henderson v. Australian Star, Brooks, O'Hara, and Johnson a bye. Messrs. N. Goundrie, W. M. Woods, and A. R. Watson were appointed handicappers for the first round. The first match will start on Saturday next on the association wicket. The secretary was instructed to convey the thanks of the association to Messrs. F. T. Wimble and Co. for their donation.

A cricket match took place on the University Oval on Monday between elevens from Messrs. Anthony Hordern and Sons, Haymarket, and Messrs. Robert Reid and Co., York-street, resulting in favour of the Haymarket representatives, for whom Harper and Lapthorne bowled admirably. Scores: Anthony Hordern and Sons, 69 and 41; Robert Reid and Co., 36 and 31.

LAWN TENNIS.

A team from the Strathfield Club visited Bowral and played a match against the local team on Monday. An enjoyable day was spent, the visitors being hospitably entertained by Mr. Gavan George and the members of the club. The following are the results of the day's play:—

Strathfield. Bowral.

A. E. Nott and A. H. Bunting beat Dr. Smythe and Church, 6-3, 6-4, 5-6.

A. E. Nott and A. H. Bunting beat Gavan George and H. Rotton, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

D. A. Garling and E. W. Buzacott beat Dr. Smythe and Church, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1.

D. A. Garling and E. W. Buzacott beat Gavan George and H. Rotton, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Results: Strathfield, 11 sets 71 games; Bowral, 1 set 29 games.

Single matches were also played, and they resulted in a win for Strathfield by 6 sets 37 games to 2 sets 26 games.

A mixed lady and gentleman team of the Lorelly Club met and defeated a like team of the West Marrickville Club, on Saturday, after an interesting game. Scores:—

THE NEW TYRANNY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The so-called representation of labour in the New South Wales Legislative Assembly is practically nothing of the kind, most of the self-styled labour representatives being simply so many trade union delegates, who have been returned under what may fairly be designated false pretences, seeing that they are attempting to legislate only for a section of the industrial community, and not for the general interest. All the earlier struggles of trades unionism had for their object the legal recognition of the right of working men to combine. Now the principal aim appears to compel them to combine, no matter how unwilling many may be to sacrifice their freedom and become the helpless slaves of their fellows. Many have joined trades unions simply to escape the bitter persecutions to which they would otherwise be exposed. In so doing they frequently incur obligations which their limited means prevent them from promptly meeting, and for which they get little or no return. Instead of meeting with assistance or sympathy from the better-to-do class of unionists, these men, whose only offence is their poverty, are to be treated as criminals. The most inveterate opponent of trade unionism would have hesitated to accuse its members of such tyrannical conduct, yet in a bill introduced by Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, one of the members for West Sydney, "to provide for the recovery of contributions to the funds of trade unions from members of such unions," and the second reading of which is fixed for Wednesday next, it is provided that any member of a trade union becomes liable for any contribution to the general or special fund of such union, "legal proceedings may be taken by the trustees or secretary of such union to recover the sum owing by him in any Court of Petty Sessions in the petty sessions district within or nearest to which the place of meeting of such union is held." It is then provided that such Court shall have power to hear and determine such proceedings in a summary way, and to make such order for the payment of the sum found to be due, and of such costs as the Court may think just, in accordance with the Acts regulating summary proceedings before justices, and such order may be enforced in default of compliance with the terms thereof by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defendant, and in default of distress or payment, the defendant may be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month, or until the sum ordered to be paid be sooner paid. Such a proposal is simply monstrous. It signifies that the moment a man becomes, of his own free will or by compulsion, a member of a trade union, he not only surrenders his liberty, but places all his property at the disposal of the union. As there is nothing to prevent the measure having a retrospective effect, it will be in the power of any union, should the bill become law, to demand payment of all arrears, no matter for how many years back, from members of the union. The power thus conferred upon unionist officials is tremendous. They will have the power of reducing their poorer or least willing members to a state of helpless poverty, or of casting them into prison. It is the first step in the direction of abolishing the freedom of labour, of making membership of a trade union compulsory. But if these organisations are so much in favour with the working classes, why the necessity for invoking the aid of the law in obtaining payment of arrears, of threatening defaulting members, not with expulsion or loss of benefits, but with loss of furniture, tools, and other property, or with imprisonment? Such a power has never been sought by any other kind of working-class organisation in the world. Even the American "Knights of Labour" dared not venture upon such a dangerous experiment. If the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales allows such an unjust and cruel measure to pass, it will be false to the principles of constitutional liberty and progress. It will be another link in the chain forged by the few for the enslavement of the many. At first sight the provisions of the bill appear harmless enough, but when it is considered what a tremendous power it places in the hands of those most likely to make a tyrannical use of it, its inexpediency, to use the mildest term, becomes immediately apparent. It is not framed in the real interests of labour, but is intended to be used as a weapon for its oppression, and for this reason, if for no other, should not have a place in the statute book of New South Wales. I am, &c.,

STATE EDUCATION IN VICTORIA.

(From the Age.)

The State would not have undertaken the business of public instructor if it could in any other way have ensured the rising generation being trained to become good and intelligent citizens. Every one at the present day recognises that democratic forms of government cannot possibly be successful if the people are left in ignorance, and no method has been found so effective in disseminating knowledge as the establishment of State-supported schools, and the insistance on all youth being instructed up to the standard maintained in them. With or without formal moral lessons, good teachers will turn out well behaved pupils; but if the State now withdraws "morals and manners" from its programme of instruction, the enemies of the system may insinuate that the teachers are in effect told that this subject is one of little consequence.

Of course nothing can be attempted that will satisfy those resolutely bent on remaining antagonistic. There are members of the Roman Catholic clergy who, like Archdeacon Slattery, began to abuse the Act 19 years ago when it was adopted, and who keep up the abuse with persistency worthy of a better cause. Nothing could prevent that. Our educational system, which leaves religious teaching to the parent and the Church, is denounced as godless; and the New South Wales system, in which a watery solution of religion is infused, is attacked in similar terms. So long as the State in either colony attains the end it has in view it can afford to ignore such assailants. Archdeacon Slattery, speaking recently at the inauguration of some new Roman Catholic schools in South Melbourne, is reported to have alluded in pitying language to those whom he represented as having gone away from God, truth, holiness, and justice. The only means possessed by the State of discovering what its citizens are like is from the police records. The test may be a vulgar one, but it is bound to be satisfactory from the State's point of view. If those trained in public schools were found monopolising the attention of the police, while none of the co-religionists of Archdeacon Slattery ever saw the interior of the lockup, our legislators would indeed be called upon to reconsider their methods, and set apart a goodly sum to subsidise the priests. Criminal statistics, however, tell a widely different tale. According to the tables published by the Government Statist, there were in the year 1889—the last year of which a complete report is furnished—17.53 Victorians arrested and committed for trial out of each 1000 of Victorians in the population; while of persons hailing from Ireland, where they enjoyed the full benefit of teaching which is represented as alone pure and moral, 84.94 were arrested and committed for trial out of 1000. Moreover, glancing at religions for the same year, we find that of Roman Catholics the number per 1000 arrested and committed is 59.82, and of Protestants 26.12. It would task the casuistry of a Machiavelli to twist the significance of the lesson which these figures present. So long as the goodness of a tree is to be recognised by its fruit, as we are assured on the highest authority, the mass of Victorians will be eager to adhere to their present educational system, and not hand it over to be remodelled by Archdeacon Slattery.

LITERARY COINCIDENCES.

(From the Daily News.)

While it is acknowledged that all jocular stories or chestnuts are as ancient as the everlasting hills, the world is slow to acknowledge that other repetitions in literature may be chance coincidences. Everyone knows that scientific discoveries are often made separately by different persons. The case of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Darwin is familiar, and, if scientific critics were as foolish as many reviewers, both gentlemen would have been accused of pilfering from Lucretius or Lamarck. There are only so many possible combinations of ideas in the world, and different people must often hit on the same combination. It is familiarly known to the Psychical Society that two persons may, at the same moment, dream the same dream. Much more then may wits jump, when in search of a plot for a story. But the basest sort of critic never can or never will believe this, and it would be hard to find a successful author who has not been branded as a plagiarist. The unsuccessful author escapes condemnation on this score. Some years ago a young author, who had made a great success with his first book, had all the dead cats and rotten eggs of cheap reviewers hurled at him, because the plot of his second book resembled that of an older novel. In his book, and in its predecessor, a man tried to make wealth and fame by publishing the MS. of another as his own. Now, the elder of the two romances, though not, perhaps, very widely known, was a common object on the railway bookstalls. Was it very likely that a young author, on the threshold of his career, would be such a fool as to steal, from a very accessible source, a novel about stealing a novel? It was not in nature that any man, short of being a born idiot, should do such a thing. The fundamental idea was one that might have occurred to any mind; it had been used by a third person, Mr. Grenville Murray, and was, indeed, so obvious that it may have been employed a dozen times. Who first used the notion of the person lost at sea, believed to be dead, and turning up again? It is as old as the Odyssey. It occurs in Chinese; yet it is always being discovered by novelists, as Mr. Gandish discovered the tale of Alfred and the burnt cakes. Then there is the uncle who makes the very will that he should not have made, with the exact provisions which act as a dam on the stream of true love. Mr. Hardy employs this elderly device in "Two on a Tower," but only an imbecile would accuse him of having stolen it. The notion is conspicuously obvious. Nobody who thinks it worth picking up can miss this glittering jewel of fancy.

Occasionally the coincidences are not coincidences at all. Two men go to Africa in search of a very old woman, and find her. This was declared to be plagiarised from a novel of Moore's, in which an Athenian goes to Egypt in search of immortality, and finds a young lady who converts him to the Christian dogma. The shadowy resemblance here does not even amount to a casual coincidence. Again, if two persons have to describe the same event, and describe it well, they must tell much the same story, must "be in a tale" together. Yet one of them will call heaven and earth to witness that he described a submarine earthquake in the Peckham Rye Gazette before the other described it in a novel, and that the new earthquake must be "his" old earthquake, stolen and mutilated. The resources of spite, ignorance, and vanity are endless. Very often, when a book or play succeeds, some foolish person declares that it is plagiarised from a play or story of his own, which not only did not succeed, but was never even acted or printed. On the face of things it is hardly improbable that an inventive and popular author will go about stealing from the waste-paper baskets of those who have been tried and found wanting. It is easier by a great deal to invent than to pilfer, though, in the nature of things, the same notions may occur to him who fails as to him who succeeds. The notion is not all the battle, nor an eighth of the battle: success comes from the treatment of the notion. Mrs. Burnett wrote a popular tale about a small boy in a velvet tunic, and somebody who had written a tale, not popular, about another child in a velvet tunic, went about claiming the tunic, and averring that the infant had been kidnapped. Charity believeth all things, spite believeth anything, and probably many very dull persons believe all this kind of nonsense, and some of the mud sticks. In Byron's letters we see that he was always foreseeing charges of plagiarism, and making himself anxious about them. Nobody who is fortunate enough to become known can avoid the rotten eggs of envy. Edgar Poe, who should have known better, used to try to prove that Longfellow was a plagiarist. Cretins may still be found who think that he "stole" "Hiawatha" from the Finnish "Kalewala." Poe himself was accused of "cribbing" a book on conchology or botany, or some such subject; for attacking Longfellow, he deserved to be made uncomfortable.

There are coincidences that seem too close in detail to be accidental. Thus an Irish American wrote a good tale of an invisible but palpable ghost. So did M. Guy de Maupassant. So far all might be coincidence. But when an English author in a story took a cast of the ghost in plaster of Paris, and when the American had done the same, the theory of chance coincidence had to be worked very hard. And, indeed, there was no chance in the matter. The American tale had won its way into legend and chance conversation, without name of author, or knowledge that it had ever been published. Any writer may blamelessly adopt, with certain limitations, any "masterless" floating anecdote. In the same way, an American and an English story about the marriage of a certain Sally have lately exercised the pursuer of plagiarisms. Apparently both tales were independently founded on the same facts, on the same anecdote. Where many authors are lying in wait for good and useful anecdotes, a kind of coincidence must occur which look very like plagiarism. But the real crime of plagiarism is as rare as charges of plagiarism are common. Neither Milton, nor Molière, nor Shakespeare, nor Bunyan has escaped the imbecile assaults of the impotent and incompetent.

PLANTING THE RAILWAY RESERVES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I read with much interest your article in to-day's issue on wattle planting in the railway reserves. I would point out, if the planting is confined to portions only much benefit might be derived in the shape of revenue; but to plant the whole or even the greater portion of these reserves with trees would, in my opinion, be a most egregious mistake, as they serve as nurseries for the propagation of the better class of native grasses and edible bushes, which in these days of overstocking would, without these protected areas, soon disappear.

I refer to the "blue," "barley," and "Mitchell" grasses, "wild carrot," "saltbush," and "saline herbs," all noted for their fattening properties, which under the ægis of the railway fence thrive, and annually shed their seeds, to be scattered by the wind far and wide over the vast plains of the interior, replenishing the pastures, and adding to their wealth one hundredfold. When planting, the jarrah of Western Australia might be found to thrive, also the native sandalwood of Queensland with a little cultivation might be found to be as valuable as the sandalwood of the South Sea Islands.

I am, &c., E. W. LAMB.

Mr. W. E. Selleck, of Chicago, writing to an American scientific journal, calls attention to the fact that lead pipes are sometimes pierced by insects. He also mentions that he possesses a lead bullet which he cut from the tree under which Generals Grant and Pemberton arranged for the surrender of Vicksburg, Missouri. The bullet was lodged under the bark when he found it, and was perforated with three small holes made by an insect. One of the holes contained a specimen of the insect at the time.

BUILDING SOCIETIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I notice in your issue of Saturday a letter from "A Poor and Discontented Depositor" of the Sydney Permanent Freehold Land and Building Society. He says that he desires a depositors' committee to be formed, and that he wishes my resolution to that effect had been carried. At the depositors' meeting I moved for the formation of a committee, but the meeting refused to entertain the idea for a moment. Nevertheless, I still think it should be done, for the following reasons:—It must never be forgotten that the depositors are in the position of creditors, and the shareholders and directors are their debtors. The debtors are at present unable to pay what they owe; and they will not be able to pay until they get in money in one or other of four ways—firstly, by borrowing it from some financial institution; secondly, by getting in the money owed to them by borrowers and time-payment purchasers; thirdly, by selling their land; fourthly, by calling upon their shareholders. As to the first, if they borrow money they will have to pledge the lands which the company now owns and the mortgages which the company now holds. These lands and mortgages are at present the depositors' security for the money which is owed them, and before this security is parted with a pledged the depositors should know exactly what is being done, and should therefore have a committee or a representative to act for them.

As to the second, the money due from borrowers and buyers of land is put down at a lump sum on the society's balance-sheet. It is quite certain that a proportion of these borrowers and buyers will fail to pay up, and their properties will fall, and in some cases have fallen, into the society's hands for realisation. The depositors should know at once how many of such bad debts the society has, and what the securities for them are worth. As to the third, it is here where a depositors' committee or representative is most needed. When it comes to selling the land, the shareholders and directors will, of course, in the society's interest, hold out for the highest prices, and it may be that they will refuse good offers in the hope of land recovering a very high value. A depositors' committee should certainly be formed to see that reasonable offers are not refused. If the society are going to wait till they get boom prices for their land before paying their creditors, the latter will have to wait a long time.

As to the fourth, I do not care to discuss this in connection with this society, as there is no likelihood of need ever arising for it. But in other societies which are asking for time it is pretty certain that all the substantial shareholders will, if possible, slip away out of the society by transferring their shares to men of straw. And the depositors should certainly protect themselves against this.

In conclusion, I would warn all depositors that they must give time to the societies if they wish to get their money. The weaker the society the more it is to the depositors' interests to give time. The weak societies will not be able to borrow, and their shareholders will probably turn out broken reeds. The only reliance can be found in the land and the securities, and if the depositors force these into the market now they will make a terrible and an unnecessary loss. But in all cases, whether the society be strong or weak, the depositors should act unitedly through a committee or a representative. I am, &c.,

THE GENERAL SYNOD AND THE PRIMACY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I trust that the Determination recently passed by the General Synod will be received by the members of the Synod of Sydney as an honest effort to settle a difficult question. The difficulty was how to conserve the legitimate rights of the diocese of Sydney in the choice of its bishop, and at the same time to conserve the rights, equally legitimate, of the Bench of Bishops in the choice of their Primate. A short way out of the difficulty was to separate the Primacy from the See of Sydney, and leave the bishops free to elect anyone out of their own number. To this there was on all sides the greatest repugnance. It was felt that it should only be adopted in the very last resort. So then it remained to ascertain the rights of the diocese and the rights of the bishops, and to try and provide for them both. The rights of the diocese appeared to be that no man should be appointed to whom the diocese had a decided objection; the rights of the bishops appeared to be the same. By the course adopted these rights on the part of the diocese are secured by giving to it, through its committee, the sole power of nomination. The rights of the bishops are equally secured by giving to them the power of rejection or veto. If this should, unhappily, under an overwhelming sense of duty, be exercised, then the committee have the power to nominate another name, and this course is followed until agreement is arrived at. The only weighty objection that was urged against this really was that it afforded no finality. It was said there might be a deadlock, and provision ought to be made against such a disaster. In answer to this, I think it may be urged with extreme force that to make provision against a deadlock really invites a deadlock; and the provisions that were offered on each side were most objectionable to the opposite side.

As the Determination stands at present, each side gives up its own provision against a possible deadlock. But after all is it true that in the Determination as it now stands there is no provision against deadlock? I affirm there is a very real one, but one that is robbed of the sting of each of those proposed by either side. The one was "delegation;" the diocese would not hear of that. The other was the adoption of one out of two names proposed by the committee; the bishops would not hear of that. Each of these was out of, and depended on, previous disagreement; each invited disagreement on the one side or the other. As it stands now, deadlock is provided against by agreement; there is nothing to invite disagreement. Surely it is not possible that two such bodies as the bench of bishops and a select committee of the Sydney Synod could fail after amicable conference to come to agreement. I trust the time may be far distant when the Determination may require to be acted on, but I sincerely hope that it may not be long before the Synod of Sydney can see its way to accept it. For it must also be borne in mind, as a proof of the sincere desire of the General Synod to study as far as possible the wishes of the Sydney Synod, that, unlike all other determinations, it is provided that this one shall only come into force and be operative so soon as all the dioceses, of course Sydney included, have accepted it. If the Synod of Sydney should unfortunately reject it, it seems impossible to make any other provision by which the Primacy can be annexed permanently to that See; and it is easy to see in how many ways not only the Church in the Sydney Diocese but the whole church of Australia would suffer loss. I am, &c.,

GREAT BARCOM-STREET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—We boast of the great progress of this our country, and draw the attention of the world by every means in our power to the great work of our first century, &c., but I would like to draw the attention of the worthy Mayor and city fathers to the fact that just from the entrance to Oxford-street, and on the side of the Brewery Hotel in Great Barcom-street, there is a piece of pavement, or what should be a pavement, about 50ft., that from the time of Captain Cook to the advent of General Booth has never even been kerbed and guttered, and is still in its virgin state. Yet every other portion of this said pavement is kerbed and guttered and asphalted, and has been for many years. This is an outrage to our present state of civilisation and dangerous to the extreme. Perhaps I might be allowed to place the matter thus: I believe the Brewery Hotel is rated both in Sydney and Paddington (this is a fact), consequently a slice is supposed to belong to Sydney and the other slice to the borough of Paddington, and as far as can be seen at present both city and borough claim it is not responsible, for each states it belongs to the other. Now, this state of things is most pitiable in the extreme, and unless something is done, and this piece of what should be pavement is kerbed and guttered, some person some day will be seriously injured, and lay damages against either the city or Paddington, and there will then be a high pretty to do between both, for ownership will have to be proved, and it certainly will be a grand feast for the lawyers. This, I think, should be prevented, and to prevent any accidents happening at this spot, and the chance of heavy after expenses. If the city and Paddington cannot agree which this piece or strip belongs to, it would be far better for both to combine and have it immediately placed in order. This Oxford-street entrance to Great Barcom-street is now daily getting an increased and huge vehicle traffic, and foot passengers must be protected at any cost. Indeed, this boundary part between the city and Paddington is a standing disgrace to a white man. I am, &c.,

THE LYRE BIRDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Admiring your numerous correspondents' protests against the ignorant and wilful demolition of our beautiful native flowers by the careless and unthinking, and your vigorous leaders in the same strain, perhaps I might be allowed to draw the powerful attention of the press to the unwarranted and scandalous destruction of the few remaining specimens of that most beautiful lyre bird. It is well known that the lyre birds are getting rapidly extinct, and yet by appearances its wilful destruction goes on apace. As example, I may state what I saw last year, and is now to be seen continually again, and which thousands of your readers must have also seen, that is a man, evidently from the country, with a large basket on his arm patrolling around the district of the Post Office, laden and offering for sale the most beautiful tails of the lyre birds.

I am, &c., CORNISHMAN.

FASTING IN THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a rule I object to replying to anonymous correspondents; in the case of "Bathurstensis" I will break my rule. As I have not a copy of the Book of Homilies by me, I must refer him to a letter of the Rev. Dr. Barry, which appeared in your issue the day before my letter, in which he gives a statement of the Book of Homilies, in which your correspondent will find the whole matter explained ex cathedrâ. The other matters in "Bathurstensis'" letter are not fit matters for a newspaper correspondence, and, in any case, I should refuse to enter into them with any person who refused or neglected to give his name. On the Stock Exchange of New South Wales the following sale was reported:—Mercantile Mutual Insurance, 5s 7d. The following were the closing quotations, except those corresponding with the figures of the Sydney Stock Exchange published above:—Australian Banking, seller 85s; Mercantile Bank, seller 14s; City Mutual Insurance, buyer 2s; Mercantile Insurance, buyer 5s 6d, seller 6s; Hudson Bros., seller 4s 3d; Picturesque Atlas, seller 15s 6d; Shale and Oil, buyer 4s 3d, seller 5s 6d; Mont de Piété, seller 25s 6d; Anglo-Australian Investment, 20s paid, seller 14s 6d—£5 paid, seller 92s 6d; Equitable Building, buyer 64; National Land, seller 92s 6d; Sydney Permanent Land, seller 17; Sydney and Suburban Land, buyer 17s 6d.

The London money market has still a hardening tendency, three months' bills in the open market being quoted at 3¾ per cent.

At a meeting of Dalgety and Company, Limited, to be held in London on the 19th instant, the directors propose to declare a dividend of 4s per share, being (with the interim dividend already declared paid) at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum for the 12 months ended 30th June, and they will also recommend that £10,000 be carried to reserve fund, which will then stand at £130,000, and that £20,000 be applied in extinction of the "goodwill" item, leaving £4851 to be carried forward to the next half-year.

The annual meeting of shareholders in the Colonial Finance, Mortgage, Investment, and Guarantee Corporation, Limited, was held to-day. Mr. Bruce Smith occupied the chair. The other directors present were: Messrs. David Wilson, J. B. Christian, William Beaumont, John Callaghan, and Leonard Dodds. In the report submitted it was stated that after deducting rebate on current bills, interest accrued on deposits, and making ample provision for bad and doubtful debts, there remained to the credit of profit and loss the sum of £8754, which (after deducting interim dividend paid in March last, amounting to £1875) left a net available sum of £6879, which the directors propose to appropriate as follows:—Dividend at 10 per cent., £1936; preliminary expenses (written off), £562; office furniture (written off), £114; reserve fund (making a total of £9000), £2000; equalisation dividend fund (making a total of £1500), £500; carried forward, £1766. The chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that in the figures placed before the shareholders by the present board, they had shown them nothing more than they were justified in representing, even taking the most pessimistic view of the company's transactions. They had had no desire to put any artificial face on the affairs of the company by paying unreasonable dividends, preferring, in regard to the profits they had made, to pay a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent., carrying forward whatever they had made over that to their reserve fund, to make provision for a rainy day in case it should come upon them. In view of what had taken place in this community during the last month, it would doubtless be satisfactory for them to learn that, with the exception of the first year of the history of the company, the directors had not invested one shilling in land purchases. (Hear, hear.) They did purchase in the first year two city properties, one of which was producing 6½ per cent., and the other 5½ per cent. He was happy to state that the directors had not noticed any alteration whatever in regard to the coming and going of deposits. They had had no unusual call upon them for deposits, and they had had nothing whatever unusual in the matter of incoming deposits. They had been particularly careful not to burden themselves, so to speak, with a very large amount of call deposits, which might cripple the company at any moment in the event of the public losing confidence in it. It had been their aim to get deposits on call turned into fixed deposits, so that if the call deposits were asked for they could be met readily without any inconvenience. He explained some of the operations of the company, and said that as against their "contingent liabilities, current £135,755," they had securities valued at £343,000. He described the interest which the company had in the Imperial Arcade, and said that the directors had "not added one penny interest to the amount invested by the company in the arcade." The same observation applied to their city properties. The securities of the company had been very carefully examined, and their correctness had been certified to. The adoption of the report was seconded by Mr. W. J. Green and agreed to. Mr. David Wilson and Mr. J. B. Christian were re-elected directors; and Mr. A. R. Troup and Mr. Thomas Butterfield were re-elected auditors. It was resolved to alter the articles of association so as to provide for the remuneration to the directors being increased from £700 to £900 per annum. A vote of thanks having been accorded to the chairman, the proceedings terminated.

Proceedings in connection with the reconstruction of three of the land and building companies are in progress. In accordance with the resolution of the depositors of the Metropolitan Mutual Permanent Building and Investment Association, the doors of the office were open to-day for the payment of all deposits under £100, with interest accrued to date. As an indication of the restoration of confidence, applications for only three small deposits were made. On the clear and assuring statement made by the chairman at the meeting of the adequacy of the assets, even the small depositors are evidently reassured of the soundness of the institution, and not seeing any prospect of getting a more solid investment, combined with a good interest return, for their money elsewhere, they are simply leaving their deposits where they are. Still, to make the position even more assured against the possibility of any such run in future, the manager, in accordance with the resolution passed at the meeting, is issuing circulars to all the larger depositors giving their written concurrence to the resolution passed unanimously to the effect that they were willing to renew their deposits for one year on their maturity, when, if required, they would be paid by means of the arrangements which the directors had matured. The directors of the Sydney Permanent Freehold Land and Building Society are also perfecting their schemes for the resumption of business; and there is no reason to doubt that with the large amount of their liquid business they will be equally successful in re-establishing the company on even a more permanent basis. At a meeting of depositors in the Excelsior Land Investment and Building Company and Bank this afternoon, the assurances of the board as to the stability of the institution, shown by their own large interests, which they had arranged to still further increase by adding to the capital and giving their personal guarantees for large sums, were very favourably received. The proposals made by them gave depositors three options—the privilege of taking up preferential shares to bear interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, or of taking up debentures having a currency of 10 years, and bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, or of renewing their deposits on maturity, one quarter being payable at the end of one year, a second quarter at the end of two years, a third quarter at the end of three years, and the fourth quarter at the end of four years, interest being payable on the amounts held half-yearly at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. The latter proposal was adopted, an assurance being given that the cases of depositors of small amounts would be favourably entertained with the view of giving them any necessary relief. Institutions having considerable amounts of borrowed money, however solvent they may be, cannot guarantee that restoration of confidence which will justify the return of deposits at due dates as they would doubtless have been paid, and renewed had there been no scare; and therefore the directors do not care to take the risk of promising payment at such dates. But we think that there can be very little doubt that in the case of all sound institutions, there will be a return of confidence long before the maturity of the first year's deposits, in which case the directors will no doubt be able to relax the terms of the proposed contract, and pay off such of the depositors as may require payment long before the end of four years. The extra time is simply a matter of precaution to prevent possible embarrassment. One important point, which no doubt will weigh with all depositors, is that in all probability they will secure their deposits quite as quickly through the company being continued in existence as through liquidation, and probably even more quickly if there be such a restoration of confidence as will lead other depositors to offer their money, and thus render unnecessary the continuance of the conditions for a prolonged period of repayment. No doubt this will be found to apply to the cases of depositors of all solvent institutions, which are now in course of re-construction. Investors will not permanently abandon a substantial investment giving a good interest return. A scare cannot last for ever.

A meeting of depositors in the Mutual Provident Land, Investment, and Building Company held this evening, at which a statement was submitted showing an excess of assets, sanctioned a proposal for voluntary liquidation. It was stated that in this way the business would be conducted with least expense and most satisfactorily in the interests of all concerned, and that the depositors would probably receive every penny of the amount owing to them.

The petition for the winding up of the Australian Mutual Investment and Building Company, filed in Equity by Thomas Saywell and wife, was, to-day, by consent, withdrawn.

In the Import markets to-day business opened rather quietly after the holiday, though some distributing houses report a good trade. It can hardly be otherwise than that the country trade will be brisk for the next two months. Buyers are not purchasing large quantities, but the orders are numerous, implying that stocks generally are bare, and that orders will have to be repeated at an early date. Bills for the month have been fairly well met, despite the failures of land and building companies. The position of flour is still a firm one, with a good trade doing. Roller brands are moving off at from £12 10s to £13 10s; stone makes from £11 to £12. No business of consequence in tea came under notice. Auction catalogues of China and Indian are to be submitted at the City Mart to-morrow (Wednesday). The firmer position of sugar in Queensland is thus referred to by Friday's Brisbane Courier:—"The principal matter of interest to-day in business circles was the advance made by the agents of Millaquin and Yengarie sugar, an advance equal to, say, £1 per ton. Sales were made last week at £19, but Messrs. Cran and Co. will not now accept less than £20 for No. 1. Fairymead was firmer early in the week, and quoted at £19 10s to £20, but it is likely that to-morrow all first-class whites will be held for £20. That the position warrants the advance there is no doubt." Sugar was quitted in Brisbane for export. Mauritius news to September 8 has been received. According to the Revue Commercial de Gondin, Contanceau et Cie. cane-cutting had been suspended in consequence of the rainy and humid weather. There was nothing in the market suited for Australia, such sugars usually being late; but the market was likely to be amply supplied with sugars of all sorts during the course of September. Locally about 30 tons of an auction catalogue of white sugar was sold at £24, the market having a perceptibly firmer tendency. Among other lines reported by Messrs. Harris and Ackman were the following:—80 boxes of muscatels at 8d; 40 boxes valencias, 4½d; 46 boxes dates, 2d; 80 cases salmon, 5s; 34 half-barrels white herrings, 11s 6d per barrel; 1000 Havana cigars, Imperials, duty paid, £22. There was more inquiry for rice, both fine and ordinary quality being rather firmer. About 400 tons of Black Horse salt was placed, including a quantity to arrive; late rates being maintained. The market for grocery goods generally is without material change. For brewers' goods there is an increasing demand, which will probably be extended as the warm weather sets in. We note the sale of about 25 quarter-casks of port wine. Fairly good lines of spirits have been placed. Large transactions in Bulldog ale. Pig stout, 9s 6d and 6s 6d, quarts and pints respectively. Metals unaltered. Jute goods quoted at late rates.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. advertise for sale by auction to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, Foochow, Indian, and Ceylon teas. In the afternoon, cargo of oregon, ex the Florence Treat.

Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, report the receipt of a cablegram from their London agents, Messrs. Sanderson, Murray, and Co., reading as follows:—"There is a better spirit in the market. Larger attendance of buyers. Prices are unaltered."

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £2712 5s 11d; wine, still, £22 10s; wine, sparkling, £5 10s; ale, porter, and beer, in wood, £570; ale, porter, and beer, in bottles, £53 9s 6d; tobacco and snuff, £661 15s; tobacco, unmanufactured, for manufacturing purposes only, £691 1s; cigars, £314 14s; tea, £414 8s 4d; sugar, unrefined, £503 10s 8d; opium, £47 15s; rice, £66 19s 3d; dried fruits, £162 3s. Specific duty: Bacon and hams, £8 17s 2d; candles, £4 18s 8d; cement, £30; cocoa and chocolate, £221 13s 4d; confectionery, £35 17s 1d; cornflour, £18 13s 4d; essences under 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £1 6s 6d; essences over 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £5 4s 7d; fish, £16 3s 4d; galvanised iron, £39 5s 6d; galvanised manufactures, £70 14s 2d; iron and steel wire, £63 15s 7d; jams and jellies, £6; oil, kerosene, £7 2s; oils, other, £77; paints, £44 7s 1d; powder, blasting, £12 8s 4d; powder, sporting, £14 6s; preserves, £1 13s; salt, £5; spirits, methylated, £53; timber, dressed, £1 9s 3d; timber, undressed, £317 12s 6d; varnish, £22. Total, £8734 14s 7d.

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAMS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

Wheat is stagnant, the millers not caring to operate until absolutely obliged to do so. Bran is quiet at 1s. At the sugar auction only two lots were sold, medium white fetching £21 10s and low white £21. Subsequently 1900 packages were placed, including fine Queensland, at £21 15s. Considerable private sales of tea have been made. The combination between the metal and hardware houses is now ended as regards prices, but it is maintained for other purposes. Kerosene is selling at 8½d for low screw, and 9d for patent nozzles. J.D.K.Z. has advanced 1s per case. There was a rather firm tone in the share market to-day, and business was of a fair extent, with rather better prices ruling in a good many cases. Among investment stocks Melbourne Tramway and Omnibus, Silverton Tramway, and Tarrawingee Flux had good demand, and sold higher. Standard White Lead sold higher, but did not maintain the advance. Bank shares are firm at late prices. Zeehan Railway quitted at reduced prices. There is not much change in other investment stocks. Sales:—City of Melbourne Bank, £5 19s; Commercial, £11 4s; Mercantile, 5½s; Victoria, £9 19s; Australian Deposit and Mortgage, £50; Real Estate, 6s; Standard, 60s; Carlton West End, 20s; Castlemaine, 57s 6d; Union Trustees, 26s 6d; Deniliquin and Moama Railway, 95s; Melbourne Tramway and Omnibus, 41s 3d, 41s 9d; Silverton Tramway, £7 8s, £7 13s; Tarrawingee Flux, 97s, 101s; Zeehan Railway, 10s 6d, 10s 3d; Broken Hill Water, 8s 9d; Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., 24s 6d; Hydraulic Power, 24s; Standard White Lead, 8s 6d, 7s 10d; T. K. Bennett, 17s 9d.

ENGLISH COMMERCIAL NEWS.

[BY CABLE.]

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, OCT. 5.

The present stocks of copper in England and France amount to 53,350 tons. The quantity advised from Chili and Australia amounts to 5300 tons. The total imports into England and France during the past month were 7200 tons. The deliveries in England and France during the same period were 11,950 tons.

The market rate of discount for three months' bills is 3¾ per cent.

The price of bar silver to-day is 3s 8 13-16d per oz.

PRODUCE MARKET.—TUESDAY.

This morning there was a tolerably large attendance of the trade at the Redfern forage auction sales. The accumulation of supplies since Friday amounted to 56 trucks, 20 consisting of chaff, 33 of hay, and four of straw. A steady demand prevailed throughout the sales, but the prices obtained for good oaten hay were lower than those current at last Friday's auction. The market for choice lots of chaff was firm. At the wharfs supplies have been replenished from our various Northern rivers and Southern coastal sources and the neighbouring colonies. Business opened after the holiday very quietly. Further advanced prices were reported for fresh New Zealand potatoes. The values of Victorian onions ruled firm. Except for bacon, all kinds of dairy produce commanded attention. Poultry sells freely. Particulars of the business transacted at the Redfern forage sales were as follows:—

Hay.—Better consignments than at last Friday's auction. Lucerne, in bales, from Bathurst, realised 3s 9d per cwt.; Wellington, 3s 1d; George's Plains, brown, 2s 6d; best oaten, in bundles, 4s 6d to 4s 9d; other kinds, 3s 1d to 4s 6d.

Straw.—Limited supplies. Derrick-pressed bales from Mudgee, 3s 9d per cwt.

Chaff.—Choice lots of oaten and wheaten mixed, in bags, sold at 4s to 4s 4d per cwt.; prices of other qualities ranged from 3s to 3s 11d; lucerne, in bags, 2s 7d and 4s.

At the wharfs the wholesale quotations were:—

Wheat.—Only nominal prices ruling for milling lines.

Flour.—Quotations of stone-made flour were £11 to £12 per ton; roller brands, £12 10s to £13 10s.

Bran.—Supplies have been augmented from New Zealand. Unaltered 9½d to 9¾d per bushel.

Pollard quoted to 9½d per bushel.

Maize.—This market remains steady. Good Northern Rivers lots, free from weevil, at 2s 4d per bushel.

Oats.—Prices of best bright heavy feed samples ranged from 1s 10d to 2s per bushel; other varieties, 1s 8d; seed to 2s 1d.

Hay.—Well-saved dry green leafy Hunter River lucerne hay commanded attention at £3 to £3 10s per ton; other sorts in small request, £2 to £2 15s.

Chaff.—Additional consignments arrived this morning. Quotations, £3 to £4 per ton.

Onions.—Good sound shipments of Victorian varieties worth £3 15s to £4 per ton.

Potatoes.—The market for Circular Head potatoes rules fairly firm at £3 per ton. Best New Zealand, 30s to £2.

Butter.—The standard price for Illawarra factory-made was 9d per lb; dairy lots, 7d.

Cheese.—Colonial makes in steady request. Quotations, 5½d to 7d per lb; small lines to 7½d.

Bacon.—Hand-cured, southern, quoted, 6d to 6½d per lb; machine-cured, 4½d to 5½d per lb; roll, 7d.

Lard.—Best in bladders, 4½d to 5d per lb.

Eggs.—Colonial lines still saleable, 8½d to 8¾d per dozen.

Poultry.—In demand. Fowls, 3s 3d to 4s per pair; ducks, 3s 9d to 5s; geese, 6s 6d to 7s 6d; turkeys, 6s to 11s.

LEATHER SALES.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, and Winchcombe, Carson, and Co. report that yesterday's auction leather sales were characterised by very limited competition. Light tweed leathers were accorded the most attention, but only at a low range of prices. Shippers in sole only operated on a small scale. Basils sold at late rates. Harness, bridle, and bag leathers were almost entirely neglected.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

The mining market yesterday was dull. At the opening of 'Change ruling prices were lower than the closing quotations on Saturday, but during the afternoon there was a slight improvement in values. A parcel of Proprietary scrip changed hands at £8 10s. Central were disposed of at £6 5s 6d to £6 7s, and business was done in South at 85s 6d to 87s. Sunny Corner weakened to £1. Central Block were unaltered in value at 7s. A few Bonanza Consols were placed on the market, and realised 8d. In gold stocks the only transactions recorded were in Baker's Creek at 31s and 31s 6d; in Last Call at prices ranging from 9s 6d to 9s; and in Jersey, contributing at 6d. Wickham and Bullock Island Coal obtained 22s.

CRUSHING AND SMELTING RETURNS.

Last Chance United.—Total yield, 19oz. 2dwt.

New Normanby.—Yield from 443 tons, 180oz. 5dwt.

North Woah Hawp.—Crushed 269 tons for 96oz.

Little Tichborne Gold-mining Company, Swamp Oak.—Have started driving for reef from straight shaft. Eight tons of stone from surface near No. 1 shaft yielded 19oz. 19dwts. of gold, and 36 tons obtained in sinking shafts yielded 7oz. gold.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Central Broken Hill Silver-mining Company, Limited, September 30.—400ft. level: North shaft, timbering has been completed to a depth of 57ft. below 400ft. level, and owing to influx of water in this shaft work has been temporarily suspended. Eastern crosscut of north shaft extended 12ft., total 88ft. Water winze sunk 1ft., total 71ft. South drive off east crosscut from 600ft. winze extended 9ft., total 13ft. Rise over 750ft. crosscut timbered and divided 23ft., and the top is now on a level with sill of fifth floor in main north stopes. 300ft. level: Rise over 600ft., crosscut extended 2ft., total 20ft. Owing to a large number of miners being laid up with influenza much dead and progressive work has been idle, as the men working have been mostly engaged stoping. In main shaft everything is now in readiness to commence sinking, and operations will take place immediately. Stopes are yielding usual quantity and quality of ore, and water supply is as usual.

Central Blocks Silver-mining Company, Limited, September 30.—Shaft sunk 5ft., total 400ft. East crosscut at 300ft. level extended 8ft.; total distance driven 100ft. North drive at same level extended 9ft.; total distance 64ft. In north drive there is a vein of decomposed schist rock from 4in. to 5in. thick, and more water is making in this drive. The eastern crosscut is in a micaceous schist rock.

Golden Gully Gold-mining Company, Limited.—270ft. level: Eastern crosscut extended 8ft. 6in.; total from main shaft, 33ft. At 33ft. from shaft a slide was met with, which very probably has disturbed fissure reef. Country sandstone, with quartz and calcite intermixed. North drive on clay vein has been extended 13ft.; total from crosscut, 61ft. In 33ft. of sinking the winze will be connected with lower level. Would suggest a rise to meet winze, thus giving air connection in a month; also concentrating labour to drive south on clay vein, so that by the time the winze is connected shall have the big reef, and be in a position to resume crushing forthwith.

Glen Elgin Gold-mining Company.—New mining manager reports having arrived at the mine and gone over workings. No. 3 tunnel in 110ft. reef heavily charged with pyrites. Shaft on top of hill, reef 15in. wide, heavily charged with pyrites, and carrying good gold. This shoot of stone can be traced for over 1000ft. No. 2 shaft should be made larger, and a horse obtained to draw up the quartz. Find about 270ft. from eastern boundary in a hole that has been sunk; more gold visible than in any other part of the mine. Another shaft about 130ft. from it has a shoot of stone, 18in. wide, carrying good payable gold. The little battery will soon be in working order, when some stone will be put through.

Temperance, Ballarat, October 2.—At 875ft. level struck lode (64ft. from shaft) 10in. thick. Have driven north on it 8ft. Lode now 14in. thick, with plenty of mineral, and showing gold. At 800ft. level driven north on lode 8ft., gold showing in stone. Making good headway in cleaning up 850ft. (old) level.

United Albions, Steiglitz, October 2.—Main shaft sunk 3ft. in plunger chamber; total depth, 727ft. Whip-shaft drive on lode extended 6ft.; total, 30ft. 6in.

BEECHAM'S PILLS are universally admitted to be worth a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy and Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in 20 minutes. Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages these Pills are invaluable, as a few doses of them carry off all humours, and bring about all that is required. No female should be without them. There is no medicine to be found equal to Beecham's Pills for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box, they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health. This has been proved by thousands who have tried them, and found the benefits which are ensured by their use.

For a Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, and all Disorders of the Liver, they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders on the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action with the rosebud of health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are FACTS testified continually by members of all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the nervous and debilitated is, BEECHAM'S PILLS have the Largest Sale of any Patent Medicine in the World.

Prepared only, and sold Wholesale and Retail, by the Proprietor, THOMAS BEECHAM, St. Helen's, Lancashire, England, in boxes 1s 1½d (containing 56 pills), and 2s 9d (treble quantity).

Sold by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Dealers everywhere.

N.B.—Full directions are given with each box.

THE VITAL IMPORTANCE to INVALIDS and PHYSICIANS of HAVING PURE MEDICINES dispensed by careful Assistants, supervised by experienced Principals, must be obvious to any thinking person in these days of dangerous cheap physic. SENIOR'S PHARMACY, 246 George-street, is the only retail house which imports its own peculiar class of Pharmaceutical Preparations, which are made specially by one of the first houses in the world.

ABRAHAM'S PILLS are prepared entirely from the vegetable MATERIA MEDICA, and do not contain any mercurial or mineral preparation whatever, and as they gently stimulate the liver and act mildly on the bowels, will be found exceedingly useful where habitual costiveness exists, and being also tonic in their character, no feeling of weakness or prostration will be experienced after taking them, as is often the case after ordinary pills.

As a GENERAL FAMILY MEDICINE they are invaluable, for they may be safely taken by either sex at any time; and as no alteration of diet or confinement to the house is necessitated, they will be found particularly beneficial, for they can thus be taken directly any symptoms of indisposition appear.

In Boxes, 1s, 2s, and 5s.

Prepared only at the Laboratory, 434 GEORGE-STREET, SYDNEY.

SYDNEY MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

TO THE ELECTORS OF FITZROY WARD.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having learned that a great many of my friends had pledged themselves before I announced my intention to become a Candidate for the representation of your Ward in the Municipal Council, I have decided to WITHDRAW from the contest.

I desire to convey my best thanks to the large number of Electors of all classes who volunteered to give me their support, and I deeply regret that owing to the circumstances mentioned I consider it inexpedient to go to the poll.

It is my intention to offer my services on a future occasion, of which I shall take care to give timely notice.

Yours faithfully,
P. J. HOURIGAN.

EXTRACTS from the VISITORS' REMARK BOOK, ORIENTAL HOTEL, SPRINGWOOD, BLUE MOUNTAINS:—
"I have enjoyed a few days' residence at this hotel. I found the attendance and catering superior to any other hotel I have visited, the sitting-rooms, bedrooms, and all other departments provided with every comfort, and the sanitary departments unusually well-appointed. The climate of Springwood I consider the best suited to those who require a change on the Mountains, being not subject to sudden changes of temperature, less exposed to severe winds and damp fogs than other more elevated positions. It is especially suitable to persons who suffer from delicate chests, rheumatic sufferings, or are exhausted from overwork.
"JAMES C. COX, M.D., Macquarie-street."
"July 20, 1891.
"I have found everything most comfortable and pleasant; the climate is superb—warm, balmy days, with sufficient dryness and crispness of the atmosphere to make it exhilarating and bracing. To those who live in coastal towns, and who suffer from chest affections, or are run-down from over-work, such a climate would be most restorative and advantageous.
"August 16, 1891. THOMAS PICKBURN, M.D."
"My family and myself have derived much pleasure and benefit to our health from our stay at the Oriental Hotel, Springwood. The air was perfect—sunny, calm, balmy, yet invigorating; the hotel new and comfortable. I consider Springwood a splendid winter resort for invalids.
"E. SCHWARZBACH, M.D.
"August 16, 1891."
"I have spent a few pleasant days here. The climate is beautiful, and well suited to patients suffering from chest affections. The domestic comforts are more like a well-regulated private home than an Australian hotel.
"T. CHAMBERS, M.D.,
"Lyons-terrace, Sydney."
